MIDNIGHT TOIL — Volunteer workers push their boat "Loveolove" through a small sea of straw spread at the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon, to prevent oil from flowing in. Grading equipment, boats, swimmers and beach volunteers toiled all night under portable lights supplied by Standard Oil Co. and Hamilton Air Force Base. The spreading oil menaced wildlife, beaches and boats along Marin's entire shoreline. (See also photo, page 19)

Oil Spill Spreads; Beaches Hard Hit

Thousands Of Volunteers Out; Inquiry Is Opened

By DAVID DIETZ

The deadly carpet of oil from Monday's tanker crash spread today as thousands of volunteers sought to save the Bay Area's beaches and wildlife from its grasp.

The Coast Guard, which opened a hearing today into the collision that triggered the massive spill, said the oil now was reported as far as 10 miles off the Pacific shore and traces of the goo were showing up for the first time in inner reaches of San Francisco Bay.

Marin beaches and wildlife were hard hit as the oil — sometimes so thick it could be rolled up and deposited in boxes — stained the shoreline from Richardson Bay, Angel Island and Tiburon all the way around to Bolinas Bay on the coast.

Volunteers, many of them students who were dismissed from — or cut — classes to help in the massive cleanup, poured onto beaches and into bird treatment centers.

But the battle, which had continued through the night, appeared to be a losing one as the goo moved inexorably with tide and wind.

The spill was triggered in foggy darkness when two Standard Oil Co. tankers collided near the Golden Gate Bridge. Between 500,000 and 1.1 million gallons spewed from one of the vessels, the Oregon Standard.

In Sacramento and Washington, D.C., legislators called for reforms to avoid similar collisions in the future. President Richard M. Nixon was urged to declare the Bay a disaster area amid observations by conservationists that the spill was worse than the Santa Barbara Channel spill last year.

"The potential for damage is much greater than Santa Barbara," said Michael McCloskey, executive director of the Sierra Club, noting that the Bay contained tidal flats and inlets considered ecologically delicate.

Outside the Golden Gate, the slick reached as far north as Bolinas Bay and south to Pacifica. Traces were reported at heretofore unstained Bay locations in East Berkeley and at Hunter's Point.

'ECOLOGICAL DISASTER'

Bolinas Lagoon Battle Lost

By JEFF GREER

The battle of Bolinas Lagoon was lost about 2:45 a.m. today as hundreds of volunteers, county officials, conservationists and Standard Oil Co. workers watched an incoming tide sweep away three of the four barricades placed across the inlet to the lagoon.

As persons on shore watched helplessly, the currents pushed oil from the Pacific under and over the lone remaining log boom and into the quiet waters of the lagoon.

Workers from the Bolinas Marine Laboratory of the College of Marin were fanning out through the tidelands this morning to assess damage to the thousands of shore birds there.

Onlookers agreed it was an ecological disaster.

"It will be a long time before all this mess is cleaned up," mourned Howard Allen of Belvedere. As chairman of the Audubon Canyon Ranch bird preserve, he was on the Bolinas beach most of yesterday during the long battle to save birds and keep the oil out of the lagoon.

The oil relentlessly floated northward from the Golden Gate, where it spilled early Monday when two Standard Oil Co. tankers collided in dense fog.

By late afternoon yesterday oil lay inches thick in the tidal pools of Agate Beach. Every yard of shoreline along Stinson Beach and Bolinas was covered with blobs of black, sticky goo.

Seemingly more by mutual consent than by any real planning, the battle against the oily invasion centered yesterday morning at the 100-yard-wide mouth of Bolinas Lagoon. The struggle went on throughout the night.

Hundreds of volunteers joined Marin County, Bolinas and Stinson Beach firemen in tugging a series of booms across the inlet. Two of them were built of straw-filled bags wired to heavy lines. Another was a bright yellow, efficient looking plastic construction lent by Shell Oil Co.

The fourth was the log boom.

During the afternoon, the workers spread more straw between the floating barriers. The incoming tides swept much of it into the lagoon. The plastic barricade turned over in the current, then split in two.

As the straw became oil soaked, some of it sank to the shallow bottom. The oil, experts reported, was nearly the same density as water. Some of the blobs will rest on the bottom for months, they said.

While the battle of the booms was going on, scores of other volunteers concentrated on the birds. More than 300 squawking, struggling waterfowl were taken to first air stations at the Marin Biology Laboratory of the College of Marin on Wharf Road in Bolinas. Others were taken to an open-air treatment station at the gatehouse at Seadrift in Stinson Beach.

The bird-cleaning stations were scenes of bedlam.

As the college marine laboratory filled with hundreds of birds in boxes, instructor Craig Hanson sought permission to house the overflow birds in the Bolinas Community Center. It was impossible; a Well-Baby Clinic was going on there.

The volunteers started storing the birds in the lab's attic.

The ecological disaster brought the largest crowd to Bolinas in decades. Schoolchildren from West Marin were joined by scores of other youngsters either released early from classes or simply cutting classes, to help save birds and battle the oil. Hippies toiled side by side with longtime Marin residents.

County Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske, County Fire Chief Louis Bloom, the crewmen from a Civil Defense fire truck stationed in Kentfield, and a dozen county public works and parks employees joined the effort.

Betty Boyd of San Rafael, a longtime conservationist, remarked that the last time she "saw a crowd like this was in the 1930s, when there was an ambergris rush on the coast.

"Then, people thought they were finding wealth. Now, they're trying to save our wealth," she said.

Late in the day, workmen sent by Standard Oil Co. began to appear on the scene. First, a truck arrived with four drums of special oil to clean the birds. Then, seven pieces of grading equipment, portable light standards and two dozen workemen arrived.

The huge volunteer effort drew three college girls from San Francisco, bringing a bale of straw in the back of their tiny sports car. Audubon Canyon Ranch and conservation groups rushed more than 150 bales to the beach early yesterday; Standard Oil brought in 1,500 more in the night.

The battle plan "just sort of happened," Audubon Canyon Ranch naturalist C. W. Zumwalt reported. "It's fantastic what those kids can do," he said, gesturing at the volunteers everywhere on the scene.

Today, the efforts concentrated mainly on bird rescue.

Supervisors May Open Civic Center At Nights

By LARRY MOWELL

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday reaffirmed tight security measures at the Civic Center and Hall of Justice, but took a tentative step back to normal. (Other supervisors' stories, pages 8, 9.)

The board directed Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos to compute the extra cost of keeping the civic center but not the hall open until 9 p.m. or 10 p.m. weekdays. He is to report back in two or three weeks.

The action came after most of the 20 speakers from an audience of 150 labeled the security measures ineffective, offensive, undemocratic and possibly unconstitutional.

County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell, reared in Nazi Germany, said his fellow Germans had allowed themselves to become desensitized by such procedures which led to totalitarianism.

However, Von Gundell represented the minority of persons who work in the guarded buildings. County Auditor Michael Mitchell presented a petition in support of any safety measures the supervisors deem necessary. Mitchell said almost 500 of the county's 700 employees had signed it.

Judges from the Municipal and Superior courts also wrote affirming the need for measures aimed at preventing recurrences of the Aug. 7 shoot-out and the Oct. 8 bombing at the Civic Center.

The session yesterday was the first full-scale reevaluation of security measures at the county offices since supervisors allotted more than $250,000 Oct. 13 to beef up security.

The airing of views began with County Administrator Alan Bruce stating Marin would be "derelict" if it did not continue the present security measures, including use of metal detection devices and random body searches, at least until after the trial of Angela Davis, accused of furnishing weapons used by convicts in the shoot-out.

Speakers criticized Bruce's stand and Cecilia Lannon, an attorney for the Marin Legal Aid Society called it the attitude of somebody who thinks the government is pitted against the people."

Raymond Ahern of the County Employees for an Open Civic Center said there is a climate of fear and suspicion in the Civic Center which seems to say that civil liberties are "too dangerous for troubled times."

Violation of civil liberties also concerned attorneys Lawrence A. Cowen of San Rafael who read from a U.S. Supreme Court decision striking down a New York frisk law. Then he boomed, "The idea of placing your hands upon an individual infringes upon his personal liberty."

Attorney Lannon said that not only frisking, but searching with metal detecting devices is unconstitutional.

Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed "it is undignified to be searched," but said the irritating searches must continue until it is safe to end them.

OPERATION BIRD RESCUE

They Drift Helplessly With Necks Stretched In Despair

By JOYCE CERWIN

One could see them from the shore; they drifted helplessly with lumps of oil dripping like candle wax from their long slender necks stretched in despair. They screeched imploringly; they could do little else as the flood tide washed them toward the rocks.

Some staggered along the beach trying to stretch their wings stuck fast to their bodies with black gunk. Others writhed among the rocks, exhausted from the struggle.

These were the birds, the Western Grebes, the kingfishers, the white winged scooters, that search parties from throughout Marin were finding on the bay and ocean beaches. And the end is nowhere in sight.

"The number of volunteers from Marin and East Bay communities has really been encouraging," said Mrs. Beverly McIntosh who with her husband Norman, manager of the Audubon Society's Richardson Bay sanctuary, have turned the sanctuary into a rescue station for the victims of the recent Standard Oil tanker collision.

"Even volunteers from Menlo Park and Santa Clara have brought in birds and helped man the washing stations we've set up for the emergency," she said.

The birds are brought to the rescue station in cardboard boxes filled with shredded newspaper to provide warmth for the birds in transit. That warmth is essential to their survival.

Their first stop is a small shed on one side of Tiburon's historic yellow mansion that headquarters the Richardson Bay sanctuary. The shed itself is hardly visible from the road above as hundreds of volunteers from surrounding schools, churches and homes have gathered there to rip newspapers and old rags into donated cardboard boxes of various shapes and sizes. Motion Picture Plea By Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan thinks the U.S. government should help America's motion picture industry out of its financial hole.

Reagan, former screen star and president of the Screen Actors Guild, told a news conference Tuesday he supports industry efforts to obtain federal tax incentives to produce films in this country instead of abroad.

Reagan said unemployment in the motion picture business "is easily 50 per cent."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

For Settlement

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt's semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said today the Central Committee of the Palestinian guerrilla movement has reversed its position and now endorses a political settlement in the Middle East.

Several guerrilla spokesmen disputed the report but there was optimism for peace in other quarters and new indications that the Arab-Israeli cease-fire would be extended past its Feb. 5 expiration date.

Israeli sources noted with some optimism that the latest Egyptian peace proposals failed to include recent threats to end the truce Feb. 5.

UPI diplomatic correspondent Karol C. Thaler in London quoted diplomatic sources in the British capital today as saying that the cease-fire is virtually certain to be extended, although the prolongation may be limited to a short period.

Plant Explosion

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—An explosion thundered through the Enjay Chemical Co. complex shortly before midnight Tuesday, injuring eight workers and shattering windows two miles away.

The explosion occurred adjacent to the sprawling Humble Oil and Refining Company complex in North Baton Rouge, the world's third largest oil refinery. Enjay officials said they did not know the cause of the explosion, but preliminary indications were an ethylene tanker truck exploded at a loading dock.

Plant manager George Sellin said five of the injured workers were treated at the plant infirmary for minor injuries. Three others were taken by ambulance to a local hospital for X-rays. Hospital spokesmen said none of the three was in critical condition.

Police Return

NEW YORK (UPI)—Their wildcat strike over, city police patrolled their beats as usual today. But they were working without a contract, their union was in a turmoil and the major issues of parity and amnesty were unresolved.

Amid shouts of "sellout"and "strike, strike," delegates of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association (PBA) voted Tuesday to end the six day walkout despite the strong opposition of many rank-and-file members. PBA president Edward J. Kiernan, who was saved from physical assault at the end of the meeting by a phalanx of guards, had opposed the unprecedented wildcat action from its inception.

Two-Front War

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese Command reported heavy fighting on two fronts in neighboring Cambodia today, including a massive new campaign against a Communist border sanctuary and a drive against a mountain pass on vital Highway 4.

The new outbreak of heavy action appeared to be shaping up into a decisive dry-season battle between South Vietnamese and Communist forces for control of Cambodian infiltration routes the Communists need to support their campaign in Vietnam.

Disclosure of the major fighting coincided with the arrival of Cambodian Premier Lon Nol on his first state visit to South Vietnam today. Lon Nol was seeking more military and economic aid from Vietnam and the United States.

In Bangkok, the Thai government said Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn also would go to Saigon Saturday for talks on the military situation in Vietnam and Cambodia.

FTC Overhaul

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) completed an overhaul of its leadership today with the appointment of H. Michael Mann, an academician and former Justice Department official, as director of the Bureau of Economics.

Mann, 37, a native of Camden, N.J., has been chairman of the Boston College Economics Department since July 1. Prior to that he was special economic assistant to the Justice Department Antitrust Division.

Mann's new FTC position has been vacant since October, 1969.

High Drug Costs

WASHINGTON (API) — Government auditors say they have confirmed what Sen. Gaylord Nelson long has suspected: The government is paying too much of the taxpayers' money for drugs prescribed at federal facilities.

Without speculating on the total amount of wasted dollars, officials of the General Accounting Office testified Tuesday that the government's nearly $1 billion drug bill yearly is due in large part to policies that favor purchases of high-priced medcines.

General Elmer B. Staats testified that government-approved purchase prices for "indefinite quantities" of certain drugs have averaged 63 per cent higher than contracted prices for fixed quantities.

Postal Strike

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's first nationwide postal and telecommunications strike left the country without mails or telegrams today. But thousands of girl telephone operators defied union strike orders and showed up on the job as usual.

The postal shutdown came with workers demanding a 15 per cent pay hike. The country also faced the threat of a railroad tieup.

Million Voters Cut From Rolls

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — About 23 per cent of California's registered voters, including more than 1.1 million Democrats, have been removed from the rolls for failing to vote last November.

Democratic Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. also reported Tuesday that nearly half the members of the Peace and Freedom and American Independent parties were dropped from voter lists.

His statewide registration report showed 6,705,513 Californians are now registered to vote, compared to 8,706,347 at time of the general election.

Republicans lost about 700,000 votes — from 3,469,046 to 2,759,968 —and was the only party to increase its share of the voting population. Its percentage of registered voters went from 39.8 per cent to 41.2 per cent.

Hatfield To Seek Early Draft End

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., says he will introduce legislation to abolish the draft as of Dec. 31 —18 months earlier than when the Nixon administration hopes to take similar action.

Last August Hatfield and Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., moved to end the draft in mid-1971 but were defeated on a 52 to 35 vote. Hatfield also said he would sponsor a bill to raise military pay by $3.4 billion.

Highway Commission Appointments Made

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Moon Lim Lee of Weaverville and Vernon J. Christina of San Jose were reappointed to four-year terms on the California Highway Commission Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Lee, a businessman, and Christina, a transportation and civic leader, was named to the commission in 1967. They are both Republicans.

GROUNDED BALD EAGLE

One of the last of North America's bald eagles sits in a cage at Point Pelee National Park at Leamington, Canada, the victim of a hunter's shot which forced amputation of the right wing tip. The huge bird will be given to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests to spend the rest of its life in a game preserve. The bird cannot fly. (UPI Telephoto)

Home Loan Rate Is Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The American Savings and Loan Association lowered its rate on convential home loans to 7 1-2 per cent Tuesday, the first savings and loan institution in the Washington area to do so.

The prevailing rate had been 8 per cent but one year ago it was almost impossible to obtain a home loan even at that rate.

The Federal Housing Administration meanwhile said 95 per cent of its regional offices reported adequate funds available in their area for home loans to qualified borrowers as of Jan. 1 —the highest such availability in four years.

The report also said the average interest rate on conventional mortgage loans throughout the nation was 8.3 per cent for new homes and 8.35 per cent for used homes — down from the average 8.45 per cent for both new and used houses on Dec. 1.

Jewish Defense League Changing Soviet Tactics

NEW YORK (UPI) — The militant Jewish Defense League (JDL) will halt "indefinitely" its harassment of Russian officials to the United Nations but will continue to demonstrate outside the Soviet Mission, its leader said Tuesday.

"We have made our point," Rabbi Meir D. Kahane said. "Now we will see how much these promises are worth."

He said he had been persuaded by "people in government and major Jewish groups" to stop the harassment. He did not identify the government people or the Jewish groups.

(Rabbi David Davis of Marin's Congregation Rodef Sholom has deplored the attitude of the Jewish Defense League.

(He joined other Bay Area Jewish leaders in denying that Western Jews have formed cells of the militant group.

("I think most Jews are appalled by this attitude," he said.)

Flouride Level Tested By State

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Agriculture Department says tests show there are no hazardous levels of fluorides in vegetables, nuts and berries grown in the Santa Clara Valley-Fremont area.

Department officials said Tuesday that a special investigation of the area was made after the department received reports stating that raspberries grown in the San Jose area contained 25.8 parts per million (PPM) of fluoride. The federal-set safety level is 7 PPM.

Department plant pathologists said trees tend to concentrate fluorides in the foliage and when a sufficient concentration is reached, the effect is toxic and the leaves may fall from the trees.

Oil Spreads; Beaches Hard Hit In Disaster

National Seashore reported the oil hadn't reached the park's majestic beaches yet, but goo-covered birds were appearing. They were being taken to the College of Marin Marine Biology Laboratory at Bolinas.

But the battle to save Bolinas Lagoon, to the south, was lost during the night. Despite the efforts of Standard Oil workers, county officials, conservationists and volunteers, the oil swept through barricades placed across the mouth of the lagoon, a wildlife sanctuary.

What effect the goo would have on the ecology of the lagoon could not be estimated at this time.

The scene at the lagoon was typical of that around the bay, as thousands of volunteers fanned out singly and in groups to save beaches and wildlife. Long-haired youths worked side-by-side with Standard Oil hard hats.

Jack E. Downs, U.S. Game Management agent for Northern California, reported about 1,200 birds had been rescued from the goo by this morning. But Downs, who worked at the Santa Barbara disaster, said most of the birds will die if the Santa Barbara experience prevails. There, he said, only 2 or 3 per cent of the rescued fowl lived.

Downs said most of the birds succumb to shock.

In Bolinas, Craig Hansen, director of the College of Marin Marine Lab, said volunteers had brought in about 450 oil-coated birds in the last 24 hours. Hansen said he expected "an 80 per cent mortality among these birds, if we are lucky."

Standard Oil is financing cleanup of the spill and has committed about 500 company and contracted personnel to the effort. Also deployed by the company were ten tugboats, 25 charter boats, seven oil-skimming barges, 30 vacuum trucks, 13 tank trucks, 20 dump trucks, four tractors and four "scoopmobiles."

A Standard spokesman said organizations collecting and treating birds — including the National Audubon Society's Richardson Bay Wildlife Sanctuary on Greenwood Beach Road in Tiburon — had been swamped by volunteers and there was no need for additional help at present.

"As soon as we can develop additional facilities for treating birds, we will again ask for help," the spokesman said. "Meanwhile, we have been asked not to refer any more volunteers to the bird-cleaning centers."

Contractors hired by Standard Oil to clean beach areas also asked volunteers to stay clear of cleanup operations, except at Ocean Beach, Baker's Beach and the St. Francis Yacht Harbor in San Francisco.

Still, the volunteers came. Two busloads of Novato High School students were scheduled to leave the school today to aid in the cleanup. Students at Sir Francis Drake High School also were reportedly released, and headed for oil-stained beaches.

Virtually the entire community of Bolinas, including its school children, were mobilized in the West Marin cleanup.

Misfortune struck two bird rescuers. The Sixth Army said the Army officers were out in a boat yesterday collecting birds when the craft capsized. The officers were taken to a hospital to be treated for shock and exposure.

Rodney H. Hamblin, chief of the land and natural resources division of the U.S. Attorney General's office in San Francisco, said there were "a dozen laws" covering spill liability and could not estimate what penalties would apply, pending outcome of the Coast Guard hearing.

The Coast Guard investigation into the crash of the two tankers got off to a slow start today in San Francisco when an attorney representing two conservation groups asked to be allowed to participate in the proceedings.

Lt. Cmdr. Roy E. Nichols, who is holding the hearing, denied the request of Frederick Fisher, lawyer for the Sierra Club and the Save San Francisco Bay Association.

He did however, recess the hearing to let Fisher appeal to the Coast Guard Commandant in Washington, Adm. Chester R. Bender.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, at his weekly news conference yesterday, deplored the spill as a "tragic accident" but declined to endorse the possible need for new restrictions on ships.

In response to a question about whether more stringent navigational aids were needed, Reagan replied, "I'm not technically qualified to answer that. I'm waiting like the rest of you to find out what happened."

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, introduced legislation requiring all ships in the Bay to be guided by a licensed bar pilot.

Marks said only ships engaged in foreign trade now need licensed bar pilots, but he said the big spill showed the need for all vessels to use their navigational skills.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, urged restrictions on the movement of ships in poor visibility, much as airplanes are regulated.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said there is no federal requirement insisting that radar be kept in good working order and be operated by licensed personnel, and urged Congress to plug the loophole.

He urged swift action on a bill giving the Coast Guard authority to guide ships in harbors and to require installation of ship-to-ship radio-telephone communications for inland shipping.

Mayor Alexander R. Imlay of Sausalito has summoned a meeting of oil company and government officials for noon tomorrow at Campbell Hall, Santa Rosa Avenue and San Carlos Street, to discuss the spill.

Drift With Slender Necks In Despair

the rescue mission was supplied by the Marin County Humane Society: a pet-carrying box with a cover that closes to form handles.

Gentle treatment on the trip from the beach is just as important in rescuing the birds as the washing and the purging of the oil from their bodies.

"Some of the volunteers in their enthusiasm to rescue the oiled birds have actually frightened them to death," said Cristine Pratt of Nottingham, England, who worked as a volunteer for months in England's notorious Torry Canyon oil spill.

Mrs. Pratt, who lives with her husband in San Rafael, held a Western Grebe whose leg had been broken during the rescue attempt.

"Some of the birds actually come to us with their wings and legs broken because the rescue volunteers grab the birds legs, wings or even neck in an attempt to save the panic-stricken birds," she said.

A telephone rang in the rescue headquarters located in the dining room of the gingerbread-like mansion. The phone had not stopped ringing since the first oil-soaked bird was found. This call was from Ron Silva of the Green Gulch Ranch in Muir Beach. He reported seeing about a thousand birds along the beach that couldn't make their way to shore. They were being frightened away by the 80 or more volunteers and thrill-seeking bystanders. Those that did make the shore were being chased back into the water, he said.

Beatrice Cummings, a housewife from Fairfax who had been answering the telephone for almost eight hours yesterday told Silva, as she had to the others who have called, the proper procedure for catching and bringing birds to the washing station.

"Secure their beaks with string or a rubber band to prevent them from pecking themselves and other birds or people," she said. "Then place them in a box lined with rags or shredded newspaper and bring them to the Richardson Bay sanctuary." Only in cases where it was impossible to bring them to the Tiburon station, did she instruct them how to remove the black crude oil with clear, nontoxic mineral oil. The birds, she said, were not to be washed in any detergents or they would die.

Mrs. Pratt said that washing the birds with detergents and other chemicals was one of the reasons that more birds perished during the Torry Canyon oil spill than were saved. Only after it was too late, she said, did they realize that cleaning off the crude oil with a clear mineral oil was the only way to save the birds.

Mrs. Pratt learned much while working in England with thousands of birds for over a month with little sleep. These same techniques are used at the washing rescue station at the Richardson Bay sanctuary.

The birds are brought to the shed, identified as best as possible as to species and where they were found and given to one of the 30 or 40 volunteers dressed in old clothes and elbow deep in black oil.

"Scratch my forehead," cried one of the oil-splattered volunteers as this reporter squeezed past him. He was one of the many who hovered over a dishpan that held a black, sticky bird. Three such tables were crowded into the small shed.

Each volunteer patiently massaged the mineral oil into, under and around the greasy feathers, and on the bird's skin. They could feel the small delicate bones of the bird roll under their gentle pressure.

Washing the oil is a slow, painful process for the bird; the crude oil burns the bird's flesh pink and often causes sores. The birds are passed from dishpan to dishpan and massaged in each until gradually the slimy crude oil is displaced from their feathers and skin.

"It is most important that the oil is removed from their eyes and breathing passages," Mrs. Pratt said. "Then they are placed in paper lined boxes and put into the incubator to warm up."

The washing process lasts almost an hour during which time the birds are exposed to cold air.

The birds are then brought to a small room, about the size of a large closet, where Mrs. Pratt washes their eyes with Murine or a similar eye wash and feeds them a healthy lump of salt-free butter. Some must be returned to the washing room for a more thorough and careful cleaning.

"The butter helps purge their systems of the oil they have swallowed during their ordeal," Mrs. Pratt said.

Two volunteers from the University of Maine, recently arrived in the Bay Area on a graduation tour of the country, helped Mrs. Pratt in this second step in the washing and purging process.

Paul O'Neil and Michael Jewell, both with majors in wildlife management, heard the call for volunteers over the local radio. They came as soon as they could locate the secluded Richardson Bay sanctuary rescue station located off Tiburon Boulevard on Greenwood Beach Road. They have been working since the disaster struck.

According to Jewell, who plans to become a Vista Volunteer in June, the oil not only burns the bird's skin but poisons its system and interferes with skin respiration.

After feeding butter to the birds, both O'Neil and Jewell carried the boxes of birds to an enclosed van for their final treatment and slow recuperation.

The birds were taken to Dr. James L. Noviaux, veterinarian of the National Wildlife Health Foundation at 450 Boyd Road in Pleasanton. There, the birds will be given a catharsis to further purge the oil from their systems and are also given certain vitamins.

Recall Of Chairman Is Sought

Two women today filed a petition for the recall of Gordon C. Wright, chairman of the Reed School District board, accusing him of fostering hostility and distrust among administrators, teachers and parents in the district.

The women, Ann B. Goff of Tiburon and Carolyn S. Hunter of Corte Madera, said they would begin immediately collecting approximately 1,200 signatures necessary to hold a recall election.

The signatures, representing 20 per cent of the district's registered voters, must be filed within six months with the Marin County Elections Office.

Wright, 46, of 160 Rock Hill Road, Tiburon, took office in July 1969 and was elected chairman in July 1970. He is an attorney.

The petition says his recall is necessary because "his actions have fostered a climate harmful to the district's 2,000 children" and have "disrupted essential coopertion and good faith" in the district.

"His intimidation and distrust of teachers and administrators have led to deterioration of morale and effectiveness and have caused the continuing loss of excellent educators," the petition says.

It also cites "his repeated abuse of fellow trustees, members of board-appointed committees and other citizens in public meetings . .

"His recall is essential to overcome the atmosphere of hostility and to retain and attract superior administrators and teachers, and to restore the cooperative pursuit of the highest quality education for our children," it concludes.

Mrs. Goff, of 310 Karen Way, and Mrs. Hunter, of 7 Windward Drive, blamed Wright for contributing to the resignation of former Supt. John B. Gaw last year and the exodus of one-fifth of the district's teachers.

Man Found Dead At Marin Beach

A San Francisco psychiatrist was found dead yesterday at McClure's beach at Point Reyes.

The Marin County coroner's office said Martin Katzman, 50, had tied a rope to his waist and attached the other end of the rope to a rock, and then waited for the tide to come in.

The coroner's office withheld officially calling the death suicide, pending further investigation, but said there was no indication of foul play.

Katzman, who was a native of New York, had formerly lived in San Rafael.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

McCarthy To Title Company

Former state senator John F. McCarthy of Belvedere has been named vice president of the California Financial Corp.'s three title company subsidiaries.

The San Francisco-based corporation announced that McCarthy will handle business development for Marin Title Guaranty Co. of San Rafael, Financial Title Co. of Walnut Creek and Pacific Land Title Co. of Oakland. The corporation is the holding company for Security Savings and Loan Association.

McCarthy's office will be in Marin at the company's San Rafael office at 1300 Fourth Street.

The retired Republican senator did not seek reelection last year. He served in the Senate for 20 years.

OBITUARIES

SYLVESTER BRIGHAM

Private funeral for Sylvester A. Brigham, 66, of Novato, a retired traffic manager for Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., was held yesterday at St. Anthony's rectory.

Brigham died Sunday at a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Saginaw, Mich. he had worked for Goodyear in Akron, Ohio, for 22 years, and had been a resident of Novato for three years.

Surviving is a son, Sylvester Brigham Jr. of Novato. Burial was at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

DENISE HENDERSON

Denise Henderson, a 14-year-old student at Sinaloa Junior High School, collapsed while walking yesterday and was pronounced dead on arrival at Novato General Hospital at 9 a.m.

The Marin County Coroner's office said the cause of death was undetermined, but there was no sign of foul play. An autopsy was scheduled.

Denise was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Henderson of 1941 Marion Avenue.

She was walking in front of 11 Grande Vista at 8:47 a.m. when she suddenly stopped, stiffened and collapsed, striking her head on the pavement, the coroner's office reported.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato.

ANGELO BRESCIANI

Angelo J. Bresciani, 71, of Petaluma, a retired employee of the Tomales Creamery, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

He was born in Switzerland and moved to Salinas in 1920 where he worked in the lettuce fields for 10 years. In 1930 Bresciani moved to Fallon where he owned and operated a poultry ranch until 1938.

After that, he was employed by the Tomales Creamery, retiring in 1962. Bresciani moved to Petaluma eight years ago to make his home with a son, John Bresciani, 610 G Street.

He is also survived by two other sons, Angelo J. Bresciani Jr. of Petaluma and Alvin Bresciani of Cotati; a daughter, Delores Kolden of Wichita, Kan.; a brother, Charles Bresciani of Napa and 10 grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Vincent De Paul Church, Petaluma, followed by burial at Calvary Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

EDWARD BETHARDS

Memorial services for Pfc. Edward Wayne Bethards, 20, of 24 Eames Court, Novato, killed in Vietnam Jan. 11, will be held at 10: 30 a.m. Friday at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

Bethards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Bethards was killed when an explosive device detonated while he was on a mission.

He was active in Little League for many years and the family plans to set up a memorial fund in his name for Novato Little League.

IN MEMORIAM

NETTRO, ARTHUR "JIM"
In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, ARTHUR "JIM" NETTRO, who passed away JANUARY 20, 1963.

We often sit in silence
No eyes may see us weep;
But forever in our aching hearts,
His memory we will keep.

The call was short, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved to dear;
God took him home, it was his will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.

'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again,
Where parting is no more;
And that the one we truly loved,
Has only gone before.

The flowers we lay upon his grave,
May wither and decay;
But love for him who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.

MRS. ROSE NETTRO
MRS. JO ANN HENSON and
NADINE NANCY CONDRON

Off-Street Parking Provision Looms, Reports Hub Council

Owners of existing multiple family dwellings in San Anselmo may have to provide one off-street parking space per unit within five years, if the city council's decision last night is put into ordinance.

The council held a study session with its streets and traffic committee and the city planning commission on the committee's parking report of Sept. 22.

All council votes on the items discussed were unanimous.

The council agreed that the proposal for off street parking in five years would not apply to single family residences but only to duplexes or larger apartments.

It would not apply to new construction now required to provide one off-street parking place for a one bedroom apartment, 1.5 for a two bedroom and two for more than two bedrooms.

The council referred the recommendation to the city attorney for drafting of an ordinance to be considered on completion of the council's study of the parking report.

After discussing what to do with apartments for which it may be physically impossible to provide sufficient off street parking spaces, the council suggested that owners might form parking assessment districts.

The council voted to eliminate the variance fee for apartments applying for front or side yard parking in violation of the city ordinance. It designated the planning director as the first authority to issue such variances, rather than the planning commission.

The city engineer was designated to determine the official "edge of pavement" on narrow streets on which there could be overnight parking.

Police Chief Raymond Buchignani told the council that the ban on overnight parking has cut down on thefts from cars, and made the narrow streets passable to emergency vehicles and the street sweeper.

The council received a written complaint about the ban on overnight parking from George A. Storz, 219 The Alameda.

The minimum size of an off-street parking area was set at 18 feet by 10 feet for a single car, or 18 by nine feet if there are more than one space side by side, according to council action.

The council set 8 p.m. Feb. 2 for the next study meeting on the parking report.

Subdivision Planning Is Attacked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The legislature has been urged to withhold highway construction funds to local governments which fail to adequately control the development of second-home recreational subdivisions.

In a staff report by a legislative committee, the lawmakers also are called on to establish a new tax on the sale of lots in "land projects," the revenues from which would be spent for environmental protection.

In a report, the staff of the Joint Assembly Subcommittees on Premature Subdivisions recommends "stringent new laws" to protect the public and natural environment "from the consequences of premature subdivision development."

The recommendations resulted from a series of statewide hearings into the need for new state and local regulation of mammoth housing tracts in relatively isolated areas such as in Nevada and El Dorado counties. Purchasers of such lots often are city dwellers seeking a peaceful retreat in the mountains.

But critics have charged that many such developments are actually "premature."

Carport Must Be Torn Down

A carport at 698 Hawthorne Drive in Tiburon must be torn down because the owner of the property failed to get city permission to build it, the Tiburon Board of Adjustments has decided.

Development administrator Phil V. Scott said the board Monday refused Lucille D. Spangler a variance for her carport, built to the side property line. An eight-foot setback is required.

Scott said the board denied the variance because it could find no grounds for the request. The lot is level and the carport could have been constructed inside the setback with no difficulty, Scott said.

The board also discussed a variance to allow Peter Haywood to build a carport within the required 14-foot frontyard setback at 100 Geldert Drive, but reached no conslusion.

Scott said the board set a special meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at city hall with the city's design review board to consider Haywood's application again. Under an interim ordinance recently adopted by the city council, all buildings more than 30 feet high must receive approval from the design review board. Haywood's house is 31 feet high at one point.

Jury Trial Set For Ross Man In Embezzlement

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A jury trial has been set for Feb. 22 in U.S. District Court for a 61-year-old Ross man indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of embezzling more than $26,000 from an account at the bank where he worked.

Set to go to trail is Thomas Michael Murphy of 1 Camino Bueno.

He is accused of withdrawing funds in 1967 and 1969 from the savings account of a San Francisco woman who claimed she didn't miss the money since her account "stands in the millions."

Murphy, who was an assistant cashier at a San Francisco branch of Wells Fargo Bank, allegedly took over $20,000 in 1967 and over $6,000 in 1969 from the account of Norva Boas.

PG&E Wins Rate Hikes; Marin Included On List

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday granted the Pacific Gas& Electric Co. permission to raise electric rates by an average of 47 cents a month to home users.

The PUC allowed the company $51,579,000 per year in increased rates. PG&E had asked for more than $67 million.

The commission adopted its staff recommendation for a rate of return of 7.5 per cent for PG&E instead of the 7.8 per cent to 8.0 asked for by the company.

The PUC said the electric rate increase was the first in 12 years. PG&E asked for the rate increase Dec. 15, 1969, and since that time 47 days of public hearings were held, with 5,221 pages of transcript and 118 exhibits.

The order becomes effective Feb. 8 and the new rates will go into effect Feb. 13.

In Marin, most homeowners, based on consumption of 250 kilowatt hours a month, will see rates incrased by 39 cents from $7.41 to $7.80. In rural areas, such as Bolinas, the rate will increase by 49 cents from $9.11 to $9.60.

In Cotati, the rate will increase 39 cents from $7.71 to $8.10. The rates are based on population density.

The PUC found that PG&E needed the money because of increased cost of operation—labor, equipment and material—along with general inflation and the increased cost of money.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's new state Social Welfare Director, Robert Carleson, was sworn into office Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan. The governor appointed Carleson last month.

Hidden Valley School Has Principal At Top Salary

The San Anselmo School District last night hired a San Francisco State College education professor to be principal of Hidden Valley School at the top salary on the district's scale: $17,358 per year.

Francis T. Galbraith, who is in charge of the student teaching program at the state college, will take over the principalship Feb. 1. It has been vacant since last June, when Principal Richard B. Connell left on a two-year leave.

Board chairman Elmer A. Weden Jr. said Connell's leave was as a teacher and "he will not return as principal."

The salary figure brought some comment from teachers and parents in the audience, who questioned whether administrative costs might be growing too high in view of the district's financial bind.

Weden said Galbraith's experience and his doctor's degree entitle him to the salary, which is on a fixed scale based on the teacher salary scale. He said this fixed scale for principals was "forced on the board" four years ago by the San Anselmo District Teachers Association.

A complaint about lack of goals in the district was voiced later in the long meeting by Supt. Kenneth Lowry. "We started in September with a recommendation from me to set goals for the district and we have made no progress," he said.

Trustee Mary Taylor Oliver said a citizen committee did draw up goals two years ago.

Tax Hike Idea Heard By Hub School Panel

An election on an 80-cent increase in San Anselmo School District's maximum operating tax rate was proposed last night, but action on it was postponed.

A motion by Trustee Basil H. Scalabrini that the issue be put on the ballot for the April 20 school board election died for lack of a second near the close of a long district board meeting.

The district's maximum operating tax rate now is $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation. This year it levied a $2.06 operating tax, included in a total district tax rate of $3.25.

Supt. Kenneth Lowry told the board that his projections show the district could operate through next school year without a rate hike by dropping the remedial reading program (now partially state-financed but not expected to be so next year) and perhaps the summer session. But, he said, this would mean it would end the year with "a zero balance."

Lowry said these figures allowed for no salary scale increase.

Board chairman Elmer A. Weden Jr., who left the meeting before Scalabrini's unsuccessful motion was put, called such an attempt unrealistic. "We are going to face cost-of-living increases," he said. "We're going to have to cut programs just to stand still."

Trustee Eugene E. Jacks wondered whether the permissive override tax for higher cost of seventh-eighth grade education might be boosted enough to make up the need, without going to the voters. However, Lowry said he is "not comfortable" with the 33-cent override already levied for that purpose and felt it could not legally be increased.

Trustee Mary Taylor Olive urged action be delayed until the board could get a better accounting of just where the district's money has gone. She was troubled by a paragraph in the annual audit report by Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin saying the accounts kept by the district were in poor condition and not reconciled with the county auditor's accounts. The audit itself failed to show just where state money for special programs had been spent and how much general fund money might have been used for them, she said.

The audit showed the district began the current fiscal year with combined surplus and reserve of $167,578, but Lowry said this would be down to $50,000 by June 30. This, he pointed out, means the district actually is spending more than $107,000 beyond its receipts this year.

The superintendent said July 13 would be the latest date for a tax election for next year's rate. Scalabrini, after his motion for an April 20 election went down the drain, said he "would not be uncomfortable" with a July 13 date if the board got busy on preparing the campaign without delay.

Trustee Franklin C. Latcham was absent.

County Urges Study On Ross Valley Issue

San Anselmo's application for federal funds to plan possible consolidation of municipal services in all of Ross Valley should wait until other cities like Fairfax and Ross have a chance to study the proposal.

This was the decision of the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

The Association of Bay Area Governments, which must clear applications for federal funds, asked Marin County for any comments.

"I would like the cities in Ross Valley to discuss this first," said Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. The supervisors put off action until Feb. 9.

San Anselmo last month submitted a preliminary application for $20,000 in federal funds to see if municipal services can be improved by consolidating some of their functions with other cities in Ross Valley.

"San Anselmo, as the largest jurisdiction in the area, felt that it was the logical entity to make such an application," said City Planning Director Charles R. Leitzell.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

CRIME LAB — Postponed until budget time a recommendation from the Marin County Grand Jury that a countywide crime laboratory be established at a cost of about $106,000.

SPECIAL RAISE — Turned down a request by Personnel Director Maren Rinne for a special step increase for Claudine Ortiz, intermediate typist, in the personnel office. Supervisors explained they recognize Mrs. Ortiz' capabilities and increase in workload, but they must abide by the county policy of not granting mid-year pay raises except in emergency cases.

FIRE CONSOLIDATION — Approved an outlay of $310 as the county contribution in the study to determine the potential for fire agency consolidation in Southern Marin. Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows reported that the cost for the study would be about $5,150. Consolidation would include Mill Valley, Sausalito, Tamalpais Fire District, and Marin City and Muir Woods Park, which are in county jurisdiction.

FOSTER CHILDREN — Approved a $7,500 contract with the Behavior Therapy Institute of 300 Valley Street, Sausalito, to start a pilot program of training foster parents on the handling of foster children. Probation Officer John W. Brewer said the aim is to make more use of foster homes instead of the more expensive institutional placement.

LUCAS VALLEY — Unanimously approved establishment of a woodshop by the county schools office on the County Farm property in Lucas Valley, but ordered that it be constructed farther away than the proposed 60 feet from the nearest home of Idylberry Drive. the schools office was told to work out the location with the county planning director and administrator.

Child Drama Classes Started

Twelve-week classes in creative dramatics for children started last week and are continuing Wednesday afternoons at the Mill Valley Golf Course Clubhouse, 267 Buena Vista Avenue.

Sponsored by the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department, the classes will run from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. for ages 7 to 9 and 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. for ages 10 to 14.

Rosemary Eberhardt is teacher for the course. She hopes to develop the actors' three basic tools — physical techniques, improvisitation and vocal techniques.

New Air Board Plan Is Sought

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation allowing all counties in the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District to withdraw portions of their territory from the district has been introduced by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek.

A 1970 state law annexing Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties to the six-county district gave this option to the three new counties. Nejedly's bill, SB 79, would extend the same option to the other six, including Marin.

The senator told the Independent-Journal it would be "unfair to the other (six) counties to be on a different footing." He added that the eastern portion of his own county, Contra Costa, was in a different air shed than the western portion, thus it could be excluded from the district.

But he insisted that his bill was not intended to encourage dismemberment of the district.

Nejedly said that last year's bill annexing the three northern counties would not have passed the Legislature without including the option to exclude territory from the district. It would be "legislatively dishonest" to move this year to do away with the option, he said.

Sharp Protest Gets 'Interim' Concession

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved rezoning most of the area west and south of Novato to one-acre minimum sites but made a slight concession in Indian Valley. (Another supervisors story, page 1).

On a motion by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, the supervisors put the Indian Valley area into an interim zone for one year, and asked the county planning department and Novato officials to decide whether more density can be allowed in Indian Valley.

Residents of Indian Valley declared that septic tank failures are their biggest problem, and one-acre sites would prevent sewer lines from ever coming to their area.

"Sewers will not be economically feasible under one-acre zoning," complained Franklin Gustafson of 1970 Indian Valley Road. "The planning commission and staff are derelict in trying to push this rezoning down our throats."

County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell agreed that if sewer facilities were available, half-acre sites would be feasible in Indian Valley. He said the one-acre zoning for Indian Valley is a "holding action" until sewers can be installed.

In order to allay fears of property owners that the one-acre sites would be permanent in Indian Valley, supervisors agreed to the interim zone.

The remainder of the area west and south of Novato was rezoned for one-acre sites, except that the area north of Mill Road will retain 10,000-square-foot lots and a small area at the entrance to Wild Horse Valley will have 20,000 square foot lots.

Appointments Announced

Four appointments to city commissions and boards, named by Mayor George E. Wickham, have been confirmed by the Mill Valley City Council.

Appointed Monday night to the youth commission was Roger Smith, of 308 North Ferndale Avenue.

Named to the planning commission were William A. Lewis, of 128 Locust Avenue, and Richard N. Jessup, of 172 Lovell Avenue. Frances Adams, of 74 Mountain View Avenue, was appointed to the human rights board.

Bill Aimed At Help To Public Land

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation exempting nonprofit corporations from property taxes on property they buy to dedicate to public use was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The bill was asked by the Nature Conservancy, which would qualify under its provisions for exemptions.

Bagley included a similar bill last year in his tax revision package, which died on the Senate floor by one vote. Last year, the measure would have reimbursed counties for the lost property tax revenue.

This year's measure, however, would provide no reimbursement. Bagley's staff said this provision was deleted because of the state's tight fiscal situation.

The exemption would be limited to property to be used for preservation of native life forms, ecology and open space.

Little League

Signups for the Kentfield-Greenbrae Little League will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon at Wolfe Grade School library. It is for boys aged 9 through 12.

Z'Berg Offers Solution To Cal-Vet Loan Crisis

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The California Farm and Home Loan program for veterans has a waiting list of 6,000 applicants which grows longer every day with no immediate financial solution in sight.

The tight money situation, inflation and —until recently— an unsalable limit on the interest rates the state could charge for veterans bonds are blamed for the dilemma.

Charles A. Bowers, deputy director of the Veterans Department, said a $50 million bond sale in December financed loans for 2,700 veterans but there are 6,000 more waiting.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, offered one solution to the problem in the form of a $500 million bond issue. He also would raise the maximum home loan from the current $20,000 to $25,000. The maximum farm loan is $80,000.

But even if the legislature approves the bond issue this year, it will not go before the voters until June 1972—and there is no guarantee the voters will back it.

Truck Jackknifes Injures Driver

James Morey, 25, of Pittsburg, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital for hand and face cuts suffered Monday night when his truck jackknifed across Lakeville Highway, a mile north of Highway 37.

The California Highway Patrol said the tractor-trailer rig hit a muddy shoulder and overturned at 7:40 p.m.

Election Set For April On New District

Sleepy Hollow residents will vote on April 20 whether they want a community services district established to take over the Sleepy Hollow Fire District, with a tax rate of $1.15 per $100 assessed valuation.

In the same election, voters will elect five directors of the new Sleepy Hollow Community Services District.

Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday paved the way for the election despite residents' demands for more time to get all the facts.

"The only fair way is to let the community decide this," said Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. The supervisors unanimously voted approval of the new district.

Arrigoni and other supervisors said there was enough time to argue the merits between now and election day.

CHANGES EXPLAINED

Assist. County Administrator John F. Barrows explained that the reorganization would bring these changes:

The Sleepy Hollow Fire Protection District, which now operates with a tax rate of $1.04, would be dissolved, and the community services district would take over the same area, comprising 1,574 acres. The new services district would have a tax rate of $1.15.

The services district, with a five-member board would have the power to give fire protection, collect and dispose of garbage and debris, provide recreation, provide police protection, and convert overhead utility lines to underground locations.

The district could raise the tax rate beyond $1.15 only with voter approval.

Proponents of the reorganization, headed by Merritt A. Robinson, said the $1.15 tax rate would pay for the same fire protection now provided by the fire district and perhaps provide community debris boxes. He said other services such as recreation, police protection and undergrounding of utilities would require tax raises, which must get voter approval.

Robinson, president of the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association, said his group had given wide publicity to the proposed community services district at meetings and through the Sleepy Hollow Bulletin.

OPPONENTS PROTEST

But opponents charged they were fed misinformation and not enough facts.

J. G. Ingels of 40 Stuyvesant Drive said more than 300 residents had opposed the reorganization or asked for deferment "until the facts are known to everyone."

John Scott of 44 Crane Drive asked for a 90-day delay. He charged the proponents had used steamroller tactics.

Marjorie Chaille of 1421 Butterfield Road complained that the new community services district, with a tax rate 11 cents higher than the present fire district rate would provide no new services. "This is being done piece-meal so that voters won't know how much more it will cost them," she charged.

"Ninety'five per cent of what has been brought up here today should have been discussed in Sleepy Hollow and not with us," said Supervisor John F. McInnis.

He and other supervisors agreed with Arrigoni that the ballot box would provide the fairest decision.

Book Reviewing Will Be Discussed

Lecturer Jean Ward will speak on approaches to book reviewing at a public meeting at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 2 in Campbell Hall of Christ Church, Sausalito.

Mrs. Ward has been a lecturer at the Huntington Art Gallery and is a past president of the Pasadena Symphony Association.

NEW CITIZENS

Route Long One To Home In Marin

England to Canada to Marin was the route taken by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Woodward of 109 Golden Hinde Boulevard, San Rafael, who were among 19 Marin and Southern Sonoma residents naturalized last month.

Leaving their native England in 1957, the Woodwards settled in Drummondville, Quebec, where about 97 per cent of the population was French speaking.

They had three young daughters and the educational system in Drummondville wasn't ideal, so when the opportunity arose in 1965 they moved to Marin.

Woodward became quality control manager of the Koratron Co. laboratory in San Francisco, and with the help of a friend he knew in Canada, John A. B. Gibbs of 456 Nova Albion Way, located a home in Terra Linda.

Woodward is now a technical specialist for Chlorox Co. in Oakland. "My job is to generate technical information to substantiate advertising claims," he explained.

Natives of Nottingham, "Robin Hood country," as Woodward described it, he and his wife, Lillian, were married in England. While a bachelor, he had worked in Canada from 1948-54, and returned in 1957 with his bride.

Their three daughters, Linda, 11, Wendy, 9, and Claire, 7, "love it" in Marin and the Woodwards are "happy with the schools," so it appears they are here to stay.

Other new citizens recently naturalized in the U.S. District Court in San Francisco and Sonoma County Superior Court are:

LARKSPUR — Carlos Alfredo Galan, 6 Post Street, Apt. 1.

MILL VALLEY — Michael Derek Heather, 3 Princess Lane; Yen Moon Jew, 27 Nelson Avenue; and Evert Rekk, 213 California Avenue.

NOVATO — Hanns Karl and Inge Gerda Hottes, 625 Sunset Parkway; Myrtle Meherns Bennett, 29 Santa Maria Drive;

PETALUMA — Kenneth Edward and Alice Day, 1270 Pacific Avenue; Isaura De Jesue Davis, 726 Mountain View Avenue; Evert Cornelis Winkelman, 12830 Valley Ford Road; Ie Sook (name changed to Nancy Park Confer) 1) Keller Street.

SAN ANSELMO — Francisco Gillermo Marin, 448 Scenic Avenue.

SAUSALITO — Nee Hing Chin, 675 Olima Street, and Muazzes Sener Gumrukcu, 301 Richardson Street.

TIBURON — John Owen Ritchie, 125 Barbaree Way; and Helena Shapiro, 52 Reed Ranch Road.

On a percentage basis, fewer residents of Hawaii own their homes than the people of any other state, says the National Geographic.

Guitar Classes At Tiburon

Group classes in folk and classical guitar will be offered starting Tuesday at Del Mar School, Avenida Miraflores, Tiburon.

Folk guitar will be taught Tuesday evenings for beginners at 7 p.m., intermediates at 8 p.m. and advanced students at 9 p.m. Classical guitar classes will be on Wednesday evenings with times to be arranged for beginning students and intermediates.

Registration may be made by telephoning William Steele of Corte Madera for folk guitar and Marcus Hatfield of Fairfax for classical guitar.

Woman Arraigned In Dope Selling

Belinda Zell, 23, of Stinson Beach, has been arraigned in Marin Superior Court on two felony charges of selling marijuana to a narcotics agent.

She is to plead to the charges Feb. 1.

Mrs. Zell was arrested on a warrant Sept. 16 after she allegedly sold a kilo of marijuana July 9 and three lids of marijuana July 27.

Exclusion Issue On Air District Agenda

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Representatives of Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties will meet Friday with Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors to discuss possible moves by the three counties to exclude parts of their territory from the district.

The meeting will be at 9 a.m. in district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

Solano County supervisors already have asked the state Air Resources Board to exclude about half of the county from the district, and Sonoma County has indicated it may make a similar request.

The 1970 Legislature annexed the three counties to the district, effective July 1, but left them the option of seeking to exclude portions of their territory, with approval of the state board.

The regional board has promised to fight such moves, but postponed a formal protest to the state board to give time for the three counties to present their viewpoints.

Also on the agenda is discussion of initiating a district program of inspecting motor vehicles for compliance with smog regulations.

Burglary At Bar

Whiskey, beer, a tape deck and stereo tapes were stolen from a storeroom at the Silver Dollar Bar in Point Reyes Station Dec. 29, Marin County Sheriff's Office reported yesterday. The stolen goods were valued at $214, deputies said.

Probation For Disturbing Peace

Bernardo Groves, 20, of San Anselmo, was placed on probation for one year Monday by Judge Henry J. Broderick of Marin Superior Court.

Groves pleaded guilty last month to a reduced misdemeanor charge of disturbing the peace after a jury split nine to three over whether he was guilty of felony battery against a police officer.

The youth, who wears leg braces and walks with crutches, had been accused of hitting San Anselmo Police Officer David Oliva during a fracas last Feb. 27 which started after the officer stopped Groves in his car for not having a license plate.

A charge of interfering with an officer against a pregnant woman who was with Groves was dismissed earlier.

Snowdon Holiday

LONDON (UPI)—Lord Snowdon, recently released from a hospital after surgery, will leave Thursday for a vacation in Barbados, a family spokesman said today. His wife, Princess Margaret, is scheduled to join him next week.

OFFTRACK BETTING

Reagan Would Listen For Tax Reform Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan today said he is willing to consider legalization of offtrack betting if it is part of a broad tax reform program.

Reagan, at his first news conference since September, also disclosed he will not introduce his own tax reform program this year for the first time since he came to Sacramento.

Instead, Reagan said, he will attempt to work out a compromise property tax relief-reform plan with Democrats.

Assembly Democrats, led by new Speaker Bob Moretti of Van Nuys, have announced plans to seriously consider legalizing offtrack betting in California. It would be tightly controlled by the state.

"I'm willing to listen to what the programs are in one context—as part of general tax reform," the governor said.

Proposals already have been introduced in the young legislative session to legalize dog racing, a statewide lottery, jai alai and Nevada casino-type gaming.

Reagan emphasized that "all of the conversation about legalizing gambling is out of line at the moment," aside from the offtrack betting.

"I don't think we ought to be going outside existing (tax) revenue" for new state money, he said.

The governor said he will set a personal precedent and not introduce his own tax reform program because "I'm perfectly willing to work with the Democrats in the legislature on this."

Democrats this session hold narrow control of both houses. Last year Reagan's hard-fought $1 billion tax revision plan was scuttled by one vote in the Senate.

Reagan also told newsmen:

—He feels any income tax withholding program, which he now strongly supports, should be part of tax reform. He also is committed to a "forgiveness" provision to lessen the first year payment escalation impact on the taxpayer.

—He believes the motion picture industry "has a right" to seek federal help. The former actor noted the unemployment rate in his industry now is around 50 per cent. He favors tax incentives to encourage film companies to produce in the United States.

—He does not believe the federal government can correct problems in the California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA), and therefore is pressing for the OEO to sustain his veto of the program's $1.8 million financing next year.

—He thinks the San Francisco Bay oil spill is "tragic" and "I'm waiting like the rest of you to find out what happened."

—His welfare reform program will be introduced to the legislature next month.

Berserk Soldier Kills Six, Self

SEOUL (UPI) — A South Korean Marine sergeant went berserk, killed six persons and injured four others and then shot himself to death Monday night at a marine camp in the Kimpo area 15 miles west of Seoul, military officials said today.

King Kyung-yul ran amok after a drinking bout. He threw two hand grenades inside the camp and ran out firing his rifle at random, the officials said.

He shot to death two fellow soldiers and four civilians in a nearby village and injured four other villagers before fleeing into the mountains and killing himself, according to the officials.

TIMELESS HIMALAYAS — The Mir of Hunza, leader of a Himalayan kingdom where people reputedly live to be 130 years old, will be featured in "High Himalaya," a documentary film to be shown Monday at San Rafael High School

'High Himalaya' Is Next Travel Film

"High Himalaya," A feature length color travel adventure film will be shown at 8:15 p.m., Monday at the San Rafael High School auditorium as part of an Explorama Series

The documentary was photographed on location in Nagar, Kafiristan, Pakistan and Hunza

Highlights of the film include a performance by the KhyberRiflemen, the world's best marksmen who are guardians of the Khyber Pass

It also features the Kingdom of Hunza which is believed to be the setting of James Hilton's novel, "Lost Horizon", where people live to the age of 130 in perfect mental and physical health.

The Kingdom of Nagar, one of the most remote and difficult countries to reach, is shown in the film. It also shows barbaric and pagan rituals climaxed by the feast of the Kafirs in the pagan valley of Kafiristan

The narrator of the film is Russ Potter whose voice is heard on the Walt Disney series of long-playing albums

This is the fifth in the current Explorama series Others scheduled are Japanese Summer, March 1; South Sea Holiday, April 19 and Australian Adventure, May 3

Alaskan Pipeline Hearings Are Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The first public hearings on the proposed oil pipeline across Alaska will be held in Washington Feb 16 and 17, according to the Interior Department

The Anchorage segment of the hearings, which were to be first, will now be held there Feb 25 and 26, a spokesman said The pipeline would be designed to carry oil from the North Slope to the town of Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska

Man Arraigned In Club Break-In

Dennis Hugh Jensen, 18, of San Rafael, has been arraigned in Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglarizing the Country Club Bowl in San Rafael Nov 11

He is to enter a plea to the charge next Monday

Dissolutions Outstrip Marriages During 1970

Marinites took advantage of the state's new divorce law last year to shed their spouses in larger numbers than ever before, but, surprisingly, also took out marriage licenses in increasing numbers

As in 1969, more Marin residents filed for divorce than applied for marriage licenses, however, County Clerk George N Gnoss reported

A total of 1,503 persons filed for dissolutions of their marriages, an increase of approximately 34 per cent over the 1969 total of 1,120

Marriage licenses were issued to 1,383 couples, an increase of about 36 per cent over the previous year's total of 1,017

The new divorce law, which cut from one year to six months the minimum time required between filing and granting of a final divorce decree, was credited with some of the increase

The law also eliminates the necessity for a witness in divorce hearings and prevents judges from hearing lists of complaints about spouses

Guilty To Pot Stolen Property

Steven Joseph O'Brien, 21, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and receiving stolen property

Preliminary hearing has been set for Feb 9

O'Brien was arrested Dec 30 when police stopped his car in Sausalito because of a loud muffler Police said they found eight plastic bags of suspected marijuana and 32 stereo tapes allegedly stolen in San Rafael.

Recession Stroganoff Is Low Cost Glamour

Here is a recipe that makes it possible to entertain handsomely yet inexpensively. Recession Stroganoff makes only four or five servings but may easily be doubled for a party buffet.

This is a low cost take off on that always popular party dish, beef stroganoff. In this instance, the beef is relatively inexpensive ground chuck and the noodles are built in, so to speak, instead of being cooked separately.

RECESSION STROGANOFF

½ cup slivered almonds
¼ cup margarine or butter
¾ lb. ground chuck
½ cup chopped onion
¼ lb. mushrooms, sliced
1 can (10½ oz.) cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
6 tablespoons dry vermouth
¼ cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon brandy (optional)
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon thyme, crumbled
¼ teaspoon rosemary, crumbled
¼ teaspoon pepper
6 oz. noodles

Spread out almonds in shallow pan and toast in 375 degree oven for 8 to 10 minutes or until light golden brown.

Melt two tablespoons margarine in large skillet. Add onion and mushrooms to pan and saute for about five minutes or until limp and buttery. Crumble ground chuck into same pan and stir until browned. Stir in half the toasted almonds, the soup, vermouth, sour cream, brandy, salt, thyme, rosemary and pepper.

Cook noodles in boiling salted water as the package directs. Drain and toss noodles with remaining two tablespoons margarine.

Put noodles into 1½ or 2 quart casserole dish, pour meat and sauce over and sprinkle with remaining almonds. Cover and refrigerate until ready to serve. Bake uncovered at 375 degrees for 30 minutes or until hot in center. If dish is deep and has been refrigerated for some time, it may take 40 to 45 minutes to heat.

Makes four or five servings.

Dinner Dish Cabbage Roll Is Low Cost And Also Easy

You're fond of cabbage rolls, but don't often have the time to prepare them? Then this easy skillet medley is made to order. It has all the same basic ingredients that go into cabbage rolls, but better yet it's a dinner in a dish, that's relatively low in cost (somewhat over 30 cents per serving).

Start by simmering until almost tender a pound and a half of pork shoulder. Toss in uncooked rice, a measure of lemon juice and brown sugar and sauce with tangy tomato sauce full of robust onions. With the onions already in the sauce, you avoid teary eyes and messy chopping.

Cut a small head of cabbage into six wedges, blanch it a few minutes and then place the wedges in the pork mixture. The cabbage and rice cook along and mingle with all that good tomato sauce and before you know it, dinner's done.

WINTER SKILLET MEDLEY

1½ pounds pork shoulder, cubed
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon salad oil
water
1 teaspoon basil
¾ cup uncooked rice
2 (8-ounce) cans tomato sauce with onions
2 tablespoons brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 small head cabbage

Sprinkle pork with ½ teaspoon salt and pepper. Brown lightly in salad oil in 12 inch skillet. Add 1 cup water and basil; simmer, covered, 1 to 1½ hours, until almost tender. Stir in rice, one can tomato sauce with onions, sugar, lemon juice and remaining ½ teaspoon salt. Cut cabbage into six wedges; cover with boiling water and let stand five minutes, drain.

Place wedges in pork and rice mixture. Drizzle remaining can of tomato sauce with onions over all. Heat to boiling; lower heat, cover and simmer about 30 minutes until rice and cabbage are tender. Stir once or twice.

Serves six.

THIS EASY to prepare dinner dish cabbage roll costs about 30 cents a serving. A pound and a half of pork shoulder is simmered first. Then rice, lemon juice, brown sugar and tangy tomato sauce full of onions is added and then cooked with blanched cabbage cut into six wedges.

Long, Slow, Moist Cooking Is Secret To Braised Short Ribs

For Americans who like beef and want to stay within their budget, braised short ribs of beef should be one of their favorite entrees.

Short ribs are cut from the ends of the ribs and the plate. They have a fine flavor and excellent nutritional value. Beef contains protein of the highest biological quality. Like all meat, beef is an abundant source of vitamins of the B complex group and an excellent source of the essential minerals, iron, copper and phosphorus.

Long, slow, moist cooking is the secret to preparing beef short ribs. The win marinade aids in making these chunks of beef tender and tasty. And keep in mind that these short ribs require little watching during cooking.

For a hearty, well-balanced meal during the winter days, serve the short ribs with a green vegetable, fruit salad, rolls and a beverage.

BRAISED SHORT RIBS

3 pounds short ribs
½ cup dry red wine
2 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup onion, sliced
1 cup carrots, sliced
½ teaspoon rosemary
¼ teaspoon marjoram
1¼ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup water

Place short ribs in plastic bag. Mix wine, Worchestershire sauce, garlic, onion, carrot, herbs and 1 teaspoon salt; pour over meat in plastic bag. Close bag securely. Refrigerate two to three hours, turning several times.

Remove short ribs from marinade and brown well on all sides in hot shortening. Add leftover marinade with vegetables. Cover and cook slowly until short ribs are fork tender, about two hours. Transfer short ribs to serving platter. Drain excess fat from pan drippings. Add water and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt; heat and stir. Spoon over short ribs.

Serves four.

Baking Time Trick To Walnut Cheesecake

The trick to this chocolate walnut cheesecake is the baking time. Heating helps curd the protein but overheating can produce a dry curd which can get too hard to combine with the other filling ingredients. Baking time should be long enough to get it "pouf" and body.

CHOCOLATE WALNUT CHEESECAKE

Crust:
½ cup finely chopped walnuts
½ cup zwiebach crumbs
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
3 tablespoons melted butter

Cheesecake:
3 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
⅔ cup granulated sugar, divided
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1-ounce square unsweetened chocolate, melted
½ cup finely chopped California walnuts
1 cup dairy sour cream

Crust: Combine walnuts, zwiebach crumbs, sugar and butter, and blend well. Press into bottom of nine-inch spring form pan. Bake at 350 degrees. F. 10 minutes.

Cheesecake: Beat egg whites with salt and cream of tartar until barely stiff. Gradually beat in ⅓ cup sugar and vanilla until smooth. Blend in chocolate. Stir in walnuts. Fold in egg whites, and turn into spring form over baked crust. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Spread with sour cream; return to oven for five minutes. Cool thoroughly before cutting.

Serves eight.

OSSIE CLARK

A Gentle Whisper From A Top London Designer

By SIMON KAVANAUGH
London Express Service

"I think all the best designers are dead now. I don't think it's for me to say that I'm the best today, but I believe that I think more about the woman wearing the clothes than the commercial aspect of the business, which everyone else does."

Ossie Clark's gentle whisper of a voice carries no hint of malice or conceit. He has a reputation for honesty, his soft voice and aura of gentility camoufalging the harsh things he sometimes has to say about his contemporaries in the London fashion scene, of which he is indisputably one of the leaders.

He's Quorum's designer - a King's Road, Chelsea, shop that looks like a space age mausoleum. If he had a fan club, Twiggy would be the founder member. She says she "simply adores" all his clothes. David Bailey's constant companion, Penelope Tree, is another model who rates Ossie Clark above all others.

HIS PUBLIC image is decidedly trendy - dark and thin with tinted glasses and a silver Buick Riviera parked outside his Notting Hill Gate flat.

But there the similarity with the other London designers ends. In the decade of Carnaby Street's pop art clothes, Ossie Clark established himself in the tradition of the great Parisian coutoruiers. His women's dresses are beautiful, elegant and sophisticated and made to last. Although there is a mass produced Ossie Clark range that sells for about $30 it is his more expensive originals that have given him pop star earnings - and publicity.

He gives the impression that the considerable financial rewards means little to him.

"The other day Alice (Alice Pollock, who began Quorum in 1964) told me how much I earn, and do you know, it's quite a lot. I'm surprised," he says.

HE SEEMS uncertain just how important his work is to him. Sometimes he says it's everything, "My whole life". Other times he says he gets tired of it and feels "bored, fed up and miserable" a lot of the time.

"I just get so tired of my work," he says." It's not busy, busy, busy all the day. I do, maybe, two collections, a year, working very hard, very long hours. Our spring collection - I worked for two months just on the drawings. Then it took a month, maybe six weeks to produce the collection - about 60 garments. I was absolutely exhausted at the finish. I had to go away. I love travelling. I took the car and drove around Spain and Portugal and Morocco. Three months in all".

Last year he nearly gave up fashion.

"I was going to be a photographer," he says." I bought an incredible camera, super. But I couldn't get into it all. On the other hand Celia (his wife and Quorum's fabrics designer) is a genius at taking photographs. They are the most fantastic pictures, really . . .

"I would like to do something else, as well as designing. I'd like to make a film or make clothes for a ballet. I've done a few things for films but it takes them so long to decide on anything and when they have decided . . . they want it immediately. Then there's the union problem. Oh, it's really a drag".

Ossie Clark was born in Liverpool 28 years ago, the last of six children. His father was in the Royal Navy.

"We were very poor," he says. "I wanted to be a fashion designer when I was 12. At school, a teacher brought it out of me. I think it was always there, but he made me realize that it was what I wanted to do. I used to sew and make things when I was quite small, and a boyfriend of one of my sisters taught me how to draw."2

HIS SKILL at drawing won him a place at Manchester Art School, where he first met his wife, and then he entered the Royal College of Art.

It was while he was a student at the RCA that he met Alice Pollock and went to work for Quorum.

"It was all so incredibly coincidental. Alice's birthday, for example, was exactly the same as mine. We're both Geminians. It's very odd. She usually knows what I'm thinking, and I know what she's thinking . . . I was lucky because I had the freedom I wanted. I could do anything I pleased,

The Sexy Look Is Alive In Italian Designers' Clothes

By BRENDA W. ROTZOLL

ROME (UPI)—The spring and summer fashion collections are proving one thing at least —the sexy look will never die while there is one Italian designer left to drape a bosom in chiffon that reveals more than it conceals.

Shorts, slit skirts, slit bodices, tightly wrapped crepes and chiffons that rivaled cellophane for their revealing qualities flowed through the Italian high fashion collections Monday.

The top of the calf took top honors as the new daytime dress length but evening lengths staggered about from floor to hip bottom, with ragged-edged compromises in between. The overall look was soft, soft, soft.

PRINCESS IRENE Galitzine jumped her competitors who show ready-to-wear each April in Florence for the coming fall. She tucked her fall ready-to-wear into her high fashion show. Coral and black were her pet colors for off-the-rack clothes.

Sand, blue and turquoise were added to the color spectrum in the high fashion collection at Galitzine, appearing in coats and dresses wth flared skirts, or evening gowns of clinging crepe. Maybe you couldn't see through the crepe stretched taut over the bosom —but you didn't need to.

Galitzine loved shorts for day or evening, and wore a pair in black crepe herself. Her shorts had wider legs than those of most fashion houses, and some were so short and full they looked like bloomers. For daytime she liked wrap-around skirts to convert those shorts to very sedate suits.

For evening she did a beautiful line of jungle prints on white or dark blue. Her "romantic safari prints" would have fitted well in Rudyard Kipling's jungle stories. Zebras raced across the veldt, big cats prowled and a moon rose over the jungle.

SHE SPELLED out her name in brass letters in chain link belts for day dresses or pants and tunics.

Galitzine and Capucci both loved side-slit skirts and halter necks with bared backs. Capucci joined Rocco Barocco in refusing to show shorts. Both still had highly wearable collections, showing shorts aren't the only alternative to long skirts.

Barocco cut jagged hemlines for chiffon evening clothes. Capucci played with colors and shades of one color, always his favorite trick. He used hundreds of pleats but none of them pressed, achieving the softest look seen yet in Rome.

THIS SEE-through gown is a novel approach to fashion — a long navy skirt and slim navy overdress of completely sheer chiffon with "whisker" collar of navy fibers. The outfit was shown in Rome at the Italian couture showing for summer by designer Carosa.

(UPI Cablephotos)

SHORTS FOR sports and evening tell the spring-summer fashion story according to the latest showings in Rome. Here is the version of Tiziani — American-born designer Evan Richards — a black and white evening ensemble featuring white crepe shorts. The trim is black with soft black-and-white peacock eye appliqued blouse with floor-length cape lined in blouse material. He said that he was not making shorts for city wear but believed that some women will wear them.

Coats Of Fake Fun Leather

Ever hear of a full-length coat of fun leather? You may see it soon because fake or fun leathers are being used for whole garments as well as trims, says Gerda Petersen, University of Nebraska Extension clothing and design specialist. She said, however, that precaution should be used in the maintenance of the fabrics. "Most of these materials are not dry cleanable but can be sponged off with mild soap and water," she said. "With this type of fabric, it is of utmost importance to read the label before buying."

'Middle-Age Marriage' Will Be Lecture Topic In San Anselmo

"Middle-age Marriage: the Possibility of Midcourse Correction" will be the title of the second in a series of lecture-discussions at San Anselmo First Presbyterian Church, tonight at 8 o-clock.

Dr. Roy W. Fairchild, speaking in the series on "More Life in Marriage," will discuss boredom, change of life in the man and his desire for change. The audience will participate in discussion and in an assessment of their own marriage strengths.

Dr. Fairchild is professor of education and social psychology at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo and a state certified marriage counselor. He was trained with Carl Rogers and Virginia Satir in family counseling and is the author of several books and articles on marriage and its problems.

The third lecture in the series will be given Jan. 27 on 'Your Next Five Years: Drift or Direction.''

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Prospective Mates Bad Points Tend To Get Worse, Look Closely

DEAR HELEN:

I only wish I had read your "Danger Signals" sooner so that I might have recognized them in the man I later married — and spent years wishing I hadn't.

Finally, I recognized the games he played. When I got so good at them he couldn't win any more, he sued for divorce on grounds of cruelty, and the custody battle for the children was long and bitter. I finally won.

The point of my story: Look more closely at the person you are going to marry. His bad points tend to get worse, never better, and often what you think are good points turn out bad when you are no longer blindly in love. Make lists, examine faults, compare him with your "ideal."

My second marriage is wonderfully happy. The secret? If you really want to know, say so, and I'll let you in on our formula — B.J.

DEAR B.:

Of coursewe want to know. Don't be so cagey. Give. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There is this girl who will soon be 18. She has been treated inhumanly by her folks. While the other kids got almost everything she wasn't even given lunch money for school. She had so few clothes she had to drop out in her senior year, even though she had good grades. They beat her black and blue, shamed her in front of others and now won't let her get a job because she must stay home and babysit.

Can she leave when she is 18? Or can her parents force her to stay and be their slavey? — SOMEONE WHO'S BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED:

If things are as bad as they appear, the girl should get a job and leave home. In your state, her parents can't force her to remain after she reaches 18.

Perhaps you can help by finding her an apartment and suitable work. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

In a recent column, an obnoxious little prig whined that two of his schoolmates had been arrested for smoking marijuana. He went out of his way to attack law and order as follows:

"One kid had never tried pot before, and the other got the stuff from a friend who stole it from home. His folks pass it around every time they have a party, and you'd be surprised who comes to their parties — people pretty high in the police department and county court."

Any court who allows his offspring to think such subversive thoughts, has, I maintain, failed miserably in his duties. I say a decent, right-thinking patriot would long since have taught his child that responsible elements deservedly enjoy rights and privileges properly denied the lower orders. (Prohibition, he could point out, clearly illustrated this great truth.)

If, after such wholesome indoctrination, the sniveling little ingrate persisted in his vicious designs, the parent should have confiscated the offensive letter and thrashed the impudent whelp to within an inch of his life, thus teaching him what a heinous crime it is to undermine faith in our way of life.

We obviously have here a horrible example of what the Vice President must have in mind when he denounces the "creeping permissiveness" poisoning our national life. Let us take the good old birch rod to our rebellious brats before our precious heritage of spiritual values goes down the drain. — HARDING REPUBLICAN

DEAR H.R.:

The ghost of Jonathan Swift is alive and well and dancing a jig on your typewriter — but I'll bet a lot of my readers don't recognize him. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Miss Hohm To Be Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hohm announce the engagement of their daughter Christina Marie to David William Whalin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Whalin. All are residents of San Rafael.

Christina is the sister of Mrs. Stephen Pekonen and Michael Hohm of San Rafael and Mrs. Harold Drady of Nicasio. A graduate of Terra Linda High School, she attends College of Marin and is employed by Crocker-Citizens National Bank in Kentfield.

David is the brother of Roy Whalin of Oakland. He is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and Sonoma State College and is employed by Atlas Elevator Company in San Francisco.

The couple plan to be married July 10.

'Truth' In Life Insurance Next?

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Now that there are federal laws for "truth" in packaging, lending, land sales and other matters of consumer interest, the next big campaign is likely to be for "truth-in-life-insurance."

That is the title of a revealing article in the Nation magazine of Jan. 11. And it is the goal of recent industry studies and some proposed government investigations in the new Congress.

THE IDEA for "truth-in-life-insurance" was first expressed two years ago in a speech by Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.). It was picked up and endorsed in principle soon afterward by some leaders of the life insurance insurance.

One who did so was John S. Pillsbury Jr., then chairman of the principal industry association, the Institute of Life Insurance. He cited what he called "the obscurity that surrounds the question of cost to the buyer of his life insurance policy."

He acknowledged that the method most commonly used by the industry for determining life insurance cost was not always clear and accurate. Echoing some consumer advocates, he called for an effort by the industry to find a method "that will be understood and accepted."

Partly as a result of his speech, the institute and two other industry associations conducted a thorough study of the problem. They issued a report last year strongly suggesting that the traditional method was not adequate because of several important cost factors not included in it.

In an effort to sell insurance, most salesmen use the traditional method of figuring costs. They add up the yearly premiums for the period of discussion, then deduct projected "dividends" and cash value. The result, which is called net cost, is then divided by the number of years to indicate net cost per year.

BUT THIS method ignores the substantial matter of interest costs, the amount of money which the premiums would have earned automatically if they were simply sitting in a bank savings account. The method also ignores the effects of policy lapses and variances in mortality rates.

Although alternate methods were explored and shown to be more truthful in indicating life insurance costs. the industry does not appear to be interested in changing its ways that have been so profitable over the years.

One of the strong forces of resistance to change is the confusing complexity of life insurance. Some salesmen themselves are unaware of how deceptive their resentations can be. Most people are so confused by the mass of figures usually presented that they simply take the salesman's word.

The truth is, however, that many people — perhaps millions — would probably buy a different type of policy if they knew exactly what they were paying for. About 80 per cent of all life insurance sold is known as "straight" life. It is a combination of pure protection and investment.

Advocates of more "truth" in life insurance simply want the two cost features disclosed clearly. This would give each prospective policyholder an opportunity to compare "straight" life insurance costs to term insurance, which has no savings or investment feature.

MANY AGENTS are reluctant to voluntarily offer this kind of a cost breakdown because they make much more in commissions on "straight" life.

This should not keep present and prospective policyholders from seeking such figures. Life insurance is expensive; consumers deserve the full facts.

NOTE: In a column last year, I offered to eat my hat and other things if any insurance agent could show one case in which "dividends" and cash values paid to a policyholder have amounted to more than what he could have earned by investing the difference between term and "whole" life premims at 4 per cent.

After much correspondence, it appears that about five out of 40 replies indicate such a situation. But the Institute of Life Insurance, which was proposed as an arbitrator, has refused such a role. So numerous questions remain unresolved and apparently unresolvable.

Also, in each case, it would be necessary for the policyholder to cash in his policy to get the stated return. Such an action, of course, would leave him without any life insurance, while the holder of term insurance would still have both his policy and his investment.

Term insurance is not the answer to every consumer's prayer. But until some insurance expert can illustrate how a "straight" life policyholder can get his cash value out without losing his insurance protection, I see no reason to consume any articles of clothing.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The booklets at the San Rafael ooffice may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

Hemlines Go To Longer Lengths

There's only one direction for the hemline to go and that is longer, says a major fashion retailer. The length will not necessarily be mid-calf, but it will be longer than the mini of past seasons. "A woman is no longer interested in looking like a caricature of her daughter," the company said. "Her silhouettes will include a hemline that stops just at the top of the knee."

ON THE AGENDA

Funds Are Sought To Send Athletes To The Calfironia Special Olympics

The Marin County Special Olympics has begun the 1971 campaign to send a local term to the California Special Olympics in Los Angeles in July to compete with other athletes throughout California.

The Special Olympics is a program of organized athletics for retarded children. It was first organized in Marin County in 1969 when the Marin Aid to Retarded Children noticed the success of the Kennedy Foundation's work with the retarded through a fitness program. The Marin program is sponsored by the Cedars Development Foundation of Marin, the Marin County Recreation for the Handicapped and Marin Aid to Retarded Children.

Anyone interested in making a contribution may do so at the Cedars Development Foundation, the Easter Seal Society of Marin, Marin Aid to Retarded Children or the Clipped Wings, Marin Chapter of former United Airlines Stewardesses.

CHARLES R. THURMAN of Greenbrae has been named Boss of the Year by the Marin Chapter of American Business Women's Association. He is with Lawrence Warehouse Co. in San Francisco and is the boss of Mrs. Harold Looper.

THEMARINCatholicWomen's Club will hold a dinner and meeting for members and their guests tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of the school.

Chairmen are Mrs. Charles Chiapellone and Mrs. Stanley Lawrence, with entertainment being provided by the drama society of the school.

Reservations chairmen are Mrs. Donald Rodriquez and Mrs. Thomas Keating, and all proceeds will benefit the high school.

ROSARIUM INSTITUTE 175, Young Ladies Institute, will meet at the Blue Rock in Larkspur tonight.

Chairman for the evening is Mrs. Harold Bates. The social hour will be at 6:30 p.m., with dinner to follow. Secret pals will be revealed during the evening.

EIGHT MEMBERS of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers who received 100-hour service pins in December are Mmes. Joseph Asiano, Kentfield; Ernest Brymer and Francis Keane, Mill Valley; Mr. Kent Cannon, Mmes. Michael Linwood and Edward Robinson, Tiburon; Miss Lee Colley, San Rafael; and Miss Diane Kermoian, Corte Madera.

Pins for 200 hours of service went to Miss Diane Buttner, San Rafael; and Mrs. Harry Gibbon, Greenbrae; 300-hour pins were presented to Mmes. William Glander, Kentfield; Robert Miller, Greenbrae; and Michael Nagle, San Rafael.

The recipients of 400-hour awards are Mmes. Charles Heiman, Larkspur; Hugh Laymon, Tiburon; Gus Miller, Inverness; Melville Newman, Greenbrae; and William Nolan, Mill Valley, with pins for 500 hours of service going to Mmes. Richard Fromm, Tiburon; Milton Krueger and Roger Verran, San Rafael; William Pemberton, Mill Valley; and Stryker Warren, Sausalito.

Miss Ida Jorgensen, San Rafael, was awarded a 600-hour service pin, and Mmes. Charles Allen, Corte Madera; and George Schocket, Belvedere, received 700-hour awards.

Awards for 800 hours of service went to Mmes. Robert Allen, Mill Valley; and Harold Arthur and Mario Pellegrini, San Rafael, while Miss Evelyn Terry, San Rafael, was the recipient of a 900-hour service pin.

Mrs. Albert MacCarthy, Mill Valley, was given an award pin for 100 hours of service, and Mrs. Albert Maysonave, San Rafael, received a 1500-hour service pin.

A 2000-hour service pin went to Mrs. Hugh Carruthers, Kentfield.

Pitting Aluminum

Avoid leaving food standing in an aluminum vessel longer than necessary. Minerals in foods cause pitting of aluminum.

MARY WEISSENBURGER

Couple Set A June 26 Wedding

The engagement of Mary Elizabeth Weissenburger to William Edward Denson of San Rafael has been announced by Mary's parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. J. Weissenburger of Novato.

The sister of Lawrence J. Weissenburger Jr. of Novato, the bride-elect is a Terra Linda High School graduate and is a senior at Dominican College.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. (Vern) Dawson of San Rafael and the brother of Thomas Denson. He, too, was graduated from Terra Linda High School and then attended the Control Data Institute in San Francisco. He is employed with Price Waterhouse there.

A June 26 wedding is being planned by the couple.

Prevent Dents

To prevent dents in utensiles, store them in an easy-to-reach place so they can be removed without moving others. Make racks for storage of pots, lids, pie pans, thin baking sheets, and trays.

A Top Woman In Politics Aims A Campaign At Young

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Anne Armstrong, new top woman on the Republican National Committee, will concentrate on the young as well as those of her own sex in trying to attract new support for the party.

Mrs. Armstrong, 43-year-old wife of a wealthy Texas rancher, has been named co-chairman of the committee along with Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas and Thomas Evans of Wilmington, Del.

She replaces Elly Peterson, former assistant committee chairman. Although she was a Barry M. Goldwater delegate at the 1964 Republican convention, Mrs. Armstrong received broad support from the GOP's liberal Eastern wing.

MRS. ARMSTRONG said she plans to be especially active among youth — bringing experience as the mother of five ages 14 through 19. She bears strongly in mind that the voting age for national elections has been lowered to 18.

But her main focus will be winning female supporters for President Nixon. The outlook may be a little rosier for her now that the White House has conceded that it should put more women in top federal jobs.

Mrs. Armstrong feels that she has an advantage in being what she describes as "an average housewife."

She worked her way up through party ranks and in 1968 became a national committeewoman for Texas, a state where Republicans have long been in the minority.

Mrs. Armstrong was born and reared in New Orleans. She attended school in the East and was graduated from Vassar with a B.A. She is a Phi Beta Kappa.

HER HUSBAND'S cattle ranch at Armstrong, Tex., near the Gulf coast, adjoins the huge King Ranch.

Right now she is looking for a place to live in Washington, with her husband planning to commute from Texas to visit her.

Sticky Irons

Irons will sometimes stick to clothing. This is particularly true if too much starch has been used. A small amount of salt in the starch will help to keep the iron from sticking. The iron may stick to rayon or synthetic fabrics because the iron is too hot.

Ossie Clark Thinks About The Women He Designs For

and I was never pressured into doing anything I didn't want to do. And I just started making clothes that were very different from everyone else. At first everyone thought it was a joke, but then, as we collected a kind of trendy, hip clientele, they began to take notice of me," he says.

Ossie says he has no particular woman in mind when he begins work on a collection.

"But I do have a type of woman," he says." She's healthy, elegant and vampish."

HE DOESN'T see much hope for well built women becoming fashionable again - for some time, anyway - "because it's so difficult unless you use those lavish fabrics and yards and yards of material, pushing great bosoms above the dress and all round pink shoulders. It was all in the past, reflecting the healthy life of a minority," he says.

To look fashionable he suggests they should experiment with different looks and "just spend hours and hours in front of a mirror to see what looks best".

He thinks clothes are going to get more and more erotic.

"I think women are bored with the idea of being equal to men, and they want to return to the idea of being women again, romantic and very feminine. It's already happening - clothes with long skirts and low necklines and tight little bottoms," he says.

The most common mistake women make, he says, is that "they're more concerned about what people will think of them than how they feel in the clothes they wear. Usually it's the husband. And that's very bad".

APART FROM London women ("very sophisticated") he rates the French as perhaps the best dressed nation, "although the women who have the bread are usually a little older than you would like. I think Americans are really very badly dressed. It's because they're so keen to represent a look. It used to be the Jackie Kennedy look - they all wore pillar-box red coats and patent shoes and that was all you ever saw in America. Now it's even worse. There is this kind of woman who flies a lot, and she has taken to this terrible non-creasing, foam backed, man-made fiber. It's absolutely horrible," he says.

Ossie Clark has been a fashion leader for three years now, and if London hasn't actually overtaken Paris as the fashion center of the world it has certainly got into the world market for the first time in a really big way. Quorum export their clothes all over Europe and to the United States. He says that he doesn't worry about holding his position, of running out of ideas.

"This is the big difference between London and Paris," he says." Paris thinks up whole new drastic changes simply to sell more clothes each year. Here we make clothes that people really like. We continue the feeling. It flows through more logically. All my designs really are on a similar theme, the continuation of what I've been doing before."

Ossie's near inaudible voice increases in volume when the subject of stealing ideas comes up.

"Often people come to the same conclusions at the same time but the difference is, if I come across something someone else has done when I am drawing I just throw it away. Others don't. It's so silly really, copying other people's ideas line for line. Now there is this big international market to make lots of bread. Duplicates can't make it," he says.

BUT HE does get annoyed when the designers who copy ideas are credited with having started them.

"The press said Paris started the midi! That's what they said! Paris! Can you believe it?" he asks.

He is quite adamant that sudden changes in fashion - like the switch from mini to maxi, which suddenly forced fashion conscious women to change their wardrobes - are not deliberate.

RETREAT FROM THE MESS

Seals rest on the rocks of Angel Island, shunning invading oil. Both the east and west coast of Marin were blackened yesterday with oil spilled from Monday's collision between two Standard Oil Co. tankers in the Golden Gate. (See stories, pictures on page 1.)

Tentative Ferry Terminal Nod

A compromise site for a main ferry terminal for Sausalito — at the foot of El Portal Street — was tentatively approved last night by the Sausalito City Council by 4-0 vote. Councilman Wyman Hicks was absent on vacation.

But the council also asked the Golden Gate Bridge District, which operates the ferry, to provide an additional docking facility in the Marinship area at the city's north end.

The council's action will place the permanent terminal where the ferryboat's temporary docking facility is now located adjacent to the Ferry Berkeley, a site the council had originally envisioned as a whistle stop. The Marinship area, which the city had planned as site of a permanent main terminal, will be used for the district's whistle stop.

Members of the bridge district's transportation committee attending the session, which drew an overflow crowd into city hall, agreed they could "live with" the city's proposal.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, chairman of the transportation committee, said the bridge district would have preferred the terminal site it had selected in Central Sausalito, between Litho and Locust streets. But he called the downtown terminal and limited service from the north (Marinship) "agreeable solutions."

Several council members warned the district it proposal for a 350-unit underground parking lot, which was part of the Litho Street site plan, was "out of the question."

"I will never favor a heavy concentration of parking downtown," Councilman Robin Sweeny said emphatically.

The council stressed that final action on the terminal location, along with specific plans and conditions for its development, could not be formally approved until the district has made an application to the city for a change in the use permit which allows ferry operation in Sausalito. The original permit, approved by the council last summer, calls for a permanent main terminal in Marinship, coupled with a downtown whistlestop.

The council thus went along with the city's planning commission which on Jan. 6 rejected the central terminal site on the recommendation of Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt. At that time Borgwardt said the proposed terminal would have a negative impact on the city's central waterfront plan which calls for development of the adjacent Caldeonia Street area as a resident-serving commercial district. The underground parking plan was in opposition to the city's plan to eventually do away with most parking in the central district, Borgwardt said.

The council's decision capped two-and-one-half hours of discussion which included a report of a survey of 3,500 Sausalito residents by the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with Sausalito Artists and Merchants and the Village Fair Association.

Chamber president Raymond Roy said 1,200 of the questionnaires which were mailed to all Sausalito homes and businesses, had been returned. He said the response was overwhelmingly in favor of ferry service, both for commuters and tourists and for a downtown ferry terminal.

Inmate Robles Described As A 'Homicidal Maniac'

A Marin Superior Court jury was told yesterday that San Quentin inmate Leo Estrada Robles was a "homicidal maniac" as testimony in Robles's murder penalty trial began.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman, in his opening statement to the jury of six women, said that Robles has said he will kill again.

Herman said he will ask for the death penalty.

Robles was found guilty in 1968 of murdering a fellow inmate in the psychiatric ward at San Quentin. He was sentenced to death but the sentence was overturned by the California Supreme Court, which ruled that the late Judge Harold J. Haley should not have allowed the murderer to act as his own attorney during the penalty phase of the trial.

Herman yesterday read to the jury excerpts from a letter Robles wrote to Deputy Public Defender Edward Briggs, who is representing Robles in the new penalty trial.

Robles wrote that "the death of that pig Harold J. Haley brought much joy to me."

The letter was written four days after Haley was killed in the shoot-out that ended an escape attempt by three other San Quentin prisoners from the Hall of Justice.

"I'm still praying that the pig dies," Robles wrote of Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas who was critically wounded in the shoot-out.

James Glen Perkins, who was hospital officer at San Quentin the night Robles killed fellow inmate Forrest Smith, testified yesterday that he allowed Robles to stay out of his room an additional hour that night to watch television.

It was during that hour, between 10 and 11 p.m., Nov. 6, 1967, that Robles Beat Smith over the head with a pillow case filled with lead weights and then slashed Smith's throat with a razor blade attached to a tooth brush.

Following the murder, Robles went up to Perkins and said, "Now look, don't get mad at me. I did something wrong."

Comptroller Of District Picked

Director R. J. Toussant of the Terra Linda Community Services District has been named comptroller of the district's finances, vice chairman Richard L. Less reported yesterday.

The board at its Monday night meeting, set 8 p.m. Monday at the Terra Linda firehouse for a study session of district finances, Less said.

It set 8 p.m. Jan. 28 at the Northgate Branch of the Bank of Marin for a public informational meeting on a proposed subdivision at the end of Orchid Drive. Architect Richard H. Olmstead will discuss the subdivision which is within the City of San Rafael, Less said.

Oil Spill Doomed For Bottom Of Bay

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — Much of the oil spilled in the bay Monday will end up on the bottom of the bay with unknown consequences, the executive officer of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board predicted yesterday.

The specific gravity of the partially refined oil appeared to be about the same as that of the bay water, and a "fair amount of the stuff" will settle to the bay bottom, said Fred H. Dierker.

He said that the environmental impact of the sludge on the bay bottom could not be determined without extensive study.

Dierker told the Independent-Journal he had observed that the oil tended to float freely at various depths, and did not all go to the surface.

This, of course, will foil attempts to skim the mess from the bay with devices that were designed to operate only on the surface. It also circumvented attempts to build surface barriers to confine the spreading oil, a lesson learned at the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon. Barriers there proved useless when the oil flowed under the barriers into the lagoon.

Warrant Out In Pot Case

A bench warrant was issued yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for David Raymond Minard, 18, of no known address, when he failed to appear for a preliminary hearing on a charge of possessing marijuana.

Judge David Menary Jr. set bail on the warrant at $1,000.

Minard was arrested Dec. 15 when Novato police stopped his car because of a broken tail light. Marijuana was found in the car and in Minard's pocket, police said.

Sausalito Housing Plan Approved

An 18-unit planned housing development at Santa Rosa Avenue and Glen Drive won approval last night from the Sausalito City Council.

The council upheld a planning commission decision to permit developer David Hunter to build the cluster development which includes single family homes, duplexes and triplexes in the single family residential zone.

Plans for the development have already been approved by the planning commission.

Before acting, the council heard objections from several neighbors who said Hunter's proposal would ruin the "character" and "flavor" of the neighborhood.

The Sausalito City Council also:

CONDOMINIUMS — Agreed to permit developers of the Marina Vista subdivision, now under construction near Nevada Street, to sell the 192 proposed units as condominiums. The original city approval for the development specified it would consist of rental duplexes.

WATERFRONT USES — Asked the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to reject two amendments it will considar tomorrow which would permit nonwater-oriented commercial recreation uses on land around the bay.

FERRY SCHEDULED — Agreed to allow the Golden Gate Bridge District to drop its 6 a.m. weekday ferry run from Sausalito to San Francisco. The district asked to drop the run because not enough persons (from eight to 20) are using the boat at that hour. Councilman Robin Sweeny opposed eliminating the early run.

Reed Teacher To Marin CTA Post

Nancy Cook, a teacher at Granada School in Reed School District, has been installed as 1971 president of the California Teachers Association Council of Marin.

Allen Cutler, San Rafael High School teacher, is vice president; Jean Doyle, Olive School in Novato Unified School District, secretary, and John Rojas, Park School in Mill Valley School District, treasurer.

Bert Skaggs is executive director of the council, which has its headquarters at 16 Mary Street, San Rafael.

Kettenhofen Seeks PUC Seat; Reagan Announcement Expected

Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo, unsuccessful Republican nominee for the state Board of Equalization in November, today confirmed reports that he is a candidate for appointment to the state Public Utilities Commission.

The five-member commission has had an empty seat since the term of Albert W. Gatov of Kentfield expired on Dec. 31. Commissioners serve six years at an annual salary of $30,000.

Kettenhofen told the Independent-Journal that Gov. Ronald Reagan was expected to announce Gatov's replacement within the next week. Gatov was the only Democrat on the commission, and his replacement will make it an entirely Reagan-appointed commission.

Ironically, Kettenhofen lost the November election to Democrat William M. Bennett of Kent Woodlands, who previously served on the PUC. Kettenhofen, a former county supervisor, said that if appointed to the PUC he still may run again for the Board of Equalization. The board may be reapportioned and its members face reelection in 1972.

Kettenhofen said he would bring "a businessman's viewpoint" to the PUC.

Battle Of The Environment: What Must We Do?

By Roscoe and Geoffrey Drummond

WASHINGTON — We do not cry wolf when there is only a lamb at the door. There is a perilous environmental crisis at the door. It is a lot bigger than the kind of thinking that's now going into meeting it.

Neither the public nor the government is facing up to the staggering cost of bringing the worst of pollution — air and water — to tolerable levels.

We see little evidence that most Americans accept the one crucial truth that must be acted upon if anything adequate is to be done.

THE TRUTH is that our total environment has both definite population limits and definite productivity limits. If we continue to exceed them we are putting ourselves in mortal combat with nature. In such combat the odds are overwhelmingly with nature.

Neither the President nor Congress is doing much more than patting the problem. Nixon has asked for some modest beginning measures. Primarily at the initiative of Sen. Edmund Muskie (D-Me.), Congress is ordering the motor industry to produce virtually pollution-free automobiles by 1975-76.

The lesson of our environmental decay is this: To get more things, more conveniences, more production, we should have given something in return.

We never did. We constantly grasped for the material things and simultaneously punished and sacrificed the environment.

NOW THE SCHOOL of environmental doomsday says we must "stop or perish." But what will we have to do if we decide to "stop" instead of "perish"? Stop what?

To answer that question we cite the "Eco-Commandments" prepared by Dr. Paul Kilburn, biology professor at Principia College in Elsah, Ill. The commandments are not as many as the biblical 10, but they could be just as tough to observe:

1 — Thou shalt live by the laws of ecology.

2 — Thou shalt not allow the introduction of any chemical or any material on earth whose environmental effects have not been fully investigated and weighed in the decision to allow their use.

3 — Thou shalt not allow any increased production of any sort that results in an increase in pollution.

4 — Thou shalt not allow any increase in the number of people now living upon the earth.

5 — Thou shalt not allow production of any items without full regard to their disposal.

6 — Thou shalt not allow any development in any town, city, county, region or country without sound ecological planning.

THESE ECO-COMMANDMENTS are certainly demanding but not much more so than those proposed by W. T. Pecora, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, who says:

"Cities and industries should not use the water available from natural resources without factoring in the cost of returning water to a usable state. The smokestacks of our refineries and energy plants must not use materials that put unwanted matter into our air. A mineral source should not be developed unless it is rich enough to support power restoration and reutilization of the land."

But look at the massive mineral resource needs of the United States today. Within the life span of the 200 million people now living in this nation we will consume:

6½ quadrillion gallons of water
7½ billion tons of iron ore
1½ billion tons of aluminum ore
1 billion tons of phosphate rock
100 million tons of copper
and so forth.

As the American population grows at its present rate, in only 30 years:

Water usage will triple.
Energy requirements will triple.

We will have to replace and construct again every material facility that now exists in the nation — from houses to highways, sewer systems to skyscrapers.

That is, if man is still able to inhabit this planet.

ECOLOGISTS ARE convinced that three things must be done soon if we are to survive by living in harmony with nature:

1 — We must resolve the conflict between the need to develop the earth's resources and the need to preserve the earth's environment.

These goals must be brought into balance. If we don't we will find that increasing the gross national product means intolerably increasing the gross national pollution. We must control the population growth, and we must be willing to give up some conveniences while nature recovers its ecological balance.

2 — We must be prepared to pay the costs of cleaning up past pollution and radically reducing it in the future.

MAURICE MANN, assistant director of the Office of Management and Budget in the White House, estimates it will cost at least $100 billion over the next five years to deal with the air and water pollution and solid wastes alone.

3 — Industry must accept the cost of ending its own polluting. The best way is to levy a tax on pollutants which industry pumps into the air and water. In addition to a tax a levy on consumer goods that add to pollution, like leaded gasoline should be instated.

Such action would result in two things.

(1) — It would require polluters to pay the price of abating the pollution they cause.

(2) — It would discourage consumers from buying and industry from making pollution-producing products.

Conscientious legislation such as this is very strict, and the public may be loath to accept it, but we must keep vividly before us that we are deep into a dangerous environment crisis. We are in a virtual state of war — the people against the armies of environmental decay. Ineffect, us against ourselves.

(Next: How our system of government must be radically re-shaped to win the Battle of the Environment.)

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Legislators Should Be Required To Open Sessions

Assemblyman William M. Ketchum, R-Bakersfield, is a man not easily discouraged.

Two years ago, Ketchum introduced a bill to require open meetings of committees of the legislature, and a constitutional amendment to put that requirement where the legislature could not change it. Both were killed in committee.

But this year, he has introduced the same bill and proposed constitutional amendment again.

THE LEGISLATURE, over the years, has passed numerous bills requiring open meetings by other public agencies, most of which are incorporated in the chapters of law known as the Ralph M. Brown Act for its originator. But the legislators have been loath to enforce the same requirements on themselves.

The standard excuse for killing such bills as Ketchum's is that a requirement for open committee meetings is unnecessary since the final action on any bill must be taken in open session.

This, of course, begs the point. The Ralph M. Brown Act was not made necessary by final action of boards of supervisors, city councils, school boards, etc., being taken in open session. Rarely did any such body hold a closed, unannounced action session. But regularly they met behind closed doors to thresh out their differences, decide what they would do when they let the public watch. Many of their public sessions were mere shams, formalizing for the record decisions reached in secret.

VERY MUCH the same thing occurs in the legislature.

"Everybody knows, when we have a tough decision ... we can get together in a closed meeting to work it out, and all the public knows is the decision," said Ketchum on introducing his measures. "The constitution says we can do it. My proposal says we can't."

The language of the Ralph M. Brown Act is quite clear on the point.

"In enacting this chapter," it says, "the legislature finds and declares that the public commissions, boards and councils and the other public agencies in this state exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business. It is the intent of the law that their actions be taken openly and their deliberations be conducted openly."

CERTAINLY the legislature exists for the conduct of the people's business. Certainly it is an agency of government. But this law, on the books since 1953, has never been applied to it. There is no requirement that the deliberations of legislative committees be taken openly.

There should be. Assemblyman Ketchum's measures are entitled to better success this year than they had two years ago. But if they are to succeed, a little pressure needs to be put on his fellow legislators from the voters back home.

Drive To Legalize Gambling Aided By State's Budget Crunch

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It follows as sure as night follows day that 1971 will be the year of the big drive for legalizing gambling in California.

This comes from the fact that the budget is out of balance and the state is hard up for funds.

Sen. Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, has introduced a bill calling for a nine-man commission to study whether gambling should be permitted in certain areas as a source of state revenue. This is a gimmick which hasn't been tried before.

Even if a finding were favorable to gambling, it would not be established for nearly two years, as a constitutional amendment would be necessary.

OVER THE MANY years this writer has had occasion to comment on gambling in California, he has opposed legalization on the grounds that gambling produces nothing.

A gambling casino adds nothing to the wealth of the state, as does a construction project, or the growing of an agricultural product.

All kinds of moral arguments have been advanced over the years to prohibit gambling. But in fact they all boil down to the fact that someone wants to run the lives of others.

Naturally, it isn't sound for an individual to blow the weekly pay check at the gambling table. But should the people prevent him from doing so if he wants to?

THIS IS WHOLLY apart from the matter of taxation. There would be no excuse for over-taxing gambling if it were legal. The governments impose "sin" taxes, or liquor and other taxes on questionable items without restraint. California is not new to gambling; time horse racing is legal and tremendously over-taxed.

Song's purpose is to raise revenue from a gambling tax. He says Californians spend over $300 million in Nevada, which could well be spent in California, thereby giving this state's taxpayers a break.

He proposes areas approaching the Nevada border and at San Simeon be allowed to conduct legal gambling. It could be that this would be unconstitutional, as what's good for one area would be good for all.

But be that as it may, there appears to be no reason for shutting off gambling from the people when they can cross an imaginary line and gamble all they choose.

MAN BITES DOG

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

The youth gets together his materials to build a bridge to the moon, or perhaps a palace or temple on the earth, and at length the middle-aged man concludes to build a woodshed with them. — Henry David Thoreau.

Strawberry Cove Suits Harassment

In the Jan. 8 issue of the Independent-Journal there was an extensive article on the law suits filed in connection with Mr. Paul Broman's Strawberry Cove project.

This project has been approved by the Marin County Planning Commission, the board of supervisors, and the Marin Conservation League and, generally, acclaimed as a well-conceived and designed project from the aesthetic and ecological standpoint.

In spite of this, certain groups are doing all in their power to keep the land from being developed. In effect, they are seeking to confiscate private property which it is beyond their financial means to purchase for the use of the public.

I believe the issue here is the question of the "public" having the right to deny an individual the use of his land without compensation.

There is an area of about five acres within one block of my home that is undeveloped and a really enjoyable open space. I like the open space and use it but would honestly not be willing to increase my taxes to pay to buy it for the public use. If we would honestly ask ourselves individually, "Would I increase my taxes to buy this open space?" before opposing a proposed development I believe there would be a great deal less obstructionist opposition to development and our county could develop in a more orderly manner.

After all, "developer" is not a four-letter word. Each one of us lives in a home developed by a developer and yet Marin is a lovely place in which to live.

'Dear Heart Award' To Planning Board

Please publish this communique to let the general public be aware of the "Dear Heart Award" I extended to the Marin County Planning Commission on KTIM during my program, "Home Town News," on Jan. 13. It was in conjunction with your news coverage of the Monday planning commission meeting where, as a member of the public, I requested recognization by the chairman, Mr. Walter Freitas, and I preceded to "lay the commission out in lavender" for being so late in hearing the item, Ignacio Industrial Park revised plan, which was scheduled for 10:18 a.m.

For the chairman to take an hour with the commission to "do some soul-seeking" to overcome the known problems in handling the general public's request for improvement deserves merit. Therefore, to Mr. Walter Freitas, chairman and to all the members of the Marin County Planning Commission, this irate citizen extends her heartful "thank you" and you will be receiving "Dear Heart Award" through the mail.

Multiple Benefits In Re-Using Oil

I have been told that there is a sizeable glut of used oil being stored in and about the Bay Area. This situation has arisen because it is cheaper for petroleum companies to refine crude oil.

A change in governmental policy will allow this useless oil to be used. Instead of oil depletion allowance subsidy, there should be allowances for the incremental cost of the refinement of used oil. Thus, the corporations will still retain their profits and at the same time, society will better use existing resources. As a nation, we will have less need for new oil finds and therefore our strategic dependancy on such finds will be reduced.

Since re-refined oil is purer than once-refined, the government need not require differentiation in the labeling of the two products and consumers would not therefore discriminate between the two.

I would hope that this suggestion will help diminish the probability of oil seepage crises such as we have recently seen.

University's Abortion Fund Sure Indicator Of Times

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Anybody still unconvinced that time marches on must have missed the news that at the University of Maine, an institution not widely known for its radicalism, the student body has voted to set up an abortion fund.

Out of the regular student activities fee, which at most schools covers things like basketball admissions and student newspapers, the school intends to set aside a percentage so that girls who make a mistake can go to New York and have it corrected. While the students are thus asserting their rights in Maine, here in the capital the Supreme Court is considering for the first time that most emotional social issue, legalized abortion.

It is asked to rule on the vagueness of laws limiting such operations to those "necessary for the preservation of the mother's health." But the questions put by the justices indicate that their ruling, expected this spring, may cover much broader ground than that.

WHATEVER THE COURT holds on this specific appeal, its opinion will be less reflective of what is happening in the country than the vote taken at the University of Maine. The momentum toward legally unrestricted abortions in America is by now unstoppable.

Opposition continues, of course, most predictably from the Catholic Church but also from other groups and individuals. But public opinion is running the other way. In Washington state, for example, a referendum found 55 per cent of voters in favor of legalized abortions.

The opposition, however sincerely based, is inevitably fighting a rearguard action. That based on religious grounds is unarguable; you either accept it or you don't. That on other grounds comes often from those of high intelligence and motivation. But it seldom comes from women who themselves have faced the long-standing alternatives of either having an unwanted child or arranging and enduring an illegal operation.

A COMMON ASSERTION is that abortion should not be legalized because of the scars it leaves on the memory of those involved. However, if you ask women who have decided against bearing the child in a time and place where abortion was illegal, you discover that the scars on their memory are from the panic-stricken search for help; from the grubby financial arrangements, often carried on in an environment of other crime; from the frequently unsanitary conditions for the operation, and from their cold fear of what would happen if complications followed.

By contrast, the operations now performed aboveground in New York and elsewhere when the law permits are done with minimum embarrassment, danger or pain. In New York, studies show "overwhelming relief" to be the patients' most common post-operative feeling.

Some objections presented by those who would maintain tight legal barriers apply more appropriately to "reform of abortion reform" than to maintenance of the old restrictions. Among the most legitimate are that so far there has not been a drastic reduction of criminal abortions, and so far the aim of readily available low-cost operations for the poor has not been realized.

THESE GO TOGETHER. If criminal abortions continue where professionally performed abortions are legal, the remedies are to educate the public to the new laws and to make legal operations as cheap as criminal ones.

Most often, it is the poor and unschooled who are unaware that safe, legal operations are possible for fees of about $200, and even that may be too much for them. So some clinics are lowering that fee to $150, and it is bound to go lower. Here in Washington, an outpatient abortion clinic opened this week, its patients limited to married women with families and incomes under $10,000, and single women earning under $6,000.

What must be faced, joyfully or reluctantly depending on your outlook, is that the steps remaining ahead in abortion reform are education, standardization and broadening to reach those most needy. There is no purpose in further debating liberalization itself. It is an idea whose time has come.

School Reform Attempts Disregard Party Lines

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

It appears that efforts at legislative reform of California's public school system will disregard party lines this year.

Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan, in his "State of the State" message, echoed the call for school accountability sounded by the new superintendent of public instruction, Wilson C. Riles, who — although he holds a non-partisan office — is a Democrat.

"Over the past 18 months," said Reagan, "the Governor's Commission on Education Reform... has been studying the program changes necessary to restore some meaning to the elementary and secondary school programs. I can tell you of their dismay over the functional illiteracy evidenced by so many of our high school graduates. Far too many of these young men and women have failed to acquire the ability to read, to write, to compute and to communicate. It is not enough to say they have failed; it is more pertinent to ask, 'has the system failed?' and if so, how can it be corrected?"

INTRODUCED IN the new legislature even before the governor's speech was AB 56 by Democratic Assemblyman Bill Greene of Los Angeles. It provides that a pupil can be passed, promoted, or graduated "solely on the basis of his achievement in the course of study... and the age of the pupil shall not be taken into consideration for such purposes."

This strikes at the prime cause of the functional illiteracy among high school graduates to which the governor referred the automatic promotion system. If Democrat Greene's bill becomes law, the schools will be forced to a measure of accountability.

The Republican governor also spoke of the need for more technical training in the public schools — a subject about which there has been much talk but not very much action.

"Almost half of our California young people do not go to college," Reagan noted. "We should move to lift technical education to its proper status and help it fulfill its tremendously important role."

AGAIN, IT WAS Democrat Bill Greene who introduced legislation to carry out, at least in part, what the Republican governor advocated.

In three bills — AB 54, 60, and 61 — he provided for a vocational staff in the office of the chancellor of the California community colleges, for inclusion of vocational-technical schools in the community colleges, for inclusion of vocational education fund of not to exceed $50 million to get the program going.

"There is always need for innovation in any system; education must be no exception," said the Republican governor. "There are those who see the 'voucher plan' as the answer to making schools more responsive. There are others who see it as a threat of unutterable evil. No one on either side seems to have facts upon which to base his often emotional stand. Why shouldn't we undertake some pilot tests in selected districts and thus introduce some facts into the debate?"

DEMOCRATIC Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan of youth San Francisco introduced a bill to do just that. His AB 29 would set up "demonstration scholarship programs" in an unspecified number of districts, with each school child to receive a "scholarship" (voucher) to pay for his education at a school chosen by his parents.

Ryan also introduced a proposed constitutional amendment (ACA 9) which would make the voucher system statewide.

Declaring that "the original and legitimate reasons for tenure no longer exist," the Republican governor called for "a judicious, sensible phase-out" of the tenure system.

There will be bills along this line, too — very likely, some of them introduced by Democrats.

1 Per Cent Surcharge On Air Travel

GENEVA (UPI)—Airlines today announced a surcharge of one per cent on international passenger travel and 2 per cent on international cargo shipments to cover the cost of navigational facilities.

The extra charges will come into force Nov. 1 and remain until March 31, 1973, when they will be reviewed.

Airlines said they are levying the surcharge because governments will be charging them for navigational facilities as of November. These facilities up to now have been provided free.

The navigational facilities include ground-based aids, communications, air traffic control and meteorological services.

A statement issued by the airlines through the Internatonal Air Transport Association (IATA) said the cost of these facilities will increase by $50 million this year and are estimated at $75 million for 1972.

New Laws Lead To Problems For Marin Humane Society

Three lawmakers from Contra Costa and San Diego counties have handed Marin County a veritable can of worms.

The result: emotional and fiscal indigestion for local officialdom, taxpayers, dog and cat-lovers, the Marin County Humane Society and the Marin County Veterinarians' Association.

Quite a few puppies and kittens may suffer, too, before the mess is resolved.

STATE SEN. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, authored one new state law causing part of the trouble. It requires that any cat placed by an animal shelter, such as the Marin County Humane Center, be spayed or neutered before it can be given to new owners. If the kitten is less than six months old, it is too young for the operation, but the humane society must collect the surgery fee at the time the kitten is placed.

State Sen. James R. Mill, D-San Diego, co-authored another troublesome new law. This one requires any animal control officer or policeman picking up an injured dog or cat to take it immediately to a veterinarian for diagnosis and treatment or euthenasia at the veterinarian's discretion.

PROBLEMS POSED by the two laws are compounded by the fact that the Marin veterinarians stopped making daily calls at the humane center as of Jan. 1. The veterinarians and humane society have been unable to agree on what services the veterinarians should provide at the center, and on charges for desexing cats and treating or euthanizing injured dogs and cats.

In November, 1968, the veterinary society drafted a policy offering free daily calls to the center for routine disease-prevention shots for puppies and kittens, and inspections of sick animals to see if they needed hospitalization.

LAST NOVEMBER, according to veterinarians, the society asked for a meeting with the humane society to formalize the procedure, and to decide whether the policy of charging $1 per shot would be continued. Mel L. Morse, director of the center, told the Independent-Journal the veterinarians now want $250 a month for the service, plus full fees for nighttime calls to inspect injured animals.

Morse said his organization countered by asking the veterinarians for a commitment on desexing charges and emergency services.

The veterinary society then hired an attorney. Robert M. Bramman of San Rafael, new president of the veterinary society, refused to comment on the problem on the attrney's advice that it would be premature.

Other veterinarinarians, however, said the society members felt there was professional risk of fee-fixing charges if a flat rate was set on the desexing operation. The fee now run $35 to as much as $90.

Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator, told the county board of supervisors last month that the laws sponsored by Nejedly, Mills and Barnes and new veterinary arrangements may cost the county as much as $90,000 in the next year.

PLEASE HELP ME

My owner has purchased a new bigger home. I am in A-1 condition, have a great view, terrific location, beautiful landscaping — the only problem is I have only 3 bdrms. Lovely high ceiling living room, dining room or family room. Patio and lawn. Storage room in basement and lots of extras. I even have an electric garage door opener. A charming home — just listed — quick sale needed. $47,950. Eves. 479-5134.

FOR THE SUCCESSFUL EXECUTIVE

Look into the windows of San Francisco office buildings and watch the hikers on Mt. Tam — this is the view from the magnificent living room. From the master bdrm. add Oakland to this fantastic scene. Everything quality in this beautiful luxurious home. Mexican light fixtures thruout, wide hallways, beautiful formal dining room, built-in cupboards straight out of Sunset magazine. Custom made wool carpets (you just sink in), swimming pool. All kinds of parking. Entertainment decks, 3 car garage, lovely lighting, built-in vacuum and gorgeous Spanish tile both inside and out. Quality construction on over 1/2 secluded acre. 5 bdrms. (2 master bdrms.), spectacular family room 4-1/2 baths, everything ready for quality living. $138,500. Eves 388-9317.

PICKUP

Everyone looks for a clean, older pickup that hasn't been beat to death by some heavy construction company or been used for delivery by lots of hot rod kids. Here's a truck that's been used by only one man and he bought it new in '66. Clean as whistle inside and out and it's clean because of care, not repainting.

This popular half-ton pickup has the "283" V8 engine with the efficient 4-speed standard transmission. There is an 8-foot bed on this half ton pickup. A23270

Semantics Enters Support If Cambodia Should Fall

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today it is crucial to the administration's troop withdrawal plans in Southeast Asia that U.S. air and sea power be used to support Cambodia in its fight against Communist aggression.

Laird, who returned from a tour of the Far East last weekend, refused at a news conference to indicate what steps might be taken if Cambodia fell, saying: "I am sure they have the will and determination to succeed."

As for the U.S. involvement in the besieged nation's struggle for survival, Laird said: "I am not going to do anything to restrict the capability of our air and sea operations to protect American lives."

He said the nature of U.S. operations in Indochina amount to "the accelerated forward programs and application of the Nixon Doctrine" for bringing peace to the area.

Laird repeatedly declined to be drawn into a discussion as to whether use of U.S. fighter bombers, helicopter gunships and helicopters to carry South Vietnamese troops or supplies represented an expansion of American policy in providing aid to the Cambodians.

He said emphatically that the congressional ban on use of U.S. ground combat forces in Cambodia will be observed, and said it is a question of semantics whether the policy on air support had changed.

His refusal to state the administration's policy should the Cambodians be overwhelmed came when a reporter asked whether a reversal of the congressional ban on use of ground troops might be sought in that case.

He said the ban applied only to ground combat forces —not to support troops or supply, medical or rescue outfits.

"As long as I am secretary of defense, I will recommend the use of air and sea power in Cambodia to reduce the loss of life as we withdraw our troops from South Vietnam," Laird said.

He said the Cambodian army had expanded from 30,000 to 200,000 men in the past year, and that the South Vietnamese were ahead of schedule in taking over combat assignments in Cambodia.

Regardless of the lag in the Paris peace talks, Laird said' U.S. forces in South Vietnam will be halved by next May 1, and new troop withdrawals will be announced in April.

Three-Front Action In Shoot-Out Case

Action developed in three cities yesterday regarding the Angela Davis — Ruchell Magee Murder and conspiracy case in Marin Superior Court.

In San Rafael, secret witnesses were ushered in and out of a grand jury hearing behind closed doors at the sheriff's department at the Marin Hall of Justice.

In San Francisco, a federal court judge dismissed demands by Magee for damages and dismissal of charges against him.

And in Sacramento, legislation urging President Richard M. Nixon to rescind his invitation to Russians to attend the trial of Miss Davis and Magee was rejected by a State Assembly Committee.

All of the witnesses at the Grand jury hearing — among them a middle-aged black women, three white women and a black man — refused to identify themselves as did an attorney accompanying them.

But one of those testifying was reportedly the mother of so-called Soledad Brother George L. Jackson and Jonathan Jackson, 17-year-old youth who brought guns into the Marin Superior Courtroom and died in the Aug. 7 shoot-out at the Civic Center.

Among the other witnesses, one women was believed to be active with the Soledad defense fund and the attorney was reported to be Marvin Stender, counsel for the Soledad trio.

Assist. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris, who questioned the witnesses before the grand jury, refused to discuss the hearing, but it was believed that Harris and his associates sought additional information about the case rather than further indictments.

Judge Samuel Conti in U.S. District Court in San Francisco, acted yesterday on a series of legal demands made by Magee.

He called the demands "legally frigolous."

Magee unsuccessfully sought $400,000 in general damages and $300,000 in punitive damages from Marin Superior Court Judges Joseph G. Wilson and E. Warren McGuire, Attorney A. Leonard Bjorklund and Court of Appeals Justice Winslow Christian.

Magee had claimed they had acted in "excess of their authority" and accused them of a "plot to maintain a false white racist verbalized charge."

Judge Conti also turned down Magee's demands that his trial be moved to federal court, that the case against him and Miss Davis be declared void and that the state be restrained from any further proceedings against them.

In Sacramento yesterday, the Assembly Rules Committee rejected a move to ask Nixon to withdraw his invitation to 12 Russian scientists to observe the trial of Miss Davis, an avowed Communist, and Magee.

Legislation had been proposed by Assemblyman Ray Johnson, R-Chico, stating the "Angela Davis trial should not be made a political play to give the Communist press more opportunity to refer to our revolutionists as 'political prisoners.'"

Johnson's resolution died when Committee Chairman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, invoked a parliamentary rule which prohibits approval of national and foreign policy measures if one of the seven committee members objects.

Threat Of Strike At Markets

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — All major supermarkets in Marin and seven other Bay Area counties may be closed by a strike Monday, unless management and the Retail Clerks' Union can come to terms on a new contract.

James Bacon, chief negotiator for the Food Employers' Council, said today that contract talks are continuing night and day, but that the union has set a deadline of midnight tomorrow to end the talks.

Sunday, the seven locals representing 17,000 clerks and checkers in the eight counties will meet individually to vote on any terms hammered out.

The two sides were far apart this morning, Bacon admitted. The clerks' union asked a package costing an estimated $2.50 per hour over a three-year period, more than a 50 per cent increase over the $4.015 an hour now paid a journeyman clerk.

The markets, Bacon said, had offered 40 cents an hour for the first year, 13.5 cents the second and 18 cents the third year, a total of 71.5 cents over three years.

Only the pay scales remained at issue today, Bacon said. The negotiators settled no-pay issues earlier in negotiations at a motel near the Oakland International Airport.

Bernard Saccone, president of United Markets chain in Marin County, said in San Rafael today that, "It doesn't look good." He warned a strike would have heavy impact on every Marin resident, because "at least 26 major markets, doing a million dollars a week" in business would be closed unless they could be operated with skeleton supervisorial crews.

"And if the delivery drivers honored the clerks' picket lines, there would be no stock in the stores," Saccone said.

He pointed out that Marinites would be unable to shop in surrounding counties, either. The negotiations involve Sonoma, Napa, Contra Costa, Alameda, San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties.

Bike-Car Wreck Hurts Young Boy

Police said today Charles Kramer of 36 Olive Avenue was crossing Madrone Avenue at its intersection with Olive Avenue at 8:10 a.m. when his bicycle rammed an auto driven by Linda Sabca, 23, of 11 Tremor Street, San Rafael.

Officers said trees at the intersection obstructed the view of both drivers.

Silk-Screen Class Slated At Sausalito

A 10-week course in serigraphy, the application of silk-screen printing, will be taught from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. starting Saturday at the Sausalito Arts Center.

Albert Garvey is instructor. There is a charge for the classes.

Panel Firm: No Teen Center Fund

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission has held fast to its prior recommendation against spending $7,000 for a teen center.

Parks and Recreation Director Edward W. Adams said the staff had recommended starting a teen center at Grace Lutheran Chruch, 1787 Grant Avenue, but the commission took no action Monday night.

The proposal was to remodel the Parsonage, create a drop-in center and operate a recreation program, which would cost about $14,000 a year to operate, Adams said.

There is $7,000 in the city budget which could be used to start the center, but the commission recommended last July that the money be used to develop Pioneer Memorial Park, Adams explained.

Adams also presented commissioners with preliminary findings that a 15-cent override tax rate would bring in about $560,000 over a five-year period for capital improvement projects.

Funds from such an override tax could finance such projects as development of Pioneer Memorial Park, about $100,000, about three-quarters of development of neighborhood parks at Olive, Lynwood, Pleasant Valley and Marion schools, about 200,000 and acquisition and initial development of a park site in San Marin, $87,500.

Commissioners will study the capital outlay program at their Feb. 1 meeting, Adams said.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also:

PARK OFFER — Made no recommendation on an offer by Jones Realty of Cotati to sell 4.5 acres of land in the Scottsdale area for park land at $25,000 after learning the land was six feet below sea level and it would cost about $100,000 to fill it.

CREEK PARK — Approved a revised layout for Novato Creek Park which will provide access from Novato Boulevard rather than San Miquel Way, and provide parking space for 20 cars at the rear of the Novato Prehistory museum.

60 Days' Jail For Two Burglaries

Stephen Robert Carrino, 22, of San Rafael has been sentenced in Marin Superior Court to 60 days in Marin County jail for his part in the burglary of a San Anselmo home last July and a San Rafael residence in September.

Judge E. Warren McGuire on Monday also placed Carrino on probation for two years.

MADDEN'S BOYS

Team Late For Lunch

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— John Madden shepherded his all-star American Conference football squad sheepishly into the Ambassador Hotel about an hour late for the traditional Pro Bowl luncheon Tuesday.

Madden, coach of the Oakland Raiders who won the AFC western division championship seemed totally sincere when he said:

"My biggest problem so far was getting the team to this luncheon on time. We were out on the practice field and I got so engrossed in watching these fine football players I forgot about the lunch."

Madden sends his all-star AFC squad against the National Conference squad Sunday at Menorial Coliseum in the Pro Bowl—the last event of the long post-season.

Madden and Dick Nolan, San Francisco Forty Niner coach and head of the NFC squad, agreed they can't teach their players anything.

"They know how to do it all," said Nolan. "These are all great players and I want to get them all in the game. There is a communication problem on the terminology of formations and plays but that's not too tough. It's an advantage to have your own quarterback. I have John Brodie and Madden has Daryle Lamonica. Your quarterback can help a lot. He can tell them what to do right on the field and that saves a lot of time."

Madden said, "our only real problem is getting the terminology down so we can talk a common language."

This is the 21st annual pro bowl game but the first under a new format since the merger of the National Football League and the American Football League. It used to be played between all-star squads of the western and eastern conferences of the NFL.

Every team is represented. Backup quarterbacks who are expected to see plenty of service are Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants behind Brodie and Bob Griese of Miami behind Lamonica.

At the luncheon master of ceremonies Keith Jackson interviewed several of the players and most of his questions centered on the Super Bowl game won last Sunday by Baltimore over Dallas.

Baltimore's Mike Curtis, a linebacker sometimes known as the "Animal" was modest when questioned about a pass he intercepted to set up the winning field goal.

"I was just lucky to be there in the spot to catch it," he said.

Mel Renfro who was on defense when Baltimore's John Mackey caught a touchdown pass from John Unitas was able to smile about the incident. The Cowboys claimed the catch was illegal because it was tipped by another Baltimore player before Mackey caught it.

"I didn't tip it," said Renfro. "I didn't touch it at all. A fellow in front of me (I won't name him) tipped it to his buddy and he ran away with it."

Other stars present who spoke briefly included three dazzling running backs, remembered better for their feats on the gridiron than their rhetoric, They were Cleveland's Leroy Kelly, Washington's Larry Brown and Detroit's Mel Farr.

THE BIG SQUEEZE — Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins, playing for the East, found himself caught in the middle as Jim Neilson (15) and J.C. Tremblay (3) of the West battled for the puck in last night's National Hockey League All-Star game in Boston. The underdog West team surprised the East, 2-1. (UPI Telephoto)

Terra Linda Upsets Tam Basketballers

Trojans Triumph By 54-52

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Terra Linda High School, which could not buy a basket against Redwood last Friday, struck it rich in Mill Valley last night.

Led by forward Joe Casteel, the Trojans upset the highly-ranked Tamalpais Indians, 54-52 before a standing-room-only crowd in the Indians' tiny gym in Mill Valley.

Terra Linda's inspired and undeniable effort, during which Casteel served as the catalyst both on offense and defense, knocked the Indians out of the Marin County Athletic League lead, and possibly out of the Bay Area's top 10. They were ranked fifth prior to last night's game.

Six times in the second half, Tam closed to within two points, but never tied it up, and in the end not even six points in the last half minute of play could save coach Bernie Schneider's boys.

Casteel, the defensive hero as he took the inside shot away from Tam's Will Garner and blocked several shots by other Indians, led the offense with 15 points. But he was by no means the only Trojan with the hot hand. Two teammates scored in double figures, Bill Berry and Bill LaHaye with 12 each, and Gordon Walker, the smallest man on the court, had eight.

Tam's attack was the product of two men — Garner, and John Earl Huff. Despite Casteel's great coverage, Garner got a game-high 23 points, and Huff hit for 21, including a futile 20-footer at the final buzzer. Other than that, Tam got only eight points, divided among four players.

Early in the game it looked as though the Indians might just blow the game open. They moved to a 7-2 lead, with five points by Huff and two by Garner. But the Trojans kept their cool, and in the opening moments of the second quarter

LEAGUE LEADERS

Redwood Crushes San Rafael Quint

Unceremoniously, but efficiently, the Redwood High School Giants rolled to their fourth Marin County Athletic League basketball victory in as many games yesterday, dumping San Rafael, 56-39 in Larkspur.

The win, coupled with Tam's loss to Terra Linda, gives the defending MCAL champion Giants sole possession of the league lead. Tam and Terra Linda are both a half-game back.

Scott Trobbe and Steve McGee, the league's second and third leading scorers going into the game, hit seven points apiece in the opening quarter as the Giants, almost without realizing it, stormed to an insurmountable, 23-4 lead over the winless Bulldogs. The 250 home town fans in attendance then sat back in confidence as Redwood's second team mopped up.

The quality and pace of the game deteriorated markedly, however, when the Giant frontlines retired to the bench; in the second quarter only 15 points were scored by both teams. But at least San Rafael improved its lot, scoring nine of those points. At halftime the score was 29-13.

Trobbe and McGee, both 6-foot-6, came back in the second half to help their own statistics, and ended up tied for game honors with 13 each. The only other player to hit double figures was San Rafael's Gregg Goodall, who scored 10.

When their big men were out of there, the Giants relied on Dave Tikker, Sam Farb and Tim Hennessey, who collected nine, seven and six points respectively.

San Rafael	4	9	9	17	- 39
Redwood	23	6	9	18	- 56

San Rafael — Molinari, 2-2-6; Thorne, 3-0-6; Swift, 1-0-2; Wright, 1-0-2; Goodall, 4-2-10; Farrar, 2-5-9; B. Lechner, 1-0-2; Kristensen, 1-0-2; Totals — 15-9-39.

Redwood — Farb, 2-3-7; Connor, 2-0-4; Hennessey, 2-2-6; Hagler, 0-2-2; Tikker, 3-3-9; Pedlar, 1-0-2; Trobbe, 6-1-13; McGee, 5-3-13; Totals — 21-14-56.

NHL West Stars Surprise East

BOSTON (UPI)—Holding a National Hockey League All-Star game in the wild and wooly confines of Boston Garden is a little like staging ballet in a saloon.

The Boston Bruin faithful like their hockey rough and tumble and when the NHL's ranking stars played it like a tea party, the fans walked out muttering.

It wasn't enough that the players, mindful of heavy upcoming schedules, passed up the body check in favor of an occasional hug. But when the upstart West Division beat the East, 2-1, the customers popped their corks.

"It was a good, clean hockey game, just what All-Star games should be," East Coach Harry Sinden and West Coach Scotty Bowman said in almost perfect unison afterward.

"No, we didn't need any more body checking than that," the veteran Bobby Hull said after popping in what proved to be the winning goal at 4:38 of the first period.

That was another thing that bugged the locals. All three goals in the game came in the first 6:19 of play. The last 53 minutes and 41 seconds were scoreless.

"It was a 40 foot, one and three-eighths inches shot," Hull joked of his clincher and fourth goal in All-Star competition. Bobby was hurrying off to join his brother, All-Star Dennis, and their parents who had flown in for the 24th annual mid-season showpiece.

The strangest aspect was that the East players, who scored 310 goals among them over the first half of the current season, managed only five shots on the West net and reserve goalie Ernie Wakely over the final 29:19 of play.

"They checked us pretty good," former Bruin coach Sinden said of the West squad. "There wasn't much forechecking or hitting but you can't expect it in a game like this. I think the lack of hitting points out what the game is all about. They should all be proud of themselves, I thought they put on a pleasing show."

Bowman was naturally elated over his first win against the NHL's version of the "Establishment," the East Division. Pointing out that his St. Louis teams had lost 12 straight games in the Stanley Cup finals and that his West squads had lost and tied in earlier All-Star competition, Bowman warned his players they'd get little help from him.

Victory For Marin Catholic

Jim Sullivan came across with nine clutch points in the final quarter last night as the Marin Catholic High School Wildcats turned a see-saw battle into a convincing, 83-73 victory over San Marin in a Marin County Athletic League basketball game in Kentfield.

The Wildcats, before a standing-room-only home town crowd, landed five men in double figures as they evened both their record and San Marin's at 2-2. Bill Donellan, the only senior in the starting five, led all scorers with 27 points, and Sullivan had 19.

With 1:05 left to go, Marin was up by only three points, but three foul shots by Steve Vanni and two crucial baskets by Sullivan assured them of the victory. Sullivan, who did not start but came off the bench in the second quarter, had put his team ahead for good with a jump shot from the corner.

San Marin, down by five at the end of the first quarter and two at the half, evened things up at the end of the third period. But in that third quarter their big center, 6-foot-8 Dana LaFerriere, suffered a sprained ankle, and, although he played with it heavily bandaged in the last period, he was not effective.

He did, however, lead the Mustangs from Novato with 19 points, while three of his teammates hit double figures. Phil Adams and Brad O'Riley provided 13 points apiece, and Mike Kassenbrack added 12.

Donellan's performance, his best of the year, will undoubtedly improve his position among the league's top scorers. He was sixth going into the game.

Novato's DeMaestri Has Red-Hot Night

Joe DeMaestri put on one of the greatest shooting exhibitions in the history of the Marin County Athletic League last night to lift the Novato High School Hornets to their first league win of the year, 67-38 over Drake in Novato.

Despite the disparity in the point spread, the two teams now are tied for fourth place in the MCAL with identical 1-3 records. The Hornets had run into three tough clubs — Redwood, Tamalpais and San Marin, before breathing easy with the San Anselmo club.

DeMaestri, the league's leading scorer, was picture perfect with his 20-foot set shot as he scored 29 points — high for a league game so far this season. But the astounding thing is that 19 of those points came in the first quarter.

He scored Novato's first 11 points, 17 of the first 19, and 19 of the quarter total of 24. The hapless Pirates, who tried every kind of defense short of kidnapping to contain the fabulous guard, only got 11 in that time, and were never a factor afterwards.

The Pirates, however, might have established a record of sorts themselves. Somehow they managed to divide their meager scoring total among 12 different players. That averages out to little more than three points per man. Jit Singh was high with nine.

Marty Moroski, Novato's other player among the top 10 scorers in the league, connected for 13 to back up the erstwhile DeMaestri.

Drake — Forni, 1-4-6; Gregg, 1-1-3; Foster, 0-1-1; Purcell, 1-0-2; Twitchell, 0-1-1; Singh, 3-3-9; Wilkinson, 1-0-2; Carlisle, 1-2; Daubenfeld, 2-0-4; Harnsbergeri-0; Young, 2-0-4; Gomez, 1-0-2; Totals — 14-10-38.

Novato — Larman, 2-2-6; Moroski, 5-13; Crozier, 0-3-3; DeMaestri, 12-5-29; Rowe, 2-2-6; Lowney, 1-0-2; Traub, 3-2-8; Totals — 25-17-67.

Cosell, Meridith At Touchdown Club

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)- Howard Cosell and Don Meredith, who air the "NFL Monday Night Football" program on the ABC network, will handle the master of ceremony duties at the 16th annual Touchdown Club dinner here Feb. 1 honoring outstanding sports figures.

The sportscasters were lined up when Tom Harmon was forced to cancel his assignment at the honors dinner.

Warriors Rip Royals For Fourth Straight

By LARRY MOWELL

OAKLAND — A sagging, double-teaming defense combined with a careening fast break led the speedy little Cincinnati Royals to two easy wins over the Warriors. earlier this year. Last night the success formula went sour.

The fast break that destroyed the Warriors in previous meetings fell apart in a barrage of bad passes to whippet-fast Johnny Green, and the Warriors dissected the twice-puzzling defense for a 116-108 win, the Warriors fourth straight.

When the Royals double-teamed with their midget guards, Nate Archibald and Norman Van Lier, the Warriors hit the open man for unmolested perimeter jmp shots.

Guards Fritz Williams and Jeff Mullins were the recipients of most of the easy shots and scored 21 and 23 points respectively.

However, high scorer for the San Franciscans was Nate Thurmond with 28 points. Since the Royals rely on speed rather than rebounding strength, Thurmond and Jerry Lucas controlled the backboards with 40 rebounds between them.

Lucas chipped in 19 points and Joe Ellis added 20 on a variety of awesome jump

Cowboys' Protests Half Right?

DALLAS (UPI)—The post mortems were inconclusive, but it would appear that the Dallas Cowboys' vigorous protestations of two of the controversial calls in their 16-13 Super Bowl loss to Baltimore Sunday were half right and half wrong.

Careful scrutiny of a Dallas television station's stop-action, frame-by-frame movies of the disputed legality of the Johnny Unitas-to-Eddie Hinton-to-John Mackey 75-yard touchdown pass lends some credence to an official ruling that a Cowboy did get at least a fingertip on the ball, making the pass legal.

The Cowboys had maintained that no defensive player touched it and therefore the deflection from one offensive player to another made it illegal.

The movies show that cornerback Mel Renfro's extended hand was high enough to have touched the ball and that the ball seemed to change trajectory ever so slightly at about that point in flight.

But, a nine-frame sequence of pictures of Duane Thomas' goalline fumble, which was awarded to Baltimore on the dual claims of Bill Ray Smith and Jim Duncan that each of them recovered it, show very clearly that Dallas center Dave Manders recovered the ball and that no Baltimore player was in possession of it.

This is the play which Cowboys Coach Landry termed the turning point since it probably kept Dallas from taking a 20-6 lead and gave the Colts the momentum that Dallas had maintained to that point.

It would appear that line judge Jack Fette may have whistled the ball dead and ruled a Baltimore recovery while it still was up for grabs.

49er Tickets Are Going Fast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Forty Niners are almost sold out for the 1971 football season at Candlestick Park.

This is both because ticket applications are up and the capacity of Candlestick Park will be 45,000, and 2,000 of those seats will go to junior 49ers and complimentary ticket holders. Kezar Stadium, abandoned by the prospectors this year, held 59,000.

But the Forty Niners said Tuesday that they had about 36,000 season ticket applications, including 15,000 new ones.

Namath Gets Okay For 1971

NEW YORK (UPI) —The New York Jets' team physician said Tuesday that Joe Namath should be able to play in the 1971 season.

Dr. James Nicholas said that X-rays of Namath's broken wrist revealed the main fracture had healed.

The doctor said that he will keep the cast on until late February for precautionary reasons to restrain use of the hand and protect it from re-injury.

Dr. Nicholas added, "he should have no difficulty and should be able to play next year. After we take off the cast it will take six weeks to remobilize it and he should be able to begin throwing in April."

Namath said he would leave for Florida in a few days where he will exercise by playing golf. He also said he planned to take up tennis—lefthanded.

"My wrist doesn't bother me at all and doesn't give me any pain," Namath said, "also, my right knee feels better than it has in a long time. I've been lifting weights with it and it feels much stronger."

Namath suffered the injury on Oct. 18 when he was hit late in the fourth quarter by Billy Ray Smith of Baltimore. Namath was sidelined for the rest of the season and the Jets struggled to a 4-10 record with Al Woodall quarterbacking the club.

If Namath returns, the Jets expect to be a contender in the Eastern Division of the American Football Conference.

NHL Will Unload Penguins

BOSTON (UPI)—The National Hockey League, which has been guaranteeing the Pittsburgh Penguins' credit since last Dec. 1, plans to sell the financially troubled franchise by next June to one of four Pittsburgh buyers.

League President Clarence Campbell made that announcement following a series of NHL Board of Governors meetings held over the past two days in connection with the annual All-Star game.

Campbell said the Penguins' attendance had jumped 58 per cent from last year and that the club was currently operating profitably though an outstanding debt of $5.7 million was not being paid off.

The league president said four individuals or groups from Pittsburgh would study the Penguins financial status before making their offers and added that the league was seeking the best offer but was not entertaining bids from other cities.

Campbell also said that there will be no further NHL expansion before 1973-74 and that franchise transfers prior to that time were extremely unlikely since the present rules require unanimous consent for a shift. After that date, transfers can be accomplished by obtaining a simple majority of the Board of Governors.

French Continue Skiing Domination

SCHRUNS, Austria (UPI)—French World Cup holder Michele Jacot streaked away today with the opening downhill event of the classic Golden Key Women's ski meet to continue France's near monopoly of Alpine ski honors this season.

Miss Jacot, 19, from Chamonix, hurtled down the 2,519 meter track with 27 gates over a drop of 620 meters in 2:01.54 ahead of her long-legged teammate Francoise Macchi who was clocked 2:02.34 minutes.

Two Austrian girls, Wiltrud Dreyel and Annemarie Proell, placed third and fourth to underline the continuing strength of the Austrian ski team.

But the powerful French team took also the fifth and sixth ranks and placed a total of six girls among the top ten.

"It was a perfect run—I could not have raced better," said Miss Jacot after her victory. "I liked the course because it was rather like a giant slalom than a downhill."

Miss Jacot took the demanding track without a hitch and demonstrated spectacular skill along the winding course.

The victory also helped Miss Jacot's chances of defending the World Cup trophy she won last year. Miss Jacot retained her overall World Cup lead and the French girls have a virtually unbeatable lead in the team ratings.

Third place Wiltrud Drefel, who was clocked best intermediate time at the halfway mark, said "I lost the race on the lower part because I took the bends too wide."

Miss Drexel said she was "not too satisfied" with her third place finish because "it is about time to stop this almost permanent winning streak of our French rivals." "It is more and more getting a nightmare," the Austrian downhill specialist added.

From the U.S. team, only Marilyn Cochran of Richmond, Vermont, bronze medalist in last year's world championships, cracked the top ten. She placed eighth in 2:04.72 while her sister Barbara came 14th with a 2:06.05 clocking.

"I lost all hope shortly after the start when I failed to take some of the early bends properly," Barbara said.

Judy Crawford of Canada was 15th in 2:06.26.

Organizers had to move the downhill track from one side of the Montafon Valley to opposite and higher slopes at an additional expense of $6,000 because of snow shortage.

"The track was in perfect condition and the organizers did a great job," Miss Jacot said.

they had the lead for good. In the second period they outscored the home team, 18-8 and were in command the rest of the way.

Tam's aborted rallies closed the score at times to 31-29, 38-36, 43-41 and 47-45. But each time somebody different put on the hero's mantel for Terra Linda, and scored a clutch basket.

Garner sparked a last ditch try, after the Trojans held the ball and a seven-point lead with a minute to go. The 6-foot-3 center hit two layups, the first with 25 seconds left, the second with nine. But Terra Linda still led by four when Tam got the ball back with five seconds on the clock via a traveling turnover. Huff's last second shot only servedto symbolize Tam's frustration.

Van Arsdale gunned in 14 of 22 field goal tries on his way to 30 points. The 36-year-old Green added 21.

The Warriors, now 27-23, return to action Friday night in Los Angeles to battle the Lakers for first place in the Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association.

Bill Turner, a 6-foot 7-inch forward signed as a free agent last week, is expected to suit up for the Lakers game. The Warriors' number two draft pick four years ago, he was swapped to the Royals last year.

He was due to play last night, but his contract was not received by the commissioner's office in time to allow him to play.

A RETURN TO DETROIT

Good To Be Back Says Mr. Haywood

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

"It's good to come back and play," Spencer Haywood said.

The Detroit Pistons enjoyed it too. . . perhaps a bit more than Haywood, who returned to his adopted hometown Tuesday night and made his most impressive performance as a member of the National Basketball Association with 24 points and 20 rebounds. It was his first start and he played 46 minutes.

The Pistons beat Haywood and the rest of the Seattle Supersonics 106-102 for their fifth straight win.

"It's a dream come true," the 21-year-old Haywood said of his basketball return to the city where he made All-American as a sophomore at the University of Detroit before the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association turned him pro.

The Pistons, like every other NBA team which has faced the Sonics in Haywood's six games in the lineup, protested the contest at the start —but likely will drop the protest following the win. The NBA contends Haywood can't play because his college class doesn't graduate until this June.

In other NBA games Cleveland topped Buffalo 111-79; New York edged San Diego 117-113 in overtime; Chicago defeated Portland 123-111; Los Angeles tripped Philadelphia 134-114; and San Francisco beat Cincinnati 16-108.

"He's strong," Detroit Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff said of Haywood. "He rebounds well and he's got great hands. He won't have any trouble adjusting.

"A game's a game. You've got a few plays, but primarily it's just beating your man," he said.

"Things are going a little better on the court," Haywood said. " Two weeks ago when I came into the league I wasn't in shape. As far as shooting and rebounding is concerned I'm probably at my best right now."

Dave Bing scored eight of his game-high 27 points in the last 3:58 and Bob Lanier tallied six of his 19 in that stretch to bring Detroit from a 94-92 deficit to its win. Len Wilkens backed Haywood with 22 points.

The Cavaliers scored their fifth victory in eight games with the Braves as Cleveland has captured only seven wins all season. John Johnson led the way with 24 points and Bobby Smith had 22.

Mike Riordan netted all six of his points in the extra session for the Knicks as New York snapped a four-game losing streak. Bill Bradley had 27 points, Walt Frazier 24 and Willis Reed 21 to offset 29 points from the Rockets' Elvin Hayes, 27 by Stu Lantz and 23 by Calpin Murphy.

Chet Walker's 32 points and 27 by Jerry Sloan enabled the Bulls to stampede by the Trail Blazers. Leroy Ellis and rookie Geoff Petrie put in 27 and 26 for the losers.

Jerry West scored 33 points and teammate Keith Erickson tallied a season high of 29 to pace Los Angeles. Archie Clark of the 76ers led all scorers with 38.

Drugs Didn't Cause Death Of Liston

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston had traces of morphine and codeine in his body when he died of natural causes, according to the Clark County coroner, but they were "not in sufficient amounts" to be a cause of death.

Coroner Mark Herman ruled Tuesday that Liston died of lung congestion brought on by a poor oxygen and nutrient blood supply to the heart muscles.

"The autopsy and microscopic and toxicological examinations failed to provide an exact cause of the shortage of nutrient blood and oxygen to heart muscles," he said.

The coroner said the amounts of morphine and codeine found in the tissues corresponded to the amounts which would normally result from a breakdown of heroin in the body.

Petaluma Prep Cagers In Romp

Dave Thomas hit nine of 11 shots from the floor and 20 points last night to help the Petaluma High School Trojans to a 74-50 North Bay I League basketball win over Hogan of Vallejo.

The Trojans came out shooting and rolled up a 30-9, first quarter lead to insure the victory, which gives them sole possession of the league lead. Santa Rosa, idle last night, has one less win.

Thomas, who had his first really fine effort of the campaign, got strong support from Joe Rodola, with 19 points, and Tom Williams with 16. Hogan was led by Mark Lowe's 18 points.

New Game Birds For California

EUREKA (UPI)—A request to stock three new species of nonresident game birds in California has been approved by the state Fish and Game Commission.

The application approved Tuesday came from the state Fish and Game Department. It said the birds it wanted to obtain for stocking were the white-tailed ptarmigan from Colorado, the Idaho ruffed grouse from Utah and the Woodcock from Louisiana.

DFG officials said negotiations were under way with the three states for a bird exchange program.

Pro Bowl Game Is Ill Timed

"Forget Football." So said the big sign that was posted in press headquarters of golf writers at the Bing Crosby tournament. The writers chuckled as they tuned in the Super Bowl on a color set. There would be plenty of time to catch the decisive action on the golf course and still see the Super Bowl.

When the Super Bowl went down to the final seconds and a sudden death playoff of a 13-13 tie seemed quite likely, the conscientious fellows among the writers stirred uncomfortably. Roolie Jim O'Brien's tie-breaking field goal in the final seconds relieved the strain on upright consciences. And the writers charged with the responsibility of providing spot coverage dutifully strolled to the scene of action on Pebble Beach.

GOLF WRITERS are football writers with their sleeves rolled up. Football writers are baseball writers wearing top coats. It's a rare sports writer who covers one sport exclusively. And it's a rare fan who has interest in only one sport.

Nevertheless, the "Forget Football" sign in the Pebble Beach press room was not entirely without merit even though its sudden appearnace before the Super Bowl was ill-timed. It was somewhat like a "Forget Baseball" sign at World Series time.

THE WORLD Series does end the baseball season. The super Bowl should end the football season but it doesn't. There still is the Pro Bowl next Sunday, an anti-climactic affair with which football is saddled. Baseball's handling of its all-Star Game is much more sensible. Furthermore, the All-Star Game in midseason give baseball players a welcome break in their long schedule. Why not handle the Pro Bowl the same way?

Pete Rozelle unquestionably has given considerable thought to the anti-climatic timing of the Pro Bowl game. Being a very smart fellow, Rozelle doesn't have to be reminded of such things. Since 1960, when he became football commissioner, Rozelle has accomplished much for owners, players and, yes, even commercial sponsors willing to pay as much as $200,000 for a one-minute TV spot during the Super Bowl.

ROZELLE HAS solved problems much more difficult than proper scheduling of the Pro Bowl game. But he would have to be stupid not to recognize its present improper scheduling following the Super Bowl. And Rozelle is anything but stupid.

Rozelle readily recognizes situations that lack propriety or suitability and he usually does something about them. So he may be expected to do something about the timing of the Pro Bowl game. Maybe midseason scheduling of the game wouldn't work as smoothly for football as the All-Star game does for baseball.

But Rozelle will think of something so that the Super Bowl brings down the curtain on the football season.

Russ Powell of San Rafael, a member of the Bultaco racing team, will be among the West Coast riders who will participate in American Motorcycle Association races in New York's Madison Square Garden and Houston's Astrodome later this month. Powell, who works at Marin Mororsports, has just returned from a tour on the Trans American motocross series.

Courts Ruined In Protest

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI)—Anti-apartheid protestors today dug up sections of three of the turfed center courts at Kooyong Stadium in protest against participation of two South African girls playing in the Victorian tennis championships.

The girls, Laura Roussow and Brenda Kirk, will compete in the tournament which begins Saturday.

The demonstrators poured oil, gasoline and paint over the courts and badly mutilated the courts with picks and shovels.

Secretary of the Victorian Lawn Tennis Association, Alex Aitcheson, said the damage was very extensice.

"I can't think of anyone who could be so low as to do a thing like this," Aitcheson said.

He said he could not tell now whether the courts could be repaired in time for the tournament.

The protestors painted slogans like "smash apartheid," "smash racism," around the back drops of the courts.

In Sydney last week, protestors booed and jeered Misses Kirk and Roussow during the New South Wales tournament.

There's Need For Study On Subject Of Deer Herds

By LANCE D. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) – Although wildlife plans for California's deer herds have been talked about during the past decade, very little has been done to provide a workable long-range plan which will satisfy the annually increasing hunter pressure on these favored targets.

The Department of Fish and Game, the Fish and Game Commission, through the State Legislature, have the power to activate a comprehensive plan, but most of the deer habitat is on federal lands, managed by the Bureau of Land Management.

Studies have been made by nearly all of the concerned parties over the years, but no interagency plans have been developed with a look into the 21st Century, much less the next decade.

Many of the factors relating to deer management are known, but one which may have to be looked into to satisfy the future needs of California's deer hunters is some form of a "put and take" system, currently used by bird hunters, and most extensively by fishermen.

Some say that deer are too sensitive to be propagated with a plan for maximum survival, and that hunters are even now not doing their jobs in keeping the herds down to optimum levels.

But there are so many possibilities that have been unstudied and unexplored, and it is apparent from the under-ten-per cent hunter success that something will have to be done if deer hunting is to remain a viable sport.

The "put and take" system may not be the final answer, and it is quite conceivable that any final version of it would be so modified that it would not even resemble anything now in existence.

But with the state and federal government owning nearly 50 per cent of the land in California, it seems reasonable that some cooperative form of management could be arranged that would provide optimum habitat for deer herds.

It is known that reservoirs, roads, graze leases, burnoffs, brush removal and a myriad other hazards have taken their toll on California's deer population. It is also known that the healthiest herds are the ones which are the "right size" for their particular surroundings.

Needed desperately is a comprehensive study of these various problems — not just a study which will restate the problems, but one which will answer them and set up pilot projects which will answer the needs of the years ahead.

Tough Job Ahead For Donald Smith

SEATTLE (UPI) —A 40-year-old black public relations expert and former sports writer has accepted the tough assignment of solving charges of racism against the University of Washington Athletic Department.

He is Donald K. Smith, formerly with the Seattle Times and now a press relations supervisor for American Telephone and Telegraph Co. in New York.

Officially, Smith will have the title of assistant director of sports programs when he returns to Seattle in about a month.

His appointment Tuesday fulfills one of the mandates of a special committee of the university's Board of Regents. The committee also had called for the hiring of a black assistant football coach. Former fullback Ray Jackson was named to that post Jan. 4.

Neither Smith nor Jackson, a member of the Huskies 1959 and 1960 Rose Bowl teams, come to their new jobs with wholehearted community support.

Only a week ago, a coalition of about 40 black organizations demanded the firing of head football coach Jim Owens and sports director Joe Kearney. Tuesday morning's edition of the University Daily called for Owens' ouster in a front page editorial.

The most recent charges of racism, which came to a head when four black football players quit, have yet to be detailed for the public.

At New York, Smith said the firing of Owens or Kearney wasn't going to solve the charges of racism.

"The situation goes much deeper than that—the situation in the athletic department is no different from that which exists in society," he said. "I can't do anything to bring the blacks back into the program. The blacks will return only when they are assured that they will be given an equal opportunity."

Smith, a 1959 Iowa State University graduate, said he could understand both the "pain of being black" and the bitterness of whites "who are rebuffed when they feel they are doing what they think is right."

Buffalo Officials Abandon Plans For Domed Stadium

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—The Erie County Legislature, in a last-ditch effort to retain the Buffalo Bills, abandoned its efforts to build a domed stadium Tuesday and moved toward consideration of an open stadium to house the National Football League team.

But the legislature faced legal complications as it changed directions.

Domed Stadium Inc. (DSI), the private enterprise firm seeking to operate the dome, was expected to file a lawsuit against the county.

Victor T. Fuzak, attorney for DSI, said he would hold a news conference today in his law offices.

The legislators voted 11-9 to terminate their agreement with DSI for construction of a $50 million stadium on suburban Lancaster property donated by the firm.

DSI maintains the county is bound by an Aug. 5, 1969 contract to build a dome. It's suit seeks a judgment forcing the county to build a stadium or pay $90 million in real and punitive damages.

Ralph C. Wilson, Jr., owner of the Bills, was the principle topic of conversation during the 90-minutes of legislative debate preceding Tuesday's action.

Wilson announced one week earlier that he was actively seeking a new home for the Bills because of inaction by the county on the stadium project.

"We started out (on the stadium project) to build a stadium for Ralph Wilson," Democrat Joseph A. Taurielo said during the floor debate. "Are we going to lose the Bills or are we going to retain them?"

Republican Seth A. Abbott, who has opposed the Lancaster dome, said Wilson would "not stick his neck out" and keep the Bills in Buffalo without a firm commitment to an open stadium seating 70,000 or more.

Bonavena Suffers Hurt Wrist

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Oscar Bonavena's Feb. 12 bout with former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson may be postponed as a result of a sprained left wrist suffered by the Argentine strong man.

Bonavena's handlers announced Tuesday that the stocky mauler suffered the sprain while working out on the heavy bag. They said Bonavena will have to keep the wrist in a short cast for two weeks and that a more definite statement on his condition might be made Wednesday."

"I was working on the bag," said Bonavena, who recently suffered a 15-round technical knockout at the hands of Cassius Clay and who previously lost two decisions to heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, "I hit it with a quick hard right and when it came back I hit it with a left. It was a terrible pain."

The bout, scheduled for Madison Square Garden, was postponed previously because doctors suspected that Bonavena suffered a slight concussion during the bout with Clay.

Seals To Host The Penguins

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Seals, a little healthier now after the All-Star game break, will still be trying to climb out of the National Hockey League Western Division cellar when they host the Pittsburgh Penguins tonight.

The Penguins are two spots and 7 points ahead of the Seals. Pittsburgh, which has beaten the Seals twice this season without a loss, has only allowed the California team two goals.

Seals coach Fred Glover said defenseman Wayne Muloin, who dressed but did not play Sunday against Vancouver, has recovered from a pinched muscle and "will be ready to go" tonight.

Defensemen are still the sore point for the Seals, however, with Carol Vadnais still out with a broken thumb and Harry Howell still out since early last month with a back injury.

Rancho Cotate Quintet Wins

The Rancho Cotate High School Cougars rode the strong shoulders of 6-foot-8 center Ron Seiler to a 66-46 North Bay II League basketball victory over Analy last night in Rohnert Park.

Seiler bagged 20 points, 10 of them in the fourth quarter as the Cougars won their second league game in five outings. He got able assistance from Steve Wlodarczyk, the second highest scorer in the game with 13 points.

Top Scorer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Don Hutson, a two-way performer during his 1935-1945 career with the Packers, scored 100 touchdowns on forward passes, an all-time National Football League record, reports the Rheingold Sports Bureau. Tommy McDonald's total of 84 is closest to the Green Bay star in the record books.

Drake Freshmen Basketballers Win

Drake High School won its fourth Marin County Athletic League freshman basketball game without a loss yesterday, defeating Redwood, 34-29.

In other games, San Rafael downed Tamalpais, 52-43 and Terra Linda edged Marin Catholic, 39-38.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Winning The Rubber May Not Look Plucky, But Some Appeal

If you watch a plucky player at the bridge table, you can learn something from the way he puts a card on the table. For example, he'll carefully avoid wincing when he knows he's going to be overruffed. A plucky player should not show pain or fear. There's a great lesson to be learned from this, as you'll see from today's hand.

WEST WINS

West led the jack of hearts, winning the first trick. He continued with the seven of hearts, and East won with the queen. East then led the ace of hearts, and South had the chance to show his pluck.

DIDN'T WINCE

South knew he was going to be overruffed, but he didn't wince. He ruffed the third heart with the queen of spades and managed to look unmoved when West overruffed with the king of spades. "Good show, and all that sort of rot," by Uncle Throckmorton would have remarked if he had been at the table.

South eventually lost a club trick and was down one. East bid and made a slam on the next hand, so South lost a big rubber instead of winning a rubber of normal size.

NOTHING HEROIC

The lesson to be learned from South's display of courage is that there's nothing heroic about making a dumb play. When East leads the ace of hearts at the third trick South should discard a club instead of ruffing.

This costs nothing because South is almost sure to lose a club trick sooner or later in any case. South's main chance to make his contract is to find the king of spades in the West hand. If South discards a club at the third trick, he can later take a spade finesse through West and win the game and rubber when that finesse succeeds.

Winning the rubber may not look very plucky, but it has its appeal.

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not quite worth an opening bid of one spade and is not suitable for a shutout bid of three spades. Avoid shutout bids when you have substantial strength outside of your long suit.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Volatile Shares Mark GAC Risk

By ROGER SPEAR

Q. I rencently purchased shares of General Acceptance Corp. and would greatly appreciate your opinion on company prospects. — C. L.

A. GAC Corp., formed in 1968 as a holding company to succeed General Acceptance, is highly speculative and suitable only if you can afford to assume high risk. In 1969 the company acquired Gulf American Corp., now operating as GAC Properties Division, a move which greatly altered the main thrust of the company's business.

Land development activities now account for about two-thirds of net income, with finance and insurance operations contributing most of the remainder. While GAC is actively seeking a buyer for its deficit-ridden manufacturing division, thus far the search has been unsuccessful. For the first 9 months of 1970 revenues increased 18.8 per cent, but a sharp drop in third quarter net reduced nine months earnings 43 per cent below year-earlier results.

Shares are highly leveraged, with heavy dividend and interest charges from more than $75 million in preferred stock and $367 million in parent and subsidiary long term debt. Because much of this senior capitalization is convertible, common share earnings have a substantial dilution factor.

After an expected dividend cut failed to materialize and GAC Properties successfully marketed $50 million in 12 per cent short-term notes, shares recovered an impressive 50 per cent from the 1970 low. Volatile price action which has characterized GAC shares since formation in 1968 can be expected to continue.

Q. Are there any restrictions on whom can be named custodian or what stocks I can give to my minor grandchildren? — G. B.

A. All states accept the donor, an adult member of the minor's family or the minor's guardian as custodian for gifts of registered securities. Also eligible in certain states is a trust company or any adult.

Any registered securities, including mutual fund shares are allowed under the Uniform Gift to Minors, Act and revisions thereof, unless the donor is the issuer. Your lawyer is best qualified to explain the particulars of the law as practiced in your state.

Prices On Firm Side Near Close

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices were firm in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange late today.

With less than an hour remaining, advances were leading declines by 200 issues. The Dow Jones Industrial Average, the blue chip barometer, was up 0.07 to 849.54. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index gained 0.02 at 93.78.

A four hour volume of 13,970,000 shares compared with 11,800,000 shares traded at a comparable period yesterday.

"It's predominantly an institutional market," one analyst commented. " "The institutions are more attuned to money market conditions than the public, and easier money is precisely what has been fueling demand for stocks since last November."

Fred Anschell of Shearson, Hammill & Co. noted that the list is entitled to some kind of consolidation, but he said he didn't think it would be too steep.

Anschell said the market doesn't need much news to move forward, but he added "increased consumer spending will be an important ingredient" if the stock market is to sustain its uptrend. Economists have pointed out that a step-up in consumer spending is needed to get the economy moving again.

Harry Laubscher, analyst for Walston & Co., looked for a near-term downward correction. However, he said he was optimistic for the long-term because of lower interest rates and indications that major industries, such as home building, automotive and steel, will show improvement in 1971.

Among the big board's most active issues were Pittston Co., which traded two 199,000-share blocks at 42½, off 1¾; Kroger Co.; General Public Utilities (trading ex-dividend); Scott Paper; Niagar Mohawk Power; and Trans-World Airlines.

Vietnam System

FORT HUACHUCHA, Ariz. (UPI) — Federal Electric Corp. has been granted an $11,200,222 one-year Army contract to operate and maintain the Integrated Communications System in Vietnam. The contract calls for maintenance of support facilities and operation of about 70 communications sites.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Once In A Lifetime Chance: Capital Gain Exclusion At 65

A taxpayer 65 years old or over can exclude any capital gain in the first $20,000 of the sales price of his personal residence if he has owned and actually used it as his principal place of residence for at least five out of the last eight years.

If the sales price is $20,000 or less, you can exclude all the capital gain.

If the sales price is more than $20,000 you can exclude only the proportionate share of the gain that the adjusted sales price bears to $20,000.

This is a once in a lifetime exclusion. You cannot claim it more than once. Both husband and wife will satisfy the age, ownership and use requirements where one of them satisfies such requirements for a residence they own as joint tenants, tenants by the entirety, or community property, and they file a joint return.

A widow or widower over 65 years old, whose deceased spouse met the ownership and use requirements and who had not made an election under this provision, may make an election under this exclusion of gain provision.

Community apartment stockholders who are entitled to a house or apartment because of such stock ownership can make an election when they sell their stock.

If a house is used partially for a personal residence and partially for business, only the gain on that part of the house used as a personal residence can be excluded.

Destruction, theft, seizure, requisition or condemnation of a personal residence is treated as the sale of such property. Any gain realized from such involuntary conversion will qualify.

If your residence is sold and the selling price is over $20,000 and you have a profit and within one year before or one year after the sale you purchase a new residence, you might be able to use both the above and the provisions of Section 1034 relating to the deferral of gain on the sale ofthe residence so that you pay no tax at this time.

If your residence is involuntarily converted or sold or exchanged, any gain can be reduced by the above exclusion. The amount of the excluded gain will decrease your basis in your newly acquired residence however.

Aluminum Industry Sets New Records

NEW YORK (UPI) — The aluminum industry set new annual, quarterly and monthly production records in 1970 despite output curbs announced by some producers in the latter part of the year to bring supply in line with demand.

Production by the nation's 11 primary producers poured a record 3,976,148 tons in 1970, up about 5 per cent from 1969. Fourth quarter production rose to a record 1,004,936 tons, the first million-ton quarter in the industry's history, from 993,222 tons in the third quarter and 977,738 tons in the final 1969 period.

5 Pct. Climb In Steel Output

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steel production rose 5 per cent last week to a four-month high of 2,534,000 tons from 2,413,000 tons the week before, the American Iron & Steel Institute has reported.

Production in the week ended Jan. 16 was equal to 103.9 on the institute's new index (average weekly production in 1967 equals 100, or 2,439,701 tons) compared with 98.9 the week before.

Production from the start of the year through Jan. 16 totaled 5,623,000 tons, compared with 5,842,000 tons at the same point in 1970.

MIDNIGHT TOIL — Volunteer workers push their boat "Loveolove" through a small sea of straw spread at the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon, to prevent oil from flowing in. Grading equipment, boats, swimmers and beach volunteers toiled all night under portable lights supplied by Standard Oil Co. and Hamilton Air Force Base. The spreading oil menaced wildlife, beaches and boats along Marin's entire shoreline. (See also photo, page 19)

Oil Spill Spreads; Beaches Hard Hit

Thousands Of Volunteers Out; Inquiry Is Opened

By DAVID DIETZ

The deadly carpet of oil from Monday's tanker crash spread today as thousands of volunteers sought to save the Bay Area's beaches and wildlife from its grasp.

The Coast Guard, which opened a hearing today into the collision that triggered the massive spill, said the oil now was reported as far as 10 miles off the Pacific shore and traces of the goo were showing up for the first time in inner reaches of San Francisco Bay.

Marin beaches and wildlife were hard hit as the oil — sometimes so thick it could be rolled up and deposited in boxes — stained the shoreline from Richardson Bay, Angel Island and Tiburon all the way around to Bolinas Bay on the coast.

Volunteers, many of them students who were dismissed from — or cut — classes to help in the massive cleanup, poured onto beaches and into bird treatment centers.

But the battle, which had continued through the night, appeared to be a losing one as the goo moved inexorably with tide and wind.

The spill was triggered in foggy darkness when two Standard Oil Co. tankers collided near the Golden Gate Bridge. Between 500,000 and 1.1 million gallons spewed from one of the vessels, the Oregon Standard.

In Sacramento and Washington, D.C., legislators called for reforms to avoid similar collisions in the future. President Richard M. Nixon was urged to declare the Bay a disaster area amid observations by conservationists that the spill was worse than the Santa Barbara Channel spill last year.

"The potential for damage is much greater than Santa Barbara," said Michael McCloskey, executive director of the Sierra Club, noting that the Bay contained tidal flats and inlets considered ecologically delicate.

Outside the Golden Gate, the slick reached as far north as Bolinas Bay and south to Pacifica. Traces were reported at heretofore unstained Bay locations in East Berkeley and at Hunter's Point.

'ECOLOGICAL DISASTER'

Bolinas Lagoon Battle Lost

By JEFF GREER

The battle of Bolinas Lagoon was lost about 2:45 a.m. today as hundreds of volunteers, county officials, conservationists and Standard Oil Co. workers watched an incoming tide sweep away three of the four barricades placed across the inlet to the lagoon.

As persons on shore watched helplessly, the currents pushed oil from the Pacific under and over the lone remaining log boom and into the quiet waters of the lagoon.

Workers from the Bolinas Marine Laboratory of the College of Marin were fanning out through the tidelands this morning to assess damage to the thousands of shore birds there.

Onlookers agreed it was an ecological disaster.

"It will be a long time before all this mess is cleaned up," mourned Howard Allen of Belvedere. As chairman of the Audubon Canyon Ranch bird preserve, he was on the Bolinas beach most of yesterday during the long battle to save birds and keep the oil out of the lagoon.

The oil relentlessly floated northward from the Golden Gate, where it spilled early Monday when two Standard Oil Co. tankers collided in dense fog.

By late afternoon yesterday oil lay inches thick in the tidal pools of Agate Beach. Every yard of shoreline along Stinson Beach and Bolinas was covered with blobs of black, sticky goo.

Seemingly more by mutual consent than by any real planning, the battle against the oily invasion centered yesterday morning at the 100-yard-wide mouth of Bolinas Lagoon. The struggle went on throughout the night.

Hundreds of volunteers joined Marin County, Bolinas and Stinson Beach firemen in tugging a series of booms across the inlet. Two of them were built of straw-filled bags wired to heavy lines. Another was a bright yellow, efficient looking plastic construction lent by Shell Oil Co.

The fourth was the log boom.

During the afternoon, the workers spread more straw between the floating barriers. The incoming tides swept much of it into the lagoon. The plastic barricade turned over in the current, then split in two.

As the straw became oil soaked, some of it sank to the shallow bottom. The oil, experts reported, was nearly the same density as water. Some of the blobs will rest on the bottom for months, they said.

While the battle of the booms was going on, scores of other volunteers concentrated on the birds. More than 300 squawking, struggling waterfowl were taken to first air stations at the Marin Biology Laboratory of the College of Marin on Wharf Road in Bolinas. Others were taken to an open-air treatment station at the gatehouse at Seadrift in Stinson Beach.

The bird-cleaning stations were scenes of bedlam.

As the college marine laboratory filled with hundreds of birds in boxes, instructor Craig Hanson sought permission to house the overflow birds in the Bolinas Community Center. It was impossible; a Well-Baby Clinic was going on there.

The volunteers started storing the birds in the lab's attic.

The ecological disaster brought the largest crowd to Bolinas in decades. Schoolchildren from West Marin were joined by scores of other youngsters either released early from classes or simply cutting classes, to help save birds and battle the oil. Hippies toiled side by side with longtime Marin residents.

County Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske, County Fire Chief Louis Bloom, the crewmen from a Civil Defense fire truck stationed in Kentfield, and a dozen county public works and parks employees joined the effort.

Betty Boyd of San Rafael, a longtime conservationist, remarked that the last time she "saw a crowd like this was in the 1930s, when there was an ambergris rush on the coast.

"Then, people thought they were finding wealth. Now, they're trying to save our wealth," she said.

Late in the day, workmen sent by Standard Oil Co. began to appear on the scene. First, a truck arrived with four drums of special oil to clean the birds. Then, seven pieces of grading equipment, portable light standards and two dozen workemen arrived.

The huge volunteer effort drew three college girls from San Francisco, bringing a bale of straw in the back of their tiny sports car. Audubon Canyon Ranch and conservation groups rushed more than 150 bales to the beach early yesterday; Standard Oil brought in 1,500 more in the night.

The battle plan "just sort of happened," Audubon Canyon Ranch naturalist C. W. Zumwalt reported. "It's fantastic what those kids can do," he said, gesturing at the volunteers everywhere on the scene.

Today, the efforts concentrated mainly on bird rescue.

Supervisors May Open Civic Center At Nights

By LARRY MOWELL

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday reaffirmed tight security measures at the Civic Center and Hall of Justice, but took a tentative step back to normal. (Other supervisors' stories, pages 8, 9.)

The board directed Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos to compute the extra cost of keeping the civic center but not the hall open until 9 p.m. or 10 p.m. weekdays. He is to report back in two or three weeks.

The action came after most of the 20 speakers from an audience of 150 labeled the security measures ineffective, offensive, undemocratic and possibly unconstitutional.

County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell, reared in Nazi Germany, said his fellow Germans had allowed themselves to become desensitized by such procedures which led to totalitarianism.

However, Von Gundell represented the minority of persons who work in the guarded buildings. County Auditor Michael Mitchell presented a petition in support of any safety measures the supervisors deem necessary. Mitchell said almost 500 of the county's 700 employees had signed it.

Judges from the Municipal and Superior courts also wrote affirming the need for measures aimed at preventing recurrences of the Aug. 7 shoot-out and the Oct. 8 bombing at the Civic Center.

The session yesterday was the first full-scale reevaluation of security measures at the county offices since supervisors allotted more than $250,000 Oct. 13 to beef up security.

The airing of views began with County Administrator Alan Bruce stating Marin would be "derelict" if it did not continue the present security measures, including use of metal detection devices and random body searches, at least until after the trial of Angela Davis, accused of furnishing weapons used by convicts in the shoot-out.

Speakers criticized Bruce's stand and Cecilia Lannon, an attorney for the Marin Legal Aid Society called it the attitude of somebody who thinks the government is pitted against the people."

Raymond Ahern of the County Employees for an Open Civic Center said there is a climate of fear and suspicion in the Civic Center which seems to say that civil liberties are "too dangerous for troubled times."

Violation of civil liberties also concerned attorneys Lawrence A. Cowen of San Rafael who read from a U.S. Supreme Court decision striking down a New York frisk law. Then he boomed, "The idea of placing your hands upon an individual infringes upon his personal liberty."

Attorney Lannon said that not only frisking, but searching with metal detecting devices is unconstitutional.

Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed "it is undignified to be searched," but said the irritating searches must continue until it is safe to end them.

OPERATION BIRD RESCUE

They Drift Helplessly With Necks Stretched In Despair

By JOYCE CERWIN

One could see them from the shore; they drifted helplessly with lumps of oil dripping like candle wax from their long slender necks stretched in despair. They screeched imploringly; they could do little else as the flood tide washed them toward the rocks.

Some staggered along the beach trying to stretch their wings stuck fast to their bodies with black gunk. Others writhed among the rocks, exhausted from the struggle.

These were the birds, the Western Grebes, the kingfishers, the white winged scooters, that search parties from throughout Marin were finding on the bay and ocean beaches. And the end is nowhere in sight.

"The number of volunteers from Marin and East Bay communities has really been encouraging," said Mrs. Beverly McIntosh who with her husband Norman, manager of the Audubon Society's Richardson Bay sanctuary, have turned the sanctuary into a rescue station for the victims of the recent Standard Oil tanker collision.

"Even volunteers from Menlo Park and Santa Clara have brought in birds and helped man the washing stations we've set up for the emergency," she said.

The birds are brought to the rescue station in cardboard boxes filled with shredded newspaper to provide warmth for the birds in transit. That warmth is essential to their survival.

Their first stop is a small shed on one side of Tiburon's historic yellow mansion that headquarters the Richardson Bay sanctuary. The shed itself is hardly visible from the road above as hundreds of volunteers from surrounding schools, churches and homes have gathered there to rip newspapers and old rags into donated cardboard boxes of various shapes and sizes. Motion Picture Plea By Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan thinks the U.S. government should help America's motion picture industry out of its financial hole.

Reagan, former screen star and president of the Screen Actors Guild, told a news conference Tuesday he supports industry efforts to obtain federal tax incentives to produce films in this country instead of abroad.

Reagan said unemployment in the motion picture business "is easily 50 per cent."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

For Settlement

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt's semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said today the Central Committee of the Palestinian guerrilla movement has reversed its position and now endorses a political settlement in the Middle East.

Several guerrilla spokesmen disputed the report but there was optimism for peace in other quarters and new indications that the Arab-Israeli cease-fire would be extended past its Feb. 5 expiration date.

Israeli sources noted with some optimism that the latest Egyptian peace proposals failed to include recent threats to end the truce Feb. 5.

UPI diplomatic correspondent Karol C. Thaler in London quoted diplomatic sources in the British capital today as saying that the cease-fire is virtually certain to be extended, although the prolongation may be limited to a short period.

Plant Explosion

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—An explosion thundered through the Enjay Chemical Co. complex shortly before midnight Tuesday, injuring eight workers and shattering windows two miles away.

The explosion occurred adjacent to the sprawling Humble Oil and Refining Company complex in North Baton Rouge, the world's third largest oil refinery. Enjay officials said they did not know the cause of the explosion, but preliminary indications were an ethylene tanker truck exploded at a loading dock.

Plant manager George Sellin said five of the injured workers were treated at the plant infirmary for minor injuries. Three others were taken by ambulance to a local hospital for X-rays. Hospital spokesmen said none of the three was in critical condition.

Police Return

NEW YORK (UPI)—Their wildcat strike over, city police patrolled their beats as usual today. But they were working without a contract, their union was in a turmoil and the major issues of parity and amnesty were unresolved.

Amid shouts of "sellout"and "strike, strike," delegates of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association (PBA) voted Tuesday to end the six day walkout despite the strong opposition of many rank-and-file members. PBA president Edward J. Kiernan, who was saved from physical assault at the end of the meeting by a phalanx of guards, had opposed the unprecedented wildcat action from its inception.

Two-Front War

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese Command reported heavy fighting on two fronts in neighboring Cambodia today, including a massive new campaign against a Communist border sanctuary and a drive against a mountain pass on vital Highway 4.

The new outbreak of heavy action appeared to be shaping up into a decisive dry-season battle between South Vietnamese and Communist forces for control of Cambodian infiltration routes the Communists need to support their campaign in Vietnam.

Disclosure of the major fighting coincided with the arrival of Cambodian Premier Lon Nol on his first state visit to South Vietnam today. Lon Nol was seeking more military and economic aid from Vietnam and the United States.

In Bangkok, the Thai government said Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn also would go to Saigon Saturday for talks on the military situation in Vietnam and Cambodia.

FTC Overhaul

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) completed an overhaul of its leadership today with the appointment of H. Michael Mann, an academician and former Justice Department official, as director of the Bureau of Economics.

Mann, 37, a native of Camden, N.J., has been chairman of the Boston College Economics Department since July 1. Prior to that he was special economic assistant to the Justice Department Antitrust Division.

Mann's new FTC position has been vacant since October, 1969.

High Drug Costs

WASHINGTON (API) — Government auditors say they have confirmed what Sen. Gaylord Nelson long has suspected: The government is paying too much of the taxpayers' money for drugs prescribed at federal facilities.

Without speculating on the total amount of wasted dollars, officials of the General Accounting Office testified Tuesday that the government's nearly $1 billion drug bill yearly is due in large part to policies that favor purchases of high-priced medcines.

General Elmer B. Staats testified that government-approved purchase prices for "indefinite quantities" of certain drugs have averaged 63 per cent higher than contracted prices for fixed quantities.

Postal Strike

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's first nationwide postal and telecommunications strike left the country without mails or telegrams today. But thousands of girl telephone operators defied union strike orders and showed up on the job as usual.

The postal shutdown came with workers demanding a 15 per cent pay hike. The country also faced the threat of a railroad tieup.

GROUNDED BALD EAGLE

One of the last of North America's bald eagles sits in a cage at Point Pelee National Park at Leamington, Canada, the victim of a hunter's shot which forced amputation of the right wing tip. The huge bird will be given to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests to spend the rest of its life in a game preserve. The bird cannot fly. (UPI Telephoto)

Home Loan Rate Is Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The American Savings and Loan Association lowered its rate on convential home loans to 7 1-2 per cent Tuesday, the first savings and loan institution in the Washington area to do so.

The prevailing rate had been 8 per cent but one year ago it was almost impossible to obtain a home loan even at that rate.

The Federal Housing Administration meanwhile said 95 per cent of its regional offices reported adequate funds available in their area for home loans to qualified borrowers as of Jan. 1 —the highest such availability in four years.

The report also said the average interest rate on conventional mortgage loans throughout the nation was 8.3 per cent for new homes and 8.35 per cent for used homes — down from the average 8.45 per cent for both new and used houses on Dec. 1.

Jewish Defense League Changing Soviet Tactics

NEW YORK (UPI) — The militant Jewish Defense League (JDL) will halt "indefinitely" its harassment of Russian officials to the United Nations but will continue to demonstrate outside the Soviet Mission, its leader said Tuesday.

"We have made our point," Rabbi Meir D. Kahane said. "Now we will see how much these promises are worth."

He said he had been persuaded by "people in government and major Jewish groups" to stop the harassment. He did not identify the government people or the Jewish groups.

(Rabbi David Davis of Marin's Congregation Rodef Sholom has deplored the attitude of the Jewish Defense League.

(He joined other Bay Area Jewish leaders in denying that Western Jews have formed cells of the militant group.

("I think most Jews are appalled by this attitude," he said.)

Flouride Level Tested By State

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Agriculture Department says tests show there are no hazardous levels of fluorides in vegetables, nuts and berries grown in the Santa Clara Valley-Fremont area.

Department officials said Tuesday that a special investigation of the area was made after the department received reports stating that raspberries grown in the San Jose area contained 25.8 parts per million (PPM) of fluoride. The federal-set safety level is 7 PPM.

Department plant pathologists said trees tend to concentrate fluorides in the foliage and when a sufficient concentration is reached, the effect is toxic and the leaves may fall from the trees.

Million Voters Cut From Rolls

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — About 23 per cent of California's registered voters, including more than 1.1 million Democrats, have been removed from the rolls for failing to vote last November.

Democratic Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. also reported Tuesday that nearly half the members of the Peace and Freedom and American Independent parties were dropped from voter lists.

His statewide registration report showed 6,705,513 Californians are now registered to vote, compared to 8,706,347 at time of the general election.

Republicans lost about 700,000 votes — from 3,469,046 to 2,759,968 —and was the only party to increase its share of the voting population. Its percentage of registered voters went from 39.8 per cent to 41.2 per cent.

Hatfield To Seek Early Draft End

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., says he will introduce legislation to abolish the draft as of Dec. 31 —18 months earlier than when the Nixon administration hopes to take similar action.

Last August Hatfield and Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., moved to end the draft in mid--1971 but were defeated on a 52 to 35 vote. Hatfield also said he would sponsor a bill to raise military pay by $3.4 billion.

Highway Commission Appointments Made

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Moon Lim Lee of Weaverville and Vernon J. Christina of San Jose were reappointed to four-year terms on the California Highway Commission Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Lee, a businessman, and Christina, a transportation and civic leader, was named to the commission in 1967. They are both Republicans.

Oil Spreads; Beaches Hard Hit In Disaster

National Seashore reported the oil hadn't reached the park's majestic beaches yet, but goo-covered birds were appearing. They were being taken to the College of Marin Marine Biology Laboratory at Bolinas.

But the battle to save Bolinas Lagoon, to the south, was lost during the night. Despite the efforts of Standard Oil workers, county officials, conservationists and volunteers, the oil swept through barricades placed across the mouth of the lagoon, a wildlife sanctuary.

What effect the goo would have on the ecology of the lagoon could not be estimated at this time.

The scene at the lagoon was typical of that around the bay, as thousands of volunteers fanned out singly and in groups to save beaches and wildlife. Long-haired youths worked side-by-side with Standard Oil hard hats.

Jack E. Downs, U.S. Game Management agent for Northern California, reported about 1,200 birds had been rescued from the goo by this morning. But Downs, who worked at the Santa Barbara disaster, said most of the birds will die if the Santa Barbara experience prevails. There, he said, only 2 or 3 per cent of the rescued fowl lived.

Downs said most of the birds succumb to shock.

In Bolinas, Craig Hansen, director of the College of Marin Marine Lab, said volunteers had brought in about 450 oil-coated birds in the last 24 hours. Hansen said he expected "an 80 per cent mortality among these birds, if we are lucky."

Standard Oil is financing cleanup of the spill and has committed about 500 company and contracted personnel to the effort. Also deployed by the company were ten tugboats, 25 charter boats, seven oil-skimming barges, 30 vacuum trucks, 13 tank trucks, 20 dump trucks, four tractors and four "scoopmobiles."

A Standard spokesman said organizations collecting and treating birds — including the National Audubon Society's Richardson Bay Wildlife Sanctuary on Greenwood Beach Road in Tiburon — had been swamped by volunteers and there was no need for additional help at present.

"As soon as we can develop additional facilities for treating birds, we will again ask for help," the spokesman said. "Meanwhile, we have been asked not to refer any more volunteers to the bird-cleaning centers."

Contractors hired by Standard Oil to clean beach areas also asked volunteers to stay clear of cleanup operations, except at Ocean Beach, Baker's Beach and the St. Francis Yacht Harbor in San Francisco.

Still, the volunteers came. Two busloads of Novato High School students were scheduled to leave the school today to aid in the cleanup. Students at Sir Francis Drake High School also were reportedly released, and headed for oil-stained beaches.

Virtually the entire community of Bolinas, including its school children, were mobilized in the West Marin cleanup.

Misfortune struck two bird rescuers. The Sixth Army said the Army officers were out in a boat yesterday collecting birds when the craft capsized. The officers were taken to a hospital to be treated for shock and exposure.

Rodney H. Hamblin, chief of the land and natural resources division of the U.S. Attorney General's office in San Francisco, said there were "a dozen laws" covering spill liability and could not estimate what penalties would apply, pending outcome of the Coast Guard hearing.

The Coast Guard investigation into the crash of the two tankers got off to a slow start today in San Francisco when an attorney representing two conservation groups asked to be allowed to participate in the proceedings.

Lt. Cmdr. Roy E. Nichols, who is holding the hearing, denied the request of Frederick Fisher, lawyer for the Sierra Club and the Save San Francisco Bay Association.

He did however, recess the hearing to let Fisher appeal to the Coast Guard Commandant in Washington, Adm. Chester R. Bender.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, at his weekly news conference yesterday, deplored the spill as a "tragic accident" but declined to endorse the possible need for new restrictions on ships.

In response to a question about whether more stringent navigational aids were needed, Reagan replied, "I'm not technically qualified to answer that. I'm waiting like the rest of you to find out what happened."

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, introduced legislation requiring all ships in the Bay to be guided by a licensed bar pilot.

Marks said only ships engaged in foreign trade now need licensed bar pilots, but he said the big spill showed the need for all vessels to use their navigational skills.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, urged restrictions on the movement of ships in poor visibility, much as airplanes are regulated.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said there is no federal requirement insisting that radar be kept in good working order and be operated by licensed personnel, and urged Congress to plug the loophole.

He urged swift action on a bill giving the Coast Guard authority to guide ships in harbors and to require installation of ship-to-ship radio-telephone communications for inland shipping.

Mayor Alexander R. Imlay of Sausalito has summoned a meeting of oil company and government officials for noon tomorrow at Campbell Hall, Santa Rosa Avenue and San Carlos Street, to discuss the spill.

Drift With Slender Necks In Despair

the rescue mission was supplied by the Marin County Humane Society: a pet-carrying box with a cover that closes to form handles.

Gentle treatment on the trip from the beach is just as important in rescuing the birds as the washing and the purging of the oil from their bodies.

"Some of the volunteers in their enthusiasm to rescue the oiled birds have actually frightened them to death," said Cristine Pratt of Nottingham, England, who worked as a volunteer for months in England's notorious Torry Canyon oil spill.

Mrs. Pratt, who lives with her husband in San Rafael, held a Western Grebe whose leg had been broken during the rescue attempt.

"Some of the birds actually come to us with their wings and legs broken because the rescue volunteers grab the birds legs, wings or even neck in an attempt to save the panic-stricken birds," she said.

A telephone rang in the rescue headquarters located in the dining room of the gingerbread-like mansion. The phone had not stopped ringing since the first oil-soaked bird was found. This call was from Ron Silva of the Green Gulch Ranch in Muir Beach. He reported seeing about a thousand birds along the beach that couldn't make their way to shore. They were being frightened away by the 80 or more volunteers and thrill-seeking bystanders. Those that did make the shore were being chased back into the water, he said.

Beatrice Cummings, a housewife from Fairfax who had been answering the telephone for almost eight hours yesterday told Silva, as she had to the others who have called, the proper procedure for catching and bringing birds to the washing station.

"Secure their beaks with string or a rubber band to prevent them from pecking themselves and other birds or people," she said. "Then place them in a box lined with rags or shredded newspaper and bring them to the Richardson Bay sanctuary." Only in cases where it was impossible to bring them to the Tiburon station, did she instruct them how to remove the black crude oil with clear, nontoxic mineral oil. The birds, she said, were not to be washed in any detergents or they would die.

Mrs. Pratt said that washing the birds with detergents and other chemicals was one of the reasons that more birds perished during the Torry Canyon oil spill than were saved. Only after it was too late, she said, did they realize that cleaning off the crude oil with a clear mineral oil was the only way to save the birds.

Mrs. Pratt learned much while working in England with thousands of birds for over a month with little sleep. These same techniques are used at the washing rescue station at the Richardson Bay sanctuary.

The birds are brought to the shed, identified as best as possible as to species and where they were found and given to one of the 30 or 40 volunteers dressed in old clothes and elbow deep in black oil.

"Scratch my forehead," cried one of the oil-splattered volunteers as this reporter squeezed past him. He was one of the many who hovered over a dishpan that held a black, sticky bird. Three such tables were crowded into the small shed.

Each volunteer patiently massaged the mineral oil into, under and around the greasy feathers, and on the bird's skin. They could feel the small delicate bones of the bird roll under their gentle pressure.

Washing the oil is a slow, painful process for the bird; the crude oil burns the bird's flesh pink and often causes sores. The birds are passed from dishpan to dishpan and massaged in each until gradually the slimy crude oil is displaced from their feathers and skin.

"It is most important that the oil is removed from their eyes and breathing passages," Mrs. Pratt said. "Then they are placed in paper lined boxes and put into the incubator to warm up."

The washing process lasts almost an hour during which time the birds are exposed to cold air.

The birds are then brought to a small room, about the size of a large closet, where Mrs. Pratt washes their eyes with Murine or a similar eye wash and feeds them a healthy lump of salt-free butter. Some must be returned to the washing room for a more thorough and careful cleaning.

"The butter helps purge their systems of the oil they have swallowed during their ordeal," Mrs. Pratt said.

Two volunteers from the University of Maine, recently arrived in the Bay Area on a graduation tour of the country, helped Mrs. Pratt in this second step in the washing and purging process.

Paul O'Neil and Michael Jewell, both with majors in wildlife management, heard the call for volunteers over the local radio. They came as soon as they could locate the secluded Richardson Bay sanctuary rescue station located off Tiburon Boulevard on Greenwood Beach Road. They have been working since the disaster struck.

According to Jewell, who plans to become a Vista Volunteer in June, the oil not only burns the bird's skin but poisons its system and interferes with skin respiration.

After feeding butter to the birds, both O'Neil and Jewell carried the boxes of birds to an enclosed van for their final treatment and slow recuperation.

The birds were taken to Dr. James L. Noviaux, veterinarian of the National Wildlife Health Foundation at 450 Boyd Road in Pleasanton. There, the birds will be given a catharsis to further purge the oil from their systems and are also given certain vitamins.

Recall Of Chairman Is Sought

Two women today filed a petition for the recall of Gordon C. Wright, chairman of the Reed School District board, accusing him of fostering hostility and distrust among administrators, teachers and parents in the district.

The women, Ann B. Goff of Tiburon and Carolyn S. Hunter of Corte Madera, said they would begin immediately collecting approximately 1,200 signatures necessary to hold a recall election.

The signatures, representing 20 per cent of the district's registered voters, must be filed within six months with the Marin County Elections Office.

Wright, 46, of 160 Rock Hill Road, Tiburon, took office in July 1969 and was elected chairman in July 1970. He is an attorney.

The petition says his recall is necessary because "his actions have fostered a climate harmful to the district's 2,000 children" and have "disrupted essential coopertion and good faith" in the district.

"His intimidation and distrust of teachers and administrators have led to deterioration of morale and effectiveness and have caused the continuing loss of excellent educators," the petition says.

It also cites "his repeated abuse of fellow trustees, members of board-appointed committees and other citizens in public meetings . .

"His recall is essential to overcome the atmosphere of hostility and to retain and attract superior administrators and teachers, and to restore the cooperative pursuit of the highest quality education for our children," it concludes.

Mrs. Goff, of 310 Karen Way, and Mrs. Hunter, of 7 Windward Drive, blamed Wright for contributing to the resignation of former Supt. John B. Gaw last year and the exodus of one-fifth of the district's teachers.

Man Found Dead At Marin Beach

A San Francisco psychiatrist was found dead yesterday at McClure's beach at Point Reyes.

The Marin County coroner's office said Martin Katzman, 50, had tied a rope to his waist and attached the other end of the rope to a rock, and then waited for the tide to come in.

The coroner's office withheld officially calling the death suicide, pending further investigation, but said there was no indication of foul play.

Katzman, who was a native of New York, had formerly lived in San Rafael.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

McCarthy To Title Company

Former state senator John F. McCarthy of Belvedere has been named vice president of the California Financial Corp.'s three title company subsidiaries.

The San Francisco-based corporation announced that McCarthy will handle business development for Marin Title Guaranty Co. of San Rafael, Financial Title Co. of Walnut Creek and Pacific Land Title Co. of Oakland. The corporation is the holding company for Security Savings and Loan Association.

McCarthy's office will be in Marin at the company's San Rafael office at 1300 Fourth Street.

OBITUARIES

SYLVESTER BRIGHAM

Private funeral for Sylvester A. Brigham, 66, of Novato, a retired traffic manager for Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., was held yesterday at St. Anthony's rectory.

Brigham died Sunday at a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Saginaw, Mich. he had worked for Goodyear in Akron, Ohio, for 22 years, and had been a resident of Novato for three years.

Surviving is a son, Sylvester Brigham Jr. of Novato. Burial was at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

DENISE HENDERSON

Denise Henderson, a 14-year-old student at Sinaloa Junior High School, collapsed while walking yesterday and was pronounced dead on arrival at Novato General Hospital at 9 a.m.

The Marin County Coroner's office said the cause of death was undetermined, but there was no sign of foul play. An autopsy was scheduled.

Denise was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Henderson of 1941 Marion Avenue.

She was walking in front of 11 Grande Vista at 8:47 a.m. when she suddenly stopped, stiffened and collapsed, striking her head on the pavement, the coroner's office reported.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato.

ANGELO BRESCIANI

Angelo J. Bresciani, 71, of Petaluma, a retired employee of the Tomales Creamery, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

He was born in Switzerland and moved to Salinas in 1920 where he worked in the lettuce fields for 10 years. In 1930 Bresciani moved to Fallon where he owned and operated a poultry ranch until 1938.

After that, he was employed by the Tomales Creamery, retiring in 1962. Bresciani moved to Petaluma eight years ago to make his home with a son, John Bresciani, 610 G Street.

He is also survived by two other sons, Angelo J. Bresciani Jr. of Petaluma and Alvin Bresciani of Cotati; a daughter, Delores Kolden of Wichita, Kan.; a brother, Charles Bresciani of Napa and 10 grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Vincent De Paul Church, Petaluma, followed by burial at Calvary Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

EDWARD BETHARDS

Memorial services for Pfc. Edward Wayne Bethards, 20, of 24 Eames Court, Novato, killed in Vietnam Jan. 11, will be held at 10: 30 a.m. Friday at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

Bethards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Bethards was killed when an explosive device detonated while he was on a mission.

He was active in Little League for many years and the family plans to set up a memorial fund in his name for Novato Little League.

IN MEMORIAM

NETTRO, ARTHUR "JIM"
In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, ARTHUR "JIM" NETTRO, who passed away JANUARY 20, 1963.

We often sit in silence
No eyes may see us weep;
But forever in our aching hearts,
His memory we will keep.

The call was short, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved to dear;
God took him home, it was his will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.

'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again,
Where parting is no more;
And that the one we truly loved,
Has only gone before.

The flowers we lay upon his grave,
May wither and decay;
But love for him who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.

Off-Street Parking Provision Looms, Reports Hub Council

Owners of existing multiple family dwellings in San Anselmo may have to provide one off-street parking space per unit within five years, if the city council's decision last night is put into ordinance.

The council held a study session with its streets and traffic committee and the city planning commission on the committee's parking report of Sept. 22.

All council votes on the items discussed were unanimous.

The council agreed that the proposal for off street parking in five years would not apply to single family residences but only to duplexes or larger apartments.

It would not apply to new construction now required to provide one off-street parking place for a one bedroom apartment, 1.5 for a two bedroom and two for more than two bedrooms.

The council referred the recommendation to the city attorney for drafting of an ordinance to be considered on completion of the council's study of the parking report.

After discussing what to do with apartments for which it may be physically impossible to provide sufficient off street parking spaces, the council suggested that owners might form parking assessment districts.

The council voted to eliminate the variance fee for apartments applying for front or side yard parking in violation of the city ordinance. It designated the planning director as the first authority to issue such variances, rather than the planning commission.

The city engineer was designated to determine the official "edge of pavement" on narrow streets on which there could be overnight parking.

Police Chief Raymond Buchignani told the council that the ban on overnight parking has cut down on thefts from cars, and made the narrow streets passable to emergency vehicles and the street sweeper.

The council received a written complaint about the ban on overnight parking from George A. Storz, 219 The Alameda.

The minimum size of an off-street parking area was set at 18 feet by 10 feet for a single car, or 18 by nine feet if there are more than one space side by side, according to council action.

The council set 8 p.m. Feb. 2 for the next study meeting on the parking report.

Subdivision Planning Is Attacked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The legislature has been urged to withhold highway construction funds to local governments which fail to adequately control the development of second-home recreational subdivisions.

In a staff report by a legislative committee, the lawmakers also are called on to establish a new tax on the sale of lots in "land projects," the revenues from which would be spent for environmental protection.

In a report, the staff of the Joint Assembly Subcommittees on Premature Subdivisions recommends "stringent new laws" to protect the public and natural environment "from the consequences of premature subdivision development."

The recommendations resulted from a series of statewide hearings into the need for new state and local regulation of mammoth housing tracts in relatively isolated areas such as in Nevada and El Dorado counties. Purchasers of such lots often are city dwellers seeking a peaceful retreat in the mountains.

But critics have charged that many such developments are actually "premature."

Carport Must Be Torn Down

A carport at 698 Hawthorne Drive in Tiburon must be torn down because the owner of the property failed to get city permission to build it, the Tiburon Board of Adjustments has decided.

Development administrator Phil V. Scott said the board Monday refused Lucille D. Spangler a variance for her carport, built to the side property line. An eight-foot setback is required.

Scott said the board denied the variance because it could find no grounds for the request. The lot is level and the carport could have been constructed inside the setback with no difficulty, Scott said.

The board also discussed a variance to allow Peter Haywood to build a carport within the required 14-foot frontyard setback at 106 Geldert Drive, but reached no conslusion.

Scott said the board set a special meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at city hall with the city's design review board to consider Haywood's application again. Under an interim ordinance recently adopted by the city council, all buildings more than 30 feet high must receive approval from the design review board. Haywood's house is 31 feet high at one point.

Jury Trial Set For Ross Man In Embezzlement

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A jury trial has been set for Feb. 22 in U.S. District Court for a 61-year-old Ross man indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of embezzling more than $26,000 from an account at the bank where he worked.

Set to go to trail is Thomas Michael Murphy of 1 Camino Bueno.

He is accused of withdrawing funds in 1967 and 1969 from the savings account of a San Francisco woman who claimed she didn't miss the money since her account "stands in the millions."

Murphy, who was an assistant cashier at a San Francisco branch of Wells Fargo Bank, allegedly took over $20,000 in 1967 and over $6,000 in 1969 from the account of Norva Boas.

PG&E Wins Rate Hikes; Marin Included On List

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday granted the Pacific Gas& Electric Co. permission to raise electric rates by an average of 47 cents a month to home users.

The PUC allowed the company $51,579,000 per year in increased rates. PG&E had asked for more than $67 million.

The commission adopted its staff recommendation for a rate of return of 7.5 per cent for PG&E instead of the 7.8 per cent to 8.0 asked for by the company.

The PUC said the electric rate increase was the first in 12 years. PG&E asked for the rate increase Dec. 15, 1969, and since that time 47 days of public hearings were held, with 5,221 pages of transcript and 118 exhibits.

The order becomes effective Feb. 8 and the new rates will go into effect Feb. 13.

In Marin, most homeowners, based on consumption of 250 kilowatt hours a month, will see rates incrased by 39 cents from $7.41 to $7.80. In rural areas, such as Bolinas, the rate will increase by 49 cents from $9.11 to $9.60.

In Cotati, the rate will increase 39 cents from $7.71 to $8.10. The rates are based on population density.

The PUC found that PG&E needed the money because of increased cost of operation—labor, equipment and material—along with general inflation and the increased cost of money.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's new state Social Welfare Director, Robert Carleson, was sworn into office Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan. The governor appointed Carleson last month.

Hidden Valley School Has Principal At Top Salary

The San Anselmo School District last night hired a San Francisco State College education professor to be principal of Hidden Valley School at the top salary on the district's scale: $17,358 per year.

Francis T. Galbraith, who is in charge of the student teaching program at the state college, will take over the principalship Feb. 1. It has been vacant since last June, when Principal Richard B. Connell left on a two-year leave.

Board chairman Elmer A. Weden Jr. said Connell's leave was as a teacher and "he will not return as principal."

The salary figure brought some comment from teachers and parents in the audience, who questioned whether administrative costs might be growing too high in view of the district's financial bind.

Weden said Galbraith's experience and his doctor's degree entitle him to the salary, which is on a fixed scale based on the teacher salary scale. He said this fixed scale for principals was "forced on the board" four years ago by the San Anselmo District Teachers Association.

A complaint about lack of goals in the district was voiced later in the long meeting by Supt. Kenneth Lowry. "We started in September with a recommendation from me to set goals for the district and we have made no progress," he said.

Trustee Mary Taylor Oliver said a citizen committee did draw up goals two years ago.

Tax Hike Idea Heard By Hub School Panel

An election on an 80-cent increase in San Anselmo School District's maximum operating tax rate was proposed last night, but action on it was postponed.

A motion by Trustee Basil H. Scalabrini that the issue be put on the ballot for the April 20 school board election died for lack of a second near the close of a long district board meeting.

The district's maximum operating tax rate now is $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation. This year it levied a $2.06 operating tax, included in a total district tax rate of $3.25.

Supt. Kenneth Lowry told the board that his projections show the district could operate through next school year without a rate hike by dropping the remedial reading program (now partially state-financed but not expected to be so next year) and perhaps the summer session. But, he said, this would mean it would end the year with "a zero balance."

Lowry said these figures allowed for no salary scale increase.

Board chairman Elmer A. Weden Jr., who left the meeting before Scalabrini's unsuccessful motion was put, called such an attempt unrealistic. "We are going to face cost-of-living increases," he said. "We're going to have to cut programs just to stand still."

Trustee Eugene E. Jacks wondered whether the permissive override tax for higher cost of seventh-eighth grade education might be boosted enough to make up the need, without going to the voters. However, Lowry said he is "not comfortable" with the 33-cent override already levied for that purpose and felt it could not legally be increased.

Trustee Mary Taylor Olive urged action be delayed until the board could get a better accounting of just where the district's money has gone. She was troubled by a paragraph in the annual audit report by Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin saying the accounts kept by the district were in poor condition and not reconciled with the county auditor's accounts. The audit itself failed to show just where state money for special programs had been spent and how much general fund money might have been used for them, she said.

The audit showed the district began the current fiscal year with combined surplus and reserve of $167,578, but Lowry said this would be down to $50,000 by June 30. This, he pointed out, means the district actually is spending more than $107,000 beyond its receipts this year.

The superintendent said July 13 would be the latest date for a tax election for next year's rate. Scalabrini, after his motion for an April 20 election went down the drain, said he "would not be uncomfortable" with a July 13 date if the board got busy on preparing the campaign without delay.

Trustee Franklin C. Latcham was absent.

County Urges Study On Ross Valley Issue

San Anselmo's application for federal funds to plan possible consolidation of municipal services in all of Ross Valley should wait until other cities like Fairfax and Ross have a chance to study the proposal.

This was the decision of the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

The Association of Bay Area Governments, which must clear applications for federal funds, asked Marin County for any comments.

"I would like the cities in Ross Valley to discuss this first," said Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. The supervisors put off action until Feb. 9.

San Anselmo last month submitted a preliminary application for $20,000 in federal funds to see if municipal services can be improved by consolidating some of their functions with other cities in Ross Valley.

"San Anselmo, as the largest jurisdiction in the area, felt that it was the logical entity to make such an application," said City Planning Director Charles R. Leitzell.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

CRIME LAB — Postponed until budget time a recommendation from the Marin County Grand Jury that a countywide crime laboratory be established at a cost of about $106,000.

SPECIAL RAISE — Turned down a request by Personnel Director Maren Rinne for a special step increase for Claudine Ortiz, intermediate typist, in the personnel office. Supervisors explained they recognize Mrs. Ortiz' capabilities and increase in workload, but they must abide by the county policy of not granting mid-year pay raises except in emergency cases.

FIRE CONSOLIDATION — Approved an outlay of $310 as the county contribution in the study to determine the potential for fire agency consolidation in Southern Marin. Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows reported that the cost for the study would be about $5,150. Consolidation would include Mill Valley, Sausalito, Tamalpais Fire District, and Marin City and Muir Woods Park, which are in county jurisdiction.

FOSTER CHILDREN — Approved a $7,500 contract with the Behavior Therapy Institute of 300 Valley Street, Sausalito, to start a pilot program of training foster parents on the handling of foster children. Probation Officer John W. Brewer said the aim is to make more use of foster homes instead of the more expensive institutional placement.

LUCAS VALLEY — Unanimously approved establishment of a woodshop by the county schools office on the County Farm property in Lucas Valley, but ordered that it be constructed farther away than the proposed 60 feet from the nearest home of Idylberry Drive. the schools office was told to work out the location with the county planning director and administrator.

Child Drama Classes Started

Twelve-week classes in creative dramatics for children started last week and are continuing Wednesday afternoons at the Mill Valley Golf Course Clubhouse, 267 Buena Vista Avenue.

Sponsored by the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department, the classes will run from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. for ages 7 to 9 and 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. for ages 10 to 14.

Rosemary Eberhardt is teacher for the course. She hopes to develop the actors' three basic tools — physical techniques, improvisitation and vocal techniques.

New Air Board Plan Is Sought

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation allowing all counties in the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District to withdraw portions of their territory from the district has been introduced by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek.

A 1970 state law annexing Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties to the six-county district gave this option to the three new counties. Nejedly's bill, SB 79, would extend the same option to the other six, including Marin.

The senator told the Independent-Journal it would be "unfair to the other (six) counties to be on a different footing." He added that the eastern portion of his own county, Contra Costa, was in a different air shed than the western portion, thus it could be excluded from the district.

But he insisted that his bill was not intended to encourage dismemberment of the district.

Nejedly said that last year's bill annexing the three northern counties would not have passed the Legislature without including the option to exclude territory from the district. It would be "legislatively dishonest" to move this year to do away with the option, he said.

Sharp Protest Gets 'Interim' Concession

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved rezoning most of the area west and south of Novato to one-acre minimum sites but made a slight concession in Indian Valley. (Another supervisors story, page 1).

On a motion by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, the supervisors put the Indian Valley area into an interim zone for one year, and asked the county planning department and Novato officials to decide whether more density can be allowed in Indian Valley.

Residents of Indian Valley declared that septic tank failures are their biggest problem, and one-acre sites would prevent sewer lines from ever coming to their area.

"Sewers will not be economically feasible under one-acre zoning," complained Franklin Gustafson of 1970 Indian Valley Road. "The planning commission and staff are derelict in trying to push this rezoning down our throats."

County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell agreed that if sewer facilities were available, half-acre sites would be feasible in Indian Valley. He said the one-acre zoning for Indian Valley is a "holding action" until sewers can be installed.

In order to allay fears of property owners that the one-acre sites would be permanent in Indian Valley, supervisors agreed to the interim zone.

The remainder of the area west and south of Novato was rezoned for one-acre sites, except that the area north of Mill Road will retain 10,000-square-foot lots and a small area at the entrance to Wild Horse Valley will have 20,000 square foot lots.

Appointments Announced

Four appointments to city commissions and boards, named by Mayor George E. Wickham, have been confirmed by the Mill Valley City Council.

Appointed Monday night to the youth commission was Roger Smith, of 308 North Ferndale Avenue.

Named to the planning commission were William A. Lewis, of 128 Locust Avenue, and Richard N. Jessup, of 172 Lovell Avenue. Frances Adams, of 74 Mountain View Avenue, was appointed to the human rights board.

Bill Aimed At Help To Public Land

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation exempting nonprofit corporations from property taxes on property they buy to dedicate to public use was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The bill was asked by the Nature Conservancy, which would qualify under its provisions for exemptions.

Bagley included a similar bill last year in his tax revision package, which died on the Senate floor by one vote. Last year, the measure would have reimbursed counties for the lost property tax revenue.

This year's measure, however, would provide no reimbursement. Bagley's staff said this provision was deleted because of the state's tight fiscal situation.

The exemption would be limited to property to be used for preservation of native life forms, ecology and open space.

Little League

Signups for the Kentfield-Greenbrae Little League will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon at Wolfe Grade School library. It is for boys aged 9 through 12.

Z'Berg Offers Solution To Cal-Vet Loan Crisis

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The California Farm and Home Loan program for veterans has a waiting list of 6,000 applicants which grows longer every day with no immediate financial solution in sight.

The tight money situation, inflation and —until recently— an unsalable limit on the interest rates the state could charge for veterans bonds are blamed for the dilemma.

Charles A. Bowers, deputy director of the Veterans Department, said a $50 million bond sale in December financed loans for 2,700 veterans but there are 6,000 more waiting.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, offered one solution to the problem in the form of a $500 million bond issue. He also would raise the maximum home loan from the current $20,000 to $25,000. The maximum farm loan is $80,000.

But even if the legislature approves the bond issue this year, it will not go before the voters until June 1972—and there is no guarantee the voters will back it.

Truck Jackknifes Injures Driver

James Morey, 25, of Pittsburg, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital for hand and face cuts suffered Monday night when his truck jackknifed across Lakeville Highway, a mile north of Highway 37.

The California Highway Patrol said the tractor-trailer rig hit a muddy shoulder and overturned at 7:40 p.m.

Election Set For April On New District

Sleepy Hollow residents will vote on April 20 whether they want a community services district established to take over the Sleepy Hollow Fire District, with a tax rate of $1.15 per $100 assessed valuation.

In the same election, voters will elect five directors of the new Sleepy Hollow Community Services District.

Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday paved the way for the election despite residents' demands for more time to get all the facts.

"The only fair way is to let the community decide this," said Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. The supervisors unanimously voted approval of the new district.

Arrigoni and other supervisors said there was enough time to argue the merits between now and election day.

CHANGES EXPLAINED

Assist. County Administrator John F. Barrows explained that the reorganization would bring these changes:

The Sleepy Hollow Fire Protection District, which now operates with a tax rate of $1.04, would be dissolved, and the community services district would take over the same area, comprising 1,574 acres. The new services district would have a tax rate of $1.15.

The services district, with a five-member board would have the power to give fire protection, collect and dispose of garbage and debris, provide recreation, provide police protection, and convert overhead utility lines to underground locations.

The district could raise the tax rate beyond $1.15 only with voter approval.

Proponents of the reorganization, headed by Merritt A. Robinson, said the $1.15 tax rate would pay for the same fire protection now provided by the fire district and perhaps provide community debris boxes. He said other services such as recreation, police protection and undergrounding of utilities would require tax raises, which must get voter approval.

Robinson, president of the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association, said his group had given wide publicity to the proposed community services district at meetings and through the Sleepy Hollow Bulletin.

OPPONENTS PROTEST

But opponents charged they were fed misinformation and not enough facts.

J. G. Ingels of 40 Stuyvesant Drive said more than 300 residents had opposed the reorganization or asked for deferment "until the facts are known to everyone."

John Scott of 44 Crane Drive asked for a 90-day delay. He charged the proponents had used steamroller tactics.

Marjorie Chaille of 1421 Butterfield Road complained that the new community services district, with a tax rate 11 cents higher than the present fire district rate would provide no new services. "This is being done piece-meal so that voters won't know how much more it will cost them," she charged.

"Ninety-five per cent of what has been brought up here today should have been discussed in Sleepy Hollow and not with us," said Supervisor John F. McInnis.

He and other supervisors agreed with Arrigoni that the ballot box would provide the fairest decision.

Book Reviewing Will Be Discussed

Lecturer Jean Ward will speak on approaches to book reviewing at a public meeting at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 2 in Campbell Hall of Christ Church, Sausalito.

Mrs. Ward has been a lecturer at the Huntington Art Gallery and is a past president of the Pasadena Symphony Association.

NEW CITIZENS

Route Long One To Home In Marin

England to Canada to Marin was the route taken by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Woodward of 109 Golden Hinde Boulevard, San Rafael, who were among 19 Marin and Southern Sonoma residents naturalized last month.

Leaving their native England in 1957, the Woodwards settled in Drummondville, Quebec, where about 97 per cent of the population was French speaking.

They had three young daughters and the educational system in Drummondville wasn't ideal, so when the opportunity arose in 1965 they moved to Marin.

Woodward became quality control manager of the Koratron Co. laboratory in San Francisco, and with the help of a friend he knew in Canada, John A. B. Gibbs of 456 Nova Albion Way, located a home in Terra Linda.

Woodward is now a technical specialist for Chlorox Co. in Oakland. "My job is to generate technical information to substantiate advertising claims," he explained.

Natives of Nottingham, "Robin Hood country," as Woodward described it, he and his wife, Lillian, were married in England. While a bachelor, he had worked in Canada from 1948-54, and returned in 1957 with his bride.

Their three daughters, Linda, 11, Wendy, 9, and Claire, 7, "love it" in Marin and the Woodwards are "happy with the schools," so it appears they are here to stay.

Other new citizens recently naturalized in the U.S. District Court in San Francisco and Sonoma County Superior Court are:

LARKSPUR — Carlos Alfredo Galan, 6 Post Street, Apt. 1.

MILL VALLEY — Michael Derek Heather, 3 Princess Lane; Yen Moon Jew, 27 Nelson Avenue; and Evert Rekk, 213 California Avenue.

NOVATO — Hanns Karl and Inge Gerda Hottes, 625 Sunset Parkway; Myrtle Meherns Bennett, 29 Santa Maria Drive;

SAN ANSELMO — Francisco Gillermo Marin, 448 Scenic Avenue.

SAUSALITO — Nee Hing Chin, 675 Olima Street, and Muazzes Sener Gumrukcu, 301 Richardson Street.

TIBURON — John Owen Ritchie, 125 Barbaree Way; and Helena Shapiro, 52 Reed Ranch Road.

On a percentage basis, fewer residents of Hawaii own their homes than the people of any other state, says the National Geographic.

Guitar Classes At Tiburon

Group classes in folk and classical guitar will be offered starting Tuesday at Del Mar School, Avenida Miraflores, Tiburon.

Folk guitar will be taught Tuesday evenings for beginners at 7 p.m., intermediates at 8 p.m. and advanced students at 9 p.m. Classical guitar classes will be on Wednesday evenings with times to be arranged for beginning students and intermediates.

Registration may be made by telephoning William Steele of Corte Madera for folk guitar and Marcus Hatfield of Fairfax for classical guitar.

Woman Arraigned In Dope Selling

Belinda Zell, 23, of Stinson Beach, has been arraigned in Marin Superior Court on two felony charges of selling marijuana to a narcotics agent.

She is to plead to the charges Feb. 1.

Mrs. Zell was arrested on a warrant Sept. 16 after she allegedly sold a kilo of marijuana July 9 and three lids of marijuana July 27.

Exclusion Issue On Air District Agenda

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Representatives of Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties will meet Friday with Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors to discuss possible moves by the three counties to exclude parts of their territory from the district.

The meeting will be at 9 a.m. in district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

Solano County supervisors already have asked the state Air Resources Board to exclude about half of the county from the district, and Sonoma County has indicated it may make a similar request.

The 1970 Legislature annexed the three counties to the district, effective July 1, but left them the option of seeking to exclude portions of their territory, with approval of the state board.

The regional board has promised to fight such moves, but postponed a formal protest to the state board to give time for the three counties to present their viewpoints.

Also on the agenda is discussion of initiating a district program of inspecting motor vehicles for compliance with smog regulations.

Burglary At Bar

Whiskey, beer, a tape deck and stereo tapes were stolen from a storeroom at the Silver Dollar Bar in Point Reyes Station Dec. 29, Marin County Sheriff's Office reported yesterday. The stolen goods were valued at $214, deputies said.

Probation For Disturbing Peace

Bernardo Groves, 20, of San Anselmo, was placed on probation for one year Monday by Judge Henry J. Broderick of Marin Superior Court.

Groves pleaded guilty last month to a reduced misdemeanor charge of disturbing the peace after a jury split nine to three over whether he was guilty of felony battery against a police officer.

The youth, who wears leg braces and walks with crutches, had been accused of hitting San Anselmo Police Officer David Oliva during a fracas last Feb. 27 which started after the officer stopped Groves in his car for not having a license plate.

A charge of interfering with an officer against a pregnant woman who was with Groves was dismissed earlier.

Snowdon Holiday

LONDON (UPI)—Lord Snowdon, recently released from a hospital after surgery, will leave Thursday for a vacation in Barbados, a family spokesman said today. His wife, Princess Margaret, is scheduled to join him next week.

OFFTRACK BETTING

Reagan Would Listen For Tax Reform Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan today said he is willing to consider legalization of offtrack betting if it is part of a broad tax reform program.

Reagan, at his first news conference since September, also disclosed he will not introduce his own tax reform program this year for the first time since he came to Sacramento.

Instead, Reagan said, he will attempt to work out a compromise property tax relief-reform plan with Democrats.

Assembly Democrats, led by new Speaker Bob Moretti of Van Nuys, have announced plans to seriously consider legalizing offtrack betting in California. It would be tightly controlled by the state.

"I'm willing to listen to what the programs are in one context—as part of general tax reform," the governor said.

Proposals already have been introduced in the young legislative session to legalize dog racing, a statewide lottery, jai alai and Nevada casino-type gaming.

Reagan emphasized that "all of the conversation about legalizing gambling is out of line at the moment," aside from the offtrack betting.

"I don't think we ought to be going outside existing (tax) revenue" for new state money, he said.

The governor said he will set a personal precedent and not introduce his own tax reform program because "I'm perfectly willing to work with the Democrats in the legislature on this."

Democrats this session hold narrow control of both houses. Last year Reagan's hard-fought $1 billion tax revision plan was scuttled by one vote in the Senate.

Reagan also told newsmen:

—He feels any income tax withholding program, which he now strongly supports, should be part of tax reform. He also is committed to a "forgiveness" provision to lessen the first year payment escalation impact on the taxpayer.

—He believes the motion picture industry "has a right" to seek federal help. The former actor noted the unemployment rate in his industry now is around 50 per cent. He favors tax incentives to encourage film companies to produce in the United States.

—He does not believe the federal government can correct problems in the California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA), and therefore is pressing for the OEO to sustain his veto of the program's $1.8 million financing next year.

—He thinks the San Francisco Bay oil spill is "tragic" and "I'm waiting like the rest of you to find out what happened."

—His welfare reform program will be introduced to the legislature next month.

Berserk Soldier Kills Six, Self

SEOUL (UPI) — A South Korean Marine sergeant went berserk, killed six persons and injured four others and then shot himself to death Monday night at a marine camp in the Kimpo area 15 miles west of Seoul, military officials said today.

King Kyung-yul ran amok after a drinking bout. He threw two hand grenades inside the camp and ran out firing his rifle at random, the officials said.

He shot to death two fellow soldiers and four civilians in a nearby village and injured four other villagers before fleeing into the mountains and killing himself, according to the officials.

TIMELESS HIMALAYAS — The Mir of Hunza, leader of a Himalayan kingdom where people reputedly live to be 130 years old, will be featured in "High Himalaya," a documentary film to be shown Monday at San Rafael High School

'High Himalaya' Is Next Travel Film

"High Himalaya," A feature length color travel adventure film will be shown at 8:15 p.m., Monday at the San Rafael High School auditorium as part of an Explorama Series

The documentary was photographed on location in Nagar, Kafiristan, Pakistan and Hunza

Highlights of the film include a performance by the KhyberRiflemen, the world's best marksmen who are guardians of the Khyber Pass

It also features the Kingdom of Hunza which is believed to be the setting of James Hilton's novel, "Lost Horizon", where people live to the age of 130 in perfect mental and physical health.

The Kingdom of Nagar, one of the most remote and difficult countries to reach, is shown in the film. It also shows barbaric and pagan rituals climaxed by the feast of the Kafirs in the pagan valley of Kafiristan

The narrator of the film is Russ Potter whose voice is heard on the Walt Disney series of long-playing albums

This is the fifth in the current Explorama series Others scheduled are Japanese Summer, March 1; South Sea Holiday, April 19 and Australian Adventure, May 3

Alaskan Pipeline Hearings Are Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The first public hearings on the proposed oil pipeline across Alaska will be held in Washington Feb 16 and 17, according to the Interior Department

The Anchorage segment of the hearings, which were to be first, will now be held there Feb 25 and 26, a spokesman said The pipeline would be designed to carry oil from the North Slope to the town of Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska

Man Arraigned In Club Break-In

Dennis Hugh Jensen, 18, of San Rafael, has been arraigned in Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglarizing the Country Club Bowl in San Rafael Nov 11

He is to enter a plea to the charge next Monday

Dissolutions Outstrip Marriages During 1970

Marinites took advantage of the state's new divorce law last year to shed their spouses in larger numbers than ever before, but, surprisingly, also took out marriage licenses in increasing numbers

As in 1969, more Marin residents filed for divorce than applied for marriage licenses, however, County Clerk George N Gnoss reported

A total of 1,503 persons filed for dissolutions of their marriages, an increase of approximately 34 per cent over the 1969 total of 1,120

Marriage licenses were issued to 1,383 couples, an increase of about 36 per cent over the previous year's total of 1,017

The new divorce law, which cut from one year to six months the minimum time required between filing and granting of a final divorce decree, was credited with some of the increase

The law also eliminates the necessity for a witness in divorce hearings and prevents judges from hearing lists of complaints about spouses

Guilty To Pot Stolen Property

Steven Joseph O'Brien, 21, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and receiving stolen property

Preliminary hearing has been set for Feb 9

O'Brien was arrested Dec 30 when police stopped his car in Sausalito because of a loud muffler Police said they found eight plastic bags of suspected marijuana and 32 stereo tapes allegedly stolen in San Rafael.

WINE MARINADE used with short ribs of beef makes for excellent eating even on a tight budget. The ribs require little watching during two to three hours cooking time.

Recession Stroganoff Is Low Cost Glamour

Here is a recipe that makes it possible to entertain handsomely yet inexpensively. Recession Stroganoff makes only four or five servings but may easily be doubled for a party buffet.

This is a low cost take off on that always popular party dish, beef stroganoff. In this instance, the beef is relatively inexpensive ground chuck and the noodles are built in, so to speak, instead of being cooked separately.

RECESSION STROGANOFF

½ cup slivered almonds
¼ cup margarine or butter
¾ lb. ground chuck
½ cup chopped onion
¼ lb. mushrooms, sliced
1 can (10½ oz.) cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
6 tablespoons dry vermouth
¼ cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon brandy (optional)
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon thyme, crumbled
¼ teaspoon rosemary, crumbled
¼ teaspoon pepper
6 oz. noodles

Spread out almonds in shallow pan and toast in 375 degree oven for 8 to 10 minutes or until light golden brown.

Melt two tablespoons margarine in large skillet. Add onion and mushrooms to pan and saute for about five minutes or until limp and buttery. Crumble ground chuck into same pan and stir until browned. Stir in half the toasted almonds, the soup, vermouth, sour cream, brandy, salt, thyme, rosemary and pepper.

Cook noodles in boiling salted water as the package directs. Drain and toss noodles with remaining two tablespoons margarine.

Put noodles into 1½ or 2 quart casserole dish, pour meat and sauce over and sprinkle with remaining almonds. Cover and refrigerate until ready to serve. Bake uncovered at 375 degrees for 30 minutes or until hot in center. If dish is deep and has been refrigerated for some time, it may take 40 to 45 minutes to heat.

Makes four or five servings.

Dinner Dish Cabbage Roll Is Low Cost And Also Easy

You're fond of cabbage rolls, but don't often have the time to prepare them? Then this easy skillet medley is made to order. It has all the same basic ingredients that go into cabbage rolls, but better yet it's a dinner in a dish, that's relatively low in cost (somewhat over 30 cents per serving).

Start by simmering until almost tender a pound and a half of pork shoulder. Toss in uncooked rice, a measure of lemon juice and brown sugar and sauce with tangy tomato sauce full of robust onions. With the onions already in the sauce, you avoid teary eyes and messy chopping.

Cut a small head of cabbage into six wedges, blanch it a few minutes and then place the wedges in the pork mixture. The cabbage and rice cook along and mingle with all that good tomato sauce and before you know it, dinner's done.

WINTER SKILLET MEDLEY

1½ pounds pork shoulder, cubed
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon salad oil
water
1 teaspoon basil
¾ cup uncooked rice
2 (8-ounce) cans tomato sauce with onions
2 tablespoons brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 small head cabbage

Sprinkle pork with ½ teaspoon salt and pepper. Brown lightly in salad oil in 12 inch skillet. Add 1 cup water and basil; simmer, covered, 1 to 1½ hours, until almost tender. Stir in rice, one can tomato sauce with onions, sugar, lemon juice and remaining ½ teaspoon salt. Cut cabbage into six wedges; cover with boiling water and let stand five minutes, drain.

Place wedges in pork and rice mixture. Drizzle remaining can of tomato sauce with onions over all. Heat to boiling; lower heat, cover and simmer about 30 minutes until rice and cabbage are tender. Stir once or twice.

Serves six.

THIS EASY to prepare dinner dish cabbage roll costs about 30 cents a serving. A pound and a half of pork shoulder is simmered first. Then rice, lemon juice, brown sugar and tangy tomato sauce full of onions is added and then cooked with blanched cabbage cut into six wedges.

Long, Slow, Moist Cooking Is Secret To Braised Short Ribs

For Americans who like beef and want to stay within their budget, braised short ribs of beef should be one of their favorite entrees.

Short ribs are cut from the ends of the ribs and the plate. They have a fine flavor and excellent nutritional value. Beef contains protein of the highest biological quality. Like all meat, beef is an abundant source of vitamins of the B complex group and an excellent source of the essential minerals, iron, copper and phosphorus.

Long, slow, moist cooking is the secret to preparing beef short ribs. The win marinade aids in making these chunks of beef tender and tasty. And keep in mind that these short ribs require little watching during cooking.

For a hearty, well-balanced meal during the winter days, serve the short ribs with a green vegetable, fruit salad, rolls and a beverage.

BRAISED SHORT RIBS

3 pounds short ribs
½ cup dry red wine
2 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup onion, sliced
1 cup carrots, sliced
½ teaspoon rosemary
¼ teaspoon marjoram
1¼ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup water

Place short ribs in plastic bag. Mix wine, Worchestershire sauce, garlic, onion, carrot, herbs and 1 teaspoon salt; pour over meat in plastic bag. Close bag securely. Refrigerate two to three hours, turning several times.

Remove short ribs from marinade and brown well on all sides in hot shortening. Add leftover marinade with vegetables. Cover and cook slowly until short ribs are fork tender, about two hours. Transfer short ribs to serving platter. Drain excess fat from pan drippings. Add water and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt; heat and stir. Spoon over short ribs.

Serves four.

Baking Time Trick To Walnut Cheesecake

The trick to this chocolate walnut cheesecake is the baking time. Heating helps curd the protein but overheating can produce a dry curd which can get too hard to combine with the other filling ingredients. Baking time should be long enough to get it "pouf" and body.

CHOCOLATE WALNUT CHEESECAKE

Crust:
½ cup finely chopped walnuts
½ cup zwiebach crumbs
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
3 tablespoons melted butter

Cheesecake:
3 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
⅔ cup granulated sugar, divided
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1-ounce square unsweetened chocolate, melted
½ cup finely chopped California walnuts
1 cup dairy sour cream

Crust: Combine walnuts, zwiebach crumbs, sugar and butter, and blend well. Press into bottom of nine-inch spring form pan. Bake at 350 degrees. F. 10 minutes.

Cheesecake: Beat egg whites with salt and cream of tartar until barely stiff. Gradually beat in ⅓ cup sugar and vanilla until smooth. Blend in chocolate. Stir in walnuts. Fold in egg whites, and turn into spring form over baked crust. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Spread with sour cream; return to oven for five minutes. Cool thoroughly before cutting.

Serves eight.

OSSIE CLARK

A Gentle Whisper From A Top London Designer

By SIMON KAVANAUGH
London Express Service

"I think all the best designers are dead now. I don't think it's for me to say that I'm the best today, but I believe that I think more about the woman wearing the clothes than the commercial aspect of the business, which everyone else does."

Ossie Clark's gentle whisper of a voice carries no hint of malice or conceit. He has a reputation for honesty, his soft voice and aura of gentility camoufalging the harsh things he sometimes has to say about his contemporaries in the London fashion scene, of which he is indisputably one of the leaders.

He's Quorum's designer - a King's Road, Chelsea, shop that looks like a space age mausoleum. If he had a fan club, Twiggy would be the founder member. She says she "simply adores" all his clothes. David Bailey's constant companion, Penelope Tree, is another model who rates Ossie Clark above all others.

HIS PUBLIC image is decidedly trendy - dark and thin with tinted glasses and a silver Buick Riviera parked outside his Notting Hill Gate flat.

But there the similarity with the other London designers ends. In the decade of Carnaby Street's pop art clothes, Ossie Clark established himself in the tradition of the great Parisian coutoruiers. His women's dresses are beautiful, elegant and sophisticated and made to last. Although there is a mass produced Ossie Clark range that sells for about $30 it is his more expensive originals that have given him pop star earnings - and publicity.

He gives the impression that the considerable financial rewards means little to him.

"The other day Alice (Alice Pollock, who began Quorum in 1964) told me how much I earn, and do you know, it's quite a lot. I'm surprised," he says.

HE SEEMS uncertain just how important his work is to him. Sometimes he says it's everything, "My whole life". Other times he says he gets tired of it and feels "bored, fed up and miserable" a lot of the time.

"I just get so tired of my work," he says." It's not busy, busy, busy all the day. I do, maybe, two collections, a year, working very hard, very long hours. Our spring collection - I worked for two months just on the drawings. Then it took a month, maybe six weeks to produce the collection - about 60 garments. I was absolutely exhausted at the finish. I had to go away. I love travelling. I took the car and drove around Spain and Portugal and Morocco. Three months in all".

Last year he nearly gave up fashion.

"I was going to be a photographer," he says." I bought an incredible camera, super. But I couldn't get into it all. On the other hand Celia (his wife and Quorum's fabrics designer) is a genius at taking photographs. They are the most fantastic pictures, really . . .

"I would like to do something else, as well as designing. I'd like to make a film or make clothes for a ballet. I've done a few things for films but it takes them so long to decide on anything and when they have decided . . . they want it immediately. Then there's the union problem. Oh, it's really a drag".

Ossie Clark was born in Liverpool 28 years ago, the last of six children. His father was in the Royal Navy.

"We were very poor," he says. "I wanted to be a fashion designer when I was 12. At school, a teacher brought it out of me. I think it was always there, but he made me realize that it was what I wanted to do. I used to sew and make things when I was quite small, and a boyfriend of one of my sisters taught me how to draw."2

HIS SKILL at drawing won him a place at Manchester Art School, where he first met his wife, and then he entered the Royal College of Art.

It was while he was a student at the RCA that he met Alice Pollock and went to work for Quorum.

"It was all so incredibly coincidental. Alice's birthday, for example, was exactly the same as mine. We're both Geminians. It's very odd. She usually knows what I'm thinking, and I know what she's thinking . . . I was lucky because I had the freedom I wanted. I could do anything I pleased,

The Sexy Look Is Alive In Italian Designers' Clothes

By BRENDA W. ROTZOLL

ROME (UPI)—The spring and summer fashion collections are proving one thing at least —the sexy look will never die while there is one Italian designer left to drape a bosom in chiffon that reveals more than it conceals.

Shorts, slit skirts, slit bodices, tightly wrapped crepes and chiffons that rivaled cellophane for their revealing qualities flowed through the Italian high fashion collections Monday.

The top of the calf took top honors as the new daytime dress length but evening lengths staggered about from floor to hip bottom, with ragged-edged compromises in between. The overall look was soft, soft, soft.

PRINCESS IRENE Galitzine jumped her competitors who show ready-to-wear each April in Florence for the coming fall. She tucked her fall ready-to-wear into her high fashion show. Coral and black were her pet colors for off-the-rack clothes.

Sand, blue and turquoise were added to the color spectrum in the high fashion collection at Galitzine, appearing in coats and dresses wth flared skirts, or evening gowns of clinging crepe. Maybe you couldn't see through the crepe stretched taut over the bosom —but you didn't need to.

Galitzine loved shorts for day or evening, and wore a pair in black crepe herself. Her shorts had wider legs than those of most fashion houses, and some were so short and full they looked like bloomers. For daytime she liked wrap-around skirts to convert those shorts to very sedate suits.

For evening she did a beautiful line of jungle prints on white or dark blue. Her "romantic safari prints" would have fitted well in Rudyard Kipling's jungle stories. Zebras raced across the veldt, big cats prowled and a moon rose over the jungle.

SHE SPELLED out her name in brass letters in chain link belts for day dresses or pants and tunics.

Galitzine and Capucci both loved side-slit skirts and halter necks with bared backs. Capucci joined Rocco Barocco in refusing to show shorts. Both still had highly wearable collections, showing shorts aren't the only alternative to long skirts.

Barocco cut jagged hemlines for chiffon evening clothes. Capucci played with colors and shades of one color, always his favorite trick. He used hundreds of pleats but none of them pressed, achieving the softest look seen yet in Rome.

THIS SEE-through gown is a novel approach to fashion — a long navy skirt and slim navy overdress of completely sheer chiffon with "whisker" collar of navy fibers. The outfit was shown in Rome at the Italian couture showing for summer by designer Carosa.

(UPI Cablephotos)

SHORTS FOR sports and evening tell the spring-summer fashion story according to the latest showings in Rome. Here is the version of Tiziani — American-born designer Evan Richards — a black and white evening ensemble featuring white crepe shorts. The trim is black with soft black-and-white peacock eye appliqued blouse with floor-length cape lined in blouse material. He said that he was not making shorts for city wear but believed that some women will wear them.

Coats Of Fake Fun Leather

Ever hear of a full-length coat of fun leather? You may see it soon because fake or fun leathers are being used for whole garments as well as trims, says Gerda Petersen, University of Nebraska Extension clothing and design specialist. She said, however, that precaution should be used in the maintenance of the fabrics. "Most of these materials are not dry cleanable but can be sponged off with mild soap and water," she said. "With this type of fabric, it is of utmost importance to read the label before buying."

'Middle-Age Marriage' Will Be Lecture Topic In San Anselmo

"Middle-age Marriage: the Possibility of Mid-course Correction" will be the title of the second in a series of lecture-discussions at San Anselmo First Presbyterian Church, tonight at 8 o-clock.

Dr. Roy W. Fairchild, speaking in the series on "More Life in Marriage," will discuss boredom, change of life in the man and his desire for change. The audience will participate in discussion and in an assessment of their own marriage strengths.

Dr. Fairchild is professor of education and social psychology at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo and a state certified marriage counselor. He was trained with Carl Rogers and Virginia Satir in family counseling and is the author of several books and articles on marriage and its problems.

The third lecture in the series will be given Jan. 27 on 'Your Next Five Years: Drift or Direction.' '

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Prospective Mates Bad Points Tend To Get Worse, Look Closely

DEAR HELEN:

I only wish I had read your "Danger Signals" sooner so that I might have recognized them in the man I later married — and spent years wishing I hadn't.

Finally, I recognized the games he played. When I got so good at them he couldn't win any more, he sued for divorce on grounds of cruelty, and the custody battle for the children was long and bitter. I finally won.

The point of my story: Look more closely at the person you are going to marry. His bad points tend to get worse, never better, and often what you think are good points turn out bad when you are no longer blindly in love. Make lists, examine faults, compare him with your "ideal."

My second marriage is wonderfully happy. The secret? If you really want to know, say so, and I'll let you in on our formula — B.J.

DEAR B.:

Of course we want to know. Don't be so cagey. Give. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There is this girl who will soon be 18. She has been treated inhumanly by her folks. While the other kids got almost everything she wasn't even given lunch money for school. She had so few clothes she had to drop out in her senior year, even though she had good grades. They beat her black and blue, shamed her in front of others and now won't let her get a job because she must stay home and babysit.

Can she leave when she is 18? Or can her parents force her to stay and be their slavey? — SOMEONE WHO'S BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED:

If things are as bad as they appear, the girl should get a job and leave home. In your state, her parents can't force her to remain after she reaches 18.

Perhaps you can help by finding her an apartment and suitable work. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

In a recent column, an obnoxious little prig whined that two of his schoolmates had been arrested for smoking marijuana. He went out of his way to attack law and order as follows:

"One kid had never tried pot before, and the other got the stuff from a friend who stole it from home. His folks pass it around every time they have a party, and you'd be surprised who comes to their parties — people pretty high in the police department and county court."

Any court who allows his offspring to think such subversive thoughts, has, I maintain, failed miserably in his duties. I say a decent, right-thinking patriot would long since have taught his child that responsible elements deservedly enjoy rights and privileges properly denied the lower orders. (Prohibition, he could point out, clearly illustrated this great truth.)

If, after such wholesome indoctrination, the sniveling little ingrate persisted in his vicious designs, the parent should have confiscated the offensive letter and thrashed the impudent whelp to within an inch of his life, thus teaching him what a heinous crime it is to undermine faith in our way of life.

We obviously have here a horrible example of what the Vice President must have in mind when he denounces the "creeping permissiveness" poisoning our national life. Let us take the good old birch rod to our rebellious brats before our precious heritage of spiritual values goes down the drain. — HARDING REPUBLICAN

DEAR H.R.:

The ghost of Jonathan Swift is alive and well and dancing a jig on your typewriter — but I'll bet a lot of my readers don't recognize him. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Miss Hohm To Be Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hohm announce the engagement of their daughter Christina Marie to David William Whalin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Whalin. All are residents of San Rafael.

Christina is the sister of Mrs. Stephen Pekonen and Michael Hohm of San Rafael and Mrs. Harold Drady of Nicasio. A graduate of Terra Linda High School, she attends College of Marin and is employed by Crocker-Citizens National Bank in Kentfield.

David is the brother of Roy Whalin of Oakland. He is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and Sonoma State College and is employed by Atlas Elevator Company in San Francisco.

The couple plan to be married July 10.

'Truth' In Life Insurance Next?

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Now that there are federal laws for "truth" in packaging, lending, land sales and other matters of consumer interest, the next big campaign is likely to be for "truth-in-life-insurance."

That is the title of a revealing article in the Nation magazine of Jan. 11. And it is the goal of recent industry studies and some proposed government investigations in the new Congress.

THE IDEA for "truth-in-life-insurance" was first expressed two years ago in a speech by Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.). It was picked up and endorsed in principle soon afterward by some leaders of the life insurance insurance.

One who did so was John S. Pillsbury Jr., then chairman of the principal industry association, the Institute of Life Insurance. He cited what he called "the obscurity that surrounds the question of cost to the buyer of his life insurance policy."

He acknowledged that the method most commonly used by the industry for determining life insurance cost was not always clear and accurate. Echoing some consumer advocates, he called for an effort by the industry to find a method "that will be understood and accepted."

Partly as a result of his speech, the institute and two other industry associations conducted a thorough study of the problem. They issued a report last year strongly suggesting that the traditional method was not adequate because of several important cost factors not included in it.

In an effort to sell insurance, most salesmen use the traditional method of figuring costs. They add up the yearly premiums for the period of discussion, then deduct projected "dividends" and cash value. The result, which is called net cost, is then divided by the number of years to indicate net cost per year.

BUT THIS method ignores the substantial matter of interest costs, the amount of money which the premiums would have earned automatically if they were simply sitting in a bank savings account. The method also ignores the effects of policy lapses and variances in mortality rates.

Although alternate methods were explored and shown to be more truthful in indicating life insurance costs. the industry does not appear to be interested in changing its ways that have been so profitable over the years.

One of the strong forces of resistance to change is the confusing complexity of life insurance. Some salesmen themselves are unaware of how deceptive their resentations can be. Most people are so confused by the mass of figures usually presented that they simply take the salesman's word.

The truth is, however, that many people — perhaps millions — would probably buy a different type of policy if they knew exactly what they were paying for. About 80 per cent of all life insurance sold is known as "straight" life. It is a combination of pure protection and investment.

Advocates of more "truth" in life insurance simply want the two cost features disclosed clearly. This would give each prospective policyholder an opportunity to compare "straight" life insurance costs to term insurance, which has no savings or investment feature.

MANY AGENTS are reluctant to voluntarily offer this kind of a cost breakdown because they make much more in commissions on "straight" life.

This should not keep present and prospective policyholders from seeking such figures. Life insurance is expensive; consumers deserve the full facts.

NOTE: In a column last year, I offered to eat my hat and other things if any insurance agent could show one case in which "dividends" and cash values paid to a policyholder have amounted to more than what he could have earned by investing the difference between term and "whole" life premims at 4 per cent.

After much correspondence, it appears that about five out of 40 replies indicate such a situation. But the Institute of Life Insurance, which was proposed as an arbitrator, has refused such a role. So numerous questions remain unresolved and apparently unresolvable.

Also, in each case, it would be necessary for the policyholder to cash in his policy to get the stated return. Such an action, of course, would leave him without any life insurance, while the holder of term insurance would still have both his policy and his investment.

Term insurance is not the answer to every consumer's prayer. But until some insurance expert can illustrate how a "straight" life policyholder can get his cash value out without losing his insurance protection, I see no reason to consume any articles of clothing.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The booklets at the San Rafael ooffice may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

Hemlines Go To Longer Lengths

There's only one direction for the hemline to go and that is longer, says a major fashion retailer. The length will not necessarily be mid-calf, but it will be longer than the mini of past seasons. "A woman is no longer interested in looking like a caricature of her daughter," the company said. "Her silhouettes will include a hemline that stops just at the top of the knee."

ON THE AGENDA

Funds Are Sought To Send Athletes To The Calfironia Special Olympics

The Marin County Special Olympics has begun the 1971 campaign to send a local term to the California Special Olympics in Los Angeles in July to compete with other athletes throughout California.

The Special Olympics is a program of organized athletics for retarded children. It was first organized in Marin County in 1969 when the Marin Aid to Retarded Children noticed the success of the Kennedy Foundation's work with the retarded through a fitness program. The Marin program is sponsored by the Cedars Development Foundation of Marin, the Marin County Recreation for the Handicapped and Marin Aid to Retarded Children.

Anyone interested in making a contribution may do so at the Cedars Development Foundation, the Easter Seal Society of Marin, Marin Aid to Retarded Children or the Clipped Wings, Marin Chapter of former United Airlines Stewardesses.

CHARLES R. THURMAN of Greenbrae has been named Boss of the Year by the Marin Chapter of American Business Women's Association. He is with Lawrence Warehouse Co. in San Francisco and is the boss of Mrs. Harold Looper.

THEMARINCatholicWomen's Club will hold a dinner and meeting for members and their guests tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of the school.

Chairmen are Mrs. Charles Chiapellone and Mrs. Stanley Lawrence, with entertainment being provided by the drama society of the school.

Reservations chairmen are Mrs. Donald Rodriquez and Mrs. Thomas Keating, and all proceeds will benefit the high school.

ROSARIUM INSTITUTE 175, Young Ladies Institute, will meet at the Blue Rock in Larkspur tonight.

Chairman for the evening is Mrs. Harold Bates. The social hour will be at 6:30 p.m., with dinner to follow. Secret pals will be revealed during the evening.

EIGHT MEMBERS of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers who received 100-hour service pins in December are Mmes. Joseph Asiano, Kentfield; Ernest Brymer and Francis Keane, Mill Valley; Mr. Kent Cannon, Mmes. Michael Linwood and Edward Robinson, Tiburon; Miss Lee Colley, San Rafael; and Miss Diane Kermoian, Corte Madera.

Pins for 200 hours of service went to Miss Diane Buttner, San Rafael; and Mrs. Harry Gibbon, Greenbrae; 300-hour pins were presented to Mmes. William Glander, Kentfield; Robert Miller, Greenbrae; and Michael Nagle, San Rafael.

The recipients of 400-hour awards are Mmes. Charles Heiman, Larkspur; Hugh Laymon, Tiburon; Gus Miller, Inverness; Melville Newman, Greenbrae; and William Nolan, Mill Valley, with pins for 500 hours of service going to Mmes. Richard Fromm, Tiburon; Milton Krueger and Roger Verran, San Rafael; William Pemberton, Mill Valley; and Stryker Warren, Sausalito.

Miss Ida Jorgensen, San Rafael, was awarded a 600-hour service pin, and Mmes. Charles Allen, Corte Madera; and George Schocket, Belvedere, received 700-hour awards.

Awards for 800 hours of service went to Mmes. Robert Allen, Mill Valley; and Harold Arthur and Mario Pellegrini, San Rafael, while Miss Evelyn Terry, San Rafael, was the recipient of a 900-hour service pin.

Mrs. Albert MacCarthy, Mill Valley, was given an award pin for 100 hours of service, and Mrs. Albert Maysonave, San Rafael, received a 1500-hour service pin.

A 2000-hour service pin went to Mrs. Hugh Carruthers, Kentfield.

MARY WEISSENBURGER

Couple Set A June 26 Wedding

The engagement of Mary Elizabeth Weissenburger to William Edward Denson of San Rafael has been announced by Mary's parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. J. Weissenburger of Novato.

The sister of Lawrence J. Weissenburger Jr. of Novato, the bride-elect is a Terra Linda High School graduate and is a senior at Dominican College.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. (Vern) Dawson of San Rafael and the brother of Thomas Denson. He, too, was graduated from Terra Linda High School and then attended the Control Data Institute in San Francisco. He is employed with Price Waterhouse there.

A June 26 wedding is being planned by the couple.

THE BETTER HALF — By Bob Barnes

A Top Woman In Politics Aims A Campaign At Young

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Anne Armstrong, new top woman on the Republican National Committee, will concentrate on the young as well as those of her own sex in trying to attract new support for the party.

Mrs. Armstrong, 43-year-old wife of a wealthy Texas rancher, has been named co-chairman of the committee along with Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas and Thomas Evans of Wilmington, Del.

She replaces Elly Peterson, former assistant committee chairman. Although she was a Barry M. Goldwater delegate at the 1964 Republican convention, Mrs. Armstrong received broad support from the GOP's liberal Eastern wing.

MRS. ARMSTRONG said she plans to be especially active among youth — bringing experience as the mother of five ages 14 through 19. She bears strongly in mind that the voting age for national elections has been lowered to 18.

But her main focus will be winning female supporters for President Nixon. The outlook may be a little rosier for her now that the White House has conceded that it should put more women in top federal jobs.

Mrs. Armstrong feels that she has an advantage in being what she describes as "an average housewife."

She worked her way up through party ranks and in 1968 became a national committeewoman for Texas, a state where Republicans have long been in the minority.

Mrs. Armstrong was born and reared in New Orleans. She attended school in the East and was graduated from Vassar with a B.A. She is a Phi Beta Kappa.

HER HUSBAND'S cattle ranch at Armstrong, Tex., near the Gulf coast, adjoins the huge King Ranch.

Right now she is looking for a place to live in Washington, with her husband planning to commute from Texas to visit her.

and I was never pressured into doing anything I didn't want to do. And I just started making clothes that were very different from everyone else. At first everyone thought it was a joke, but then, as we collected a kind of trendy, hip clientele, they began to take notice of me," he says.

Ossie says he has no particular woman in mind when he begins work on a collection.

"But I do have a type of woman," he says." She's healthy, elegant and vampish."

HE DOESN'T see much hope for well built women becoming fashionable again - for some time, anyway - "because it's so difficult unless you use those lavish fabrics and yards and yards of material, pushing great bosoms above the dress and all round pink shoulders. It was all in the past, reflecting the healthy life of a minority," he says.

To look fashionable he suggests they should experiment with different looks and "just spend hours and hours in front of a mirror to see what looks best".

He thinks clothes are going to get more and more erotic.

"I think women are bored with the idea of being equal to men, and they want to return to the idea of being women again, romantic and very feminine. It's already happening - clothes with long skirts and low necklines and tight little bottoms," he says.

The most common mistake women make, he says, is that "they're more concerned about what people will think of them than how they feel in the clothes they wear. Usually it's the husband. And that's very bad".

APART FROM London women ("very sophisticated") he rates the French as perhaps the best dressed nation, "although the women who have the bread are usually a little older than you would like. I think Americans are really very badly dressed. It's because they're so keen to represent a look. It used to be the Jackie Kennedy look - they all wore pillar-box red coats and patent shoes and that was all you ever saw in America. Now it's even worse. There is this kind of woman who flies a lot, and she has taken to this terrible non-creasing, foam backed, man-made fiber. It's absolutely horrible," he says.

Ossie Clark has been a fashion leader for three years now, and if London hasn't actually overtaken Paris as the fashion center of the world it has certainly got into the world market for the first time in a really big way. Quorum export their clothes all over Europe and to the United States. He says that he doesn't worry about holding his position, of running out of ideas.

"This is the big difference between London and Paris," he says." Paris thinks up whole new drastic changes simply to sell more clothes each year. Here we make clothes that people really like. We continue the feeling. It flows through more logically. All my designs really are on a similar theme, the continuation of what I've been doing before."

Ossie's near inaudible voice increases in volume when the subject of stealing ideas comes up.

"Often people come to the same conclusions at the same time but the difference is, if I come across something someone else has done when I am drawing I just throw it away. Others don't. It's so silly really, copying other people's ideas line for line. Now there is this big international market to make lots of bread. Duplicates can't make it," he says.

BUT HE does get annoyed when the designers who copy ideas are credited with having started them.

"The press said Paris started the midi! That's what they said! Paris! Can you believe it?" he asks.

He is quite adamant that sudden changes in fashion - like the switch from mini to maxi, which suddenly forced fashion conscious women to change their wardrobes - are not deliberate.

Sticky Irons

Irons will sometimes stick to clothing. This is particularly true if too much starch has been used. A small amount of salt in the starch will help to keep the iron from sticking. The iron may stick to rayon or synthetic fabrics because the iron is too hot.

Tentative Ferry Terminal Nod

A compromise site for a main ferry terminal for Sausalito — at the foot of El Portal Street — was tentatively approved last night by the Sausalito City Council by 4-0 vote. Councilman Wyman Hicks was absent on vacation.

But the council also asked the Golden Gate Bridge District, which operates the ferry, to provide an additional docking facility in the Marinship area at the city's north end.

The council's action will place the permanent terminal where the ferryboat's temporary docking facility is now located adjacent to the Ferry Berkeley, a site the council had originally envisioned as a whistle stop. The Marinship area, which the city had planned as site of a permanent main terminal, will be used for the district's whistle stop.

Members of the bridge district's transportation committee attending the session, which drew an overflow crowd into city hall, agreed they could "live with" the city's proposal.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, chairman of the transportation committee, said the bridge district would have preferred the terminal site it had selected in Central Sausalito, between Litho and Locust streets. But he called the downtown terminal and limited service from the north (Marinship) "agreeable solutions."

Several council members warned the district it proposal for a 350-unit underground parking lot, which was part of the Litho Street site plan, was "out of the question."

"I will never favor a heavy concentration of parking downtown," Councilman Robin Sweeny said emphatically.

The council stressed that final action on the terminal location, along with specific plans and conditions for its development, could not be formally approved until the district has made an application to the city for a change in the use permit which allows ferry operation in Sausalito. The original permit, approved by the council last summer, calls for a permanent main terminal in Marinship, coupled with a downtown whistlestop.

The council thus went along with the city's planning commission which on Jan. 6 rejected the central terminal site on the recommendation of Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt. At that time Borgwardt said the proposed terminal would have a negative impact on the city's central waterfront plan which calls for development of the adjacent Caldeonia Street area as a resident-serving commercial district. The underground parking plan was in opposition to the city's plan to eventually do away with most parking in the central district, Borgwardt said.

The council's decision capped two-and-one-half hours of discussion which included a report of a survey of 3,500 Sausalito residents by the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with Sausalito Artists and Merchants and the Village Fair Association.

Chamber president Raymond Roy said 1,200 of the questionnaires which were mailed to all Sausalito homes and businesses, had been returned. He said the response was overwhelmingly in favor of ferry service, both for commuters and tourists and for a downtown ferry terminal.

Inmate Robles Described As A 'Homicidal Maniac'

A Marin Superior Court jury was told yesterday that San Quentin inmate Leo Estrada Robles was a "homicidal maniac" as testimony in Robles's murder penalty trial began.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman, in his opening statement to the jury of six women, said that Robles has said he will kill again.

Herman said he will ask for the death penalty.

Robles was found guilty in 1968 of murdering a fellow inmate in the psychiatric ward at San Quentin. He was sentenced to death but the sentence was overturned by the California Supreme Court, which ruled that the late Judge Harold J. Haley should not have allowed the murderer to act as his own attorney during the penalty phase of the trial.

Herman yesterday read to the jury excerpts from a letter Robles wrote to Deputy Public Defender Edward Briggs, who is representing Robles in the new penalty trial.

Robles wrote that "the death of that pig Harold J. Haley brought much joy to me."

The letter was written four days after Haley was killed in the shoot-out that ended an escape attempt by three other San Quentin prisoners from the Hall of Justice.

"I'm still praying that the pig dies," Robles wrote of Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas who was critically wounded in the shoot-out.

James Glen Perkins, who was hospital officer at San Quentin the night Robles killed fellow inmate Forrest Smith, testified yesterday that he allowed Robles to stay out of his room an additional hour that night to watch television.

It was during that hour, between 10 and 11 p.m., Nov. 6, 1967, that Robles Beat Smith over the head with a pillow case filled with lead weights and then slashed Smith's throat with a razor blade attached to a tooth brush.

Following the murder, Robles went up to Perkins and said, "Now look, don't get mad at me. I did something wrong."

Comptroller Of District Picked

Director R. J. Toussant of the Terra Linda Community Services District has been named comptroller of the district's finances, vice chairman Richard L. Less reported yesterday.

The board at its Monday night meeting, set 8 p.m. Monday at the Terra Linda firehouse for a study session of district finances, Less said.

It set 8 p.m. Jan. 28 at the Northgate Branch of the Bank of Marin for a public informational meeting on a proposed subdivision at the end of Orchid Drive. Architect Richard H. Olmstead will discuss the subdivision which is within the City of San Rafael, Less said.

Oil Spill Doomed For Bottom Of Bay

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — Much of the oil spilled in the bay Monday will end up on the bottom of the bay with unknown consequences, the executive officer of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board predicted yesterday.

The specific gravity of the partially refined oil appeared to be about the same as that of the bay water, and a "fair amount of the stuff" will settle to the bay bottom, said Fred H. Dierker.

He said that the environmental impact of the sludge on the bay bottom could not be determined without extensive study.

Dierker told the Independent-Journal he had observed that the oil tended to float freely at various depths, and did not all go to the surface.

This, of course, will foil attempts to skim the mess from the bay with devices that were designed to operate only on the surface. It also circumvented attempts to build surface barriers to confine the spreading oil, a lesson learned at the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon. Barriers there proved useless when the oil flowed under the barriers into the lagoon.

Warrant Out In Pot Case

A bench warrant was issued yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for David Raymond Minard, 18, of no known address, when he failed to appear for a preliminary hearing on a charge of possessing marijuana.

Judge David Menary Jr. set bail on the warrant at $1,000.

Minard was arrested Dec. 15 when Novato police stopped his car because of a broken tail light. Marijuana was found in the car and in Minard's pocket, police said.

Sausalito Housing Plan Approved

An 18-unit planned housing development at Santa Rosa Avenue and Glen Drive won approval last night from the Sausalito City Council.

The council upheld a planning commission decision to permit developer David Hunter to build the cluster development which includes single family homes, duplexes and triplexes in the single family residential zone.

Plans for the development have already been approved by the planning commission.

Before acting, the council heard objections from several neighbors who said Hunter's proposal would ruin the "character" and "flavor" of the neighborhood.

The Sausalito City Council also:

CONDOMINIUMS — Agreed to permit developers of the Marina Vista subdivision, now under construction near Nevada Street, to sell the 192 proposed units as condominiums. The original city approval for the development specified it would consist of rental duplexes.

WATERFRONT USES — Asked the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to reject two amendments it will considar tomorrow which would permit nonwater-oriented commercial recreation uses on land around the bay.

FERRY SCHEDULED — Agreed to allow the Golden Gate Bridge District to drop its 6 a.m. weekday ferry run from Sausalito to San Francisco. The district asked to drop the run because not enough persons (from eight to 20) are using the boat at that hour. Councilman Robin Sweeny opposed eliminating the early run.

Reed Teacher To Marin CTA Post

Nancy Cook, a teacher at Granada School in Reed School District, has been installed as 1971 president of the California Teachers Association Council of Marin.

Allen Cutler, San Rafael High School teacher, is vice president; Jean Doyle, Olive School in Novato Unified School District, secretary, and John Rojas, Park School in Mill Valley School District, treasurer.

Bert Skaggs is executive director of the council, which has its headquarters at 16 Mary Street, San Rafael.

Kettenhofen Seeks PUC Seat; Reagan Announcement Expected

Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo, unsuccessful Republican nominee for the state Board of Equalization in November, today confirmed reports that he is a candidate for appointment to the state Public Utilities Commission.

The five-member commission has had an empty seat since the term of Albert W. Gatov of Kentfield expired on Dec. 31. Commissioners serve six years at an annual salary of $30,000.

Kettenhofen told the Independent-Journal that Gov. Ronald Reagan was expected to announce Gatov's replacement within the next week. Gatov was the only Democrat on the commission, and his replacement will make it an entirely Reagan-appointed commission.

Ironically, Kettenhofen lost the November election to Democrat William M. Bennett of Kent Woodlands, who previously served on the PUC. Kettenhofen, a former county supervisor, said that if appointed to the PUC he still may run again for the Board of Equalization. The board may be reapportioned and its members face reelection in 1972.

Kettenhofen said he would bring "a businessman's viewpoint" to the PUC.

Battle Of The Environment: What Must We Do?

By Roscoe and Geoffrey Drummond

WASHINGTON — We do not cry wolf when there is only a lamb at the door. There is a perilous environmental crisis at the door. It is a lot bigger than the kind of thinking that's now going into meeting it.

Neither the public nor the government is facing up to the staggering cost of bringing the worst of pollution — air and water — to tolerable levels.

We see little evidence that most Americans accept the one crucial truth that must be acted upon if anything adequate is to be done.

THE TRUTH is that our total environment has both definite population limits and definite productivity limits. If we continue to exceed them we are putting ourselves in mortal combat with nature. In such combat the odds are overwhelmingly with nature.

Neither the President nor Congress is doing much more than patting the problem. Nixon has asked for some modest beginning measures. Primarily at the initiative of Sen. Edmund Muskie (D-Me.), Congress is ordering the motor industry to produce virtually pollution-free automobiles by 1975-76.

The lesson of our environmental decay is this: To get more things, more conveniences, more production, we should have given something in return.

We never did. We constantly grasped for the material things and simultaneously punished and sacrificed the environment.

NOW THE SCHOOL of environmental doomsday says we must "stop or perish." But what will we have to do if we decide to "stop" instead of "perish"? Stop what?

To answer that question we cite the "Eco-Commandments" prepared by Dr. Paul Kilburn, biology professor at Principia College in Elsah, Ill. The commandments are not as many as the biblical 10, but they could be just as tough to observe:

1 — Thou shalt live by the laws of ecology.

2 — Thou shalt not allow the introduction of any chemical or any material on earth whose environmental effects have not been fully investigated and weighed in the decision to allow their use.

3 — Thou shalt not allow any increased production of any sort that results in an increase in pollution.

4 — Thou shalt not allow any increase in the number of people now living upon the earth.

5 — Thou shalt not allow production of any items without full regard to their disposal.

6 — Thou shalt not allow any development in any town, city, county, region or country without sound ecological planning.

THESE ECO-COMMANDMENTS are certainly demanding but not much more so than those proposed by W. T. Pecora, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, who says:

"Cities and industries should not use the water available from natural resources without factoring in the cost of returning water to a usable state. The smokestacks of our refineries and energy plants must not use materials that put unwanted matter into our air. A mineral source should not be developed unless it is rich enough to support power restoration and reutilization of the land."

But look at the massive mineral resource needs of the United States today. Within the life span of the 200 million people now living in this nation we will consume:

6½ quadrillion gallons of water
7½ billion tons of iron ore
1½ billion tons of aluminum ore
1 billion tons of phosphate rock
100 million tons of copper
and so forth.

As the American population grows at its present rate, in only 30 years:

Water usage will triple.

Energy requirements will triple.

We will have to replace and construct again every material facility that now exists in the nation — from houses to highways, sewer systems to skyscrapers.

That is, if man is still able to inhabit this planet.

ECOLOGISTS ARE convinced that three things must be done soon if we are to survive by living in harmony with nature:

1 — We must resolve the conflict between the need to develop the earth's resources and the need to preserve the earth's environment.

These goals must be brought into balance. If we don't we will find that increasing the gross national product means intolerably increasing the gross national pollution. We must control the population growth, and we must be willing to give up some conveniences while nature recovers its ecological balance.

2 — We must be prepared to pay the costs of cleaning up past pollution and radically reducing it in the future.

MAURICE MANN, assistant director of the Office of Management and Budget in the White House, estimates it will cost at least $100 billion over the next five years to deal with the air and water pollution and solid wastes alone.

3 — Industry must accept the cost of ending its own polluting. The best way is to levy a tax on pollutants which industry pumps into the air and water. In addition to a tax a levy on consumer goods that add to pollution, like leaded gasoline should be instated.

Such action would result in two things.

(1) — It would require polluters to pay the price of abating the pollution they cause.

(2) — It would discourage consumers from buying and industry from making pollution-producing products.

Conscientious legislation such as this is very strict, and the public may be loath to accept it, but we must keep vividly before us that we are deep into a dangerous environment crisis. We are in a virtual state of war — the people against the armies of environmental decay. Ineffect, us against ourselves.

(Next: How our system of government must be radically re-shaped to win the Battle of the Environment.)

Legislators Should Be Required To Open Sessions

Assemblyman William M. Ketchum, R-Bakersfield, is a man not easily discouraged.

Two years ago, Ketchum introduced a bill to require open meetings of committees of the legislature, and a constitutional amendment to put that requirement where the legislature could not change it. Both were killed in committee.

But this year, he has introduced the same bill and proposed constitutional amendment again.

THE LEGISLATURE, over the years, has passed numerous bills requiring open meetings by other public agencies, most of which are incorporated in the chapters of law known as the Ralph M. Brown Act for its originator. But the legislators have been loath to enforce the same requirements on themselves.

The standard excuse for killing such bills as Ketchum's is that a requirement for open committee meetings is unnecessary since the final action on any bill must be taken in open session.

This, of course, begs the point. The Ralph M. Brown Act was not made necessary by final action of boards of supervisors, city councils, school boards, etc., being taken in open session. Rarely did any such body hold a closed, unannounced action session. But regularly they met behind closed doors to thresh out their differences, decide what they would do when they let the public watch. Many of their public sessions were mere shams, formalizing for the record decisions reached in secret.

VERY MUCH the same thing occurs in the legislature.

"Everybody knows, when we have a tough decision . . . we can get together in a closed meeting to work it out, and all the public knows is the decision," said Ketchum on introducing his measures. "The constitution says we can do it. My proposal says we can't."

The language of the Ralph M. Brown Act is quite clear on the point.

"In enacting this chapter," it says, "the legislature finds and declares that the public commissions, boards and councils and the other public agencies in this state exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business. It is the intent of the law that their actions be taken openly and their deliberations be conducted openly."

CERTAINLY the legislature exists for the conduct of the people's business. Certainly it is an agency of government. But this law, on the books since 1953, has never been applied to it. There is no requirement that the deliberations of legislative committees be taken openly.

There should be. Assemblyman Ketchum's measures are entitled to better success this year than they had two years ago. But if they are to succeed, a little pressure needs to be put on his fellow legislators from the voters back home.

"You'll see — just when we get the hang of it, the College of Physicians will come out with some lousy report."

University's Abortion Fund Sure Indicator Of Times

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Anybody still unconvinced that time marches on must have missed the news that at the University of Maine, an institution not widely known for its radicalism, the student body has voted to set up an abortion fund.

Out of the regular student activities fee, which at most schools covers things like basketball admissions and student newspapers, the school intends to set aside a percentage so that girls who make a mistake can go to New York and have it corrected. While the students are thus asserting their rights in Maine, here in the capital the Supreme Court is considering for the first time that most emotional social issue, legalized abortion.

It is asked to rule on the vagueness of laws limiting such operations to those "necessary for the preservation of the mother's health." But the questions put by the justices indicate that their ruling, expected this spring, may cover much broader ground than that.

WHATEVER THE COURT holds on this specific appeal, its opinion will be less reflective of what is happening in the country than the vote taken at the University of Maine. The momentum toward legally unrestricted abortions in America is by now unstoppable.

Opposition continues, of course, most predictably from the Catholic Church but also from other groups and individuals. But public opinion is running the other way. In Washington state, for example, a referendum found 55 per cent of voters in favor of legalized abortions.

The opposition, however sincerely based, is inevitably fighting a rearguard action. That based on religious grounds is unarguable; you either accept it or you don't. That on other grounds comes often from those of high intelligence and motivation. But it seldom comes from women who themselves have faced the long-standing alternatives of either having an unwanted child or arranging and enduring an illegal operation.

A COMMON ASSERTION is that abortion should not be legalized because of the scars it leaves on the memory of those involved. However, if you ask women who have decided against bearing the child in a time and place where abortion was illegal, you discover that the scars on their memory are from the panic-stricken search for help; from the grubby financial arrangements, often carried on in an environment of other crime; from the frequently unsanitary conditions for the operation, and from their cold fear of what would happen if complications followed.

By contrast, the operations now performed aboveground in New York and elsewhere when the law permits are done with minimum embarrassment, danger or pain. In New York, studies show "overwhelming relief" to be the patients' most common postoperative feeling.

Some objections presented by those who would maintain tight legal barriers apply more appropriately to "reform of abortion reform" than to maintenance of the old restrictions. Among the most legitimate are that so far there has not been a drastic reduction of criminal abortions, and so far the aim of readily available low-cost operations for the poor has not been realized.

THESE GO TOGETHER. If criminal abortions continue where professionally performed abortions are legal, the remedies are to educate the public to the new laws and to make legal operations as cheap as criminal ones.

Most often, it is the poor and unschooled who are unaware that safe, legal operations are possible for fees of about $200, and even that may be too much for them. So some clinics are lowering that fee to $150, and it is bound to go lower. Here in Washington, an outpatient abortion clinic opened this week, its patients limited to married women with families and incomes under $10,000, and single women earning under $6,000.

What must be faced, joyfully or reluctantly depending on your outlook, is that the steps remaining ahead in abortion reform are education, standardization and broadening to reach those most needy. There is no purpose in further debating liberalization itself. It is an idea whose time has come.

Drive To Legalize Gambling Aided By State's Budget Crunch

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It follows as sure as night follows day that 1971 will be the year of the big drive for legalizing gambling in California.

This comes from the fact that the budget is out of balance and the state is hard up for funds.

Sen. Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, has introduced a bill calling for a nine-man commission to study whether gambling should be permitted in certain areas as a source of state revenue. This is a gimmick which hasn't been tried before.

Even if a finding were favorable to gambling, it would not be established for nearly two years, as a constitutional amendment would be necessary.

OVER THE MANY years this writer has had occasion to comment on gambling in California, he has opposed legalization on the grounds that gambling produces nothing.

A gambling casino adds nothing to the wealth of the state, as does a construction project, or the growing of an agricultural product.

All kinds of moral arguments have been advanced over the years to prohibit gambling. But in fact they all boil down to the fact that someone wants to run the lives of others.

Naturally, it isn't sound for an individual to blow the weekly pay check at the gambling table. But should the people prevent him from doing so if he wants to?

THIS IS WHOLLY apart from the matter of taxation. There would be no excuse for over-taxing gambling if it were legal. The governments impose "sin" taxes, or liquor and other taxes on questionable items without restraint. California is not new to gambling; time horse racing is legal and tremendously over-taxed.

Song's purpose is to raise revenue from a gambling tax. He says Californians spend over $300 million in Nevada, which could well be spent in California, thereby giving this state's taxpayers a break.

He proposes areas approaching the Nevada border and at San Simeon be allowed to conduct legal gambling. It could be that this would be unconstitutional, as what's good for one area would be good for all.

But be that as it may, there appears to be no reason for shutting off gambling from the people when they can cross an imaginary line and gamble all they choose.

Strawberry Cove Suits Harassment

In the Jan. 8 issue of the Independent-Journal there was an extensive article on the law suits filed in connection with Mr. Paul Broman's Strawberry Cove project.

This project has been approved by the Marin County Planning Commission, the board of supervisors, and the Marin Conservation League and, generally, acclaimed as a well-conceived and designed project from the aesthetic and ecological standpoint.

In spite of this, certain groups are doing all in their power to keep the land from being developed. In effect, they are seeking to confiscate private property which it is beyond their financial means to purchase for the use of the public.

I believe the issue here is the question of the "public" having the right to deny an individual the use of his land without compensation.

There is an area of about five acres within one block of my home that is undeveloped and a really enjoyable open space. I like the open space and use it but would honestly not be willing to increase my taxes to pay to buy it for the public use. If we would honestly ask ourselves individually, "Would I increase my taxes to buy this open space?" before opposing a proposed development I believe there would be a great deal less obstructionist opposition to development and our county could develop in a more orderly manner.

After all, "developer" is not a four-letter word. Each one of us lives in a home developed by a developer and yet Marin is a lovely place in which to live.

'Dear Heart Award' To Planning Board

Please publish this communique to let the general public be aware of the "Dear Heart Award" I extended to the Marin County Planning Commission on KTIM during my program, "Home Town News," on Jan. 13. It was in conjunction with your news coverage of the Monday planning commission meeting where, as a member of the public, I requested recognization by the chairman, Mr. Walter Freitas, and I preceded to "lay the commission out in lavender" for being so late in hearing the item, Ignacio Industrial Park revised plan, which was scheduled for 10:18 a.m.

For the chairman to take an hour with the commission to "do some soul-seeking" to overcome the known problems in handling the general public's request for improvement deserves merit. Therefore, to Mr. Walter Freitas, chairman and to all the members of the Marin County Planning Commission, this irate citizen extends her heartful "thank you" and you will be receiving "Dear Heart Award" through the mail.

Multiple Benefits In Re-Using Oil

I have been told that there is a sizeable glut of used oil being stored in and about the Bay Area. This situation has arisen because it is cheaper for petroleum companies to refine crude oil.

A change in governmental policy will allow this useless oil to be used. Instead of oil depletion allowance subsidy, there should be allowances for the incremental cost of the refinement of used oil. Thus, the corporations will still retain their profits and at the same time, society will better use existing resources. As a nation, we will have less need for new oil finds and therefore our strategic dependancy on such finds will be reduced.

Since re-refined oil is purer than once-refined, the government need not require differentiation in the labeling of the two products and consumers would not therefore discriminate between the two.

I would hope that this suggestion will help diminish the probability of oil seepage crises such as we have recently seen.

School Reform Attempts Disregard Party Lines

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

It appears that efforts at legislative reform of California's public school system will disregard party lines this year.

Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan, in his "State of the State" message, echoed the call for school accountability sounded by the new superintendent of public instruction, Wilson C. Riles, who — although he holds a non-partisan office — is a Democrat.

"Over the past 18 months," said Reagan, "the Governor's Commission on Education Reform... has been studying the program changes necessary to restore some meaning to the elementary and secondary school programs. I can tell you of their dismay over the functional illiteracy evidenced by so many of our high school graduates. Far too many of these young men and women have failed to acquire the ability to read, to write, to compute and to communicate. It is not enough to say they have failed; it is more pertinent to ask, 'has the system failed?' and if so, how can it be corrected?"

INTRODUCED IN the new legislature even before the governor's speech was AB 56 by Democratic Assemblyman Bill Greene of Los Angeles. It provides that a pupil can be passed, promoted, or graduated "solely on the basis of his achievement in the course of study... and the age of the pupil shall not be taken into consideration for such purposes."

This strikes at the prime cause of the functional illiteracy among high school graduates to which the governor referred the automatic promotion system. If Democrat Greene's bill becomes law, the schools will be forced to a measure of accountability.

The Republican governor also spoke of the need for more technical training in the public schools — a subject about which there has been much talk but not very much action.

"Almost half of our California young people do not go to college," Reagan noted. "We should move to lift technical education to its proper status and help it fulfill its tremendously important role."

AGAIN, IT WAS Democrat Bill Greene who introduced legislation to carry out, at least in part, what the Republican governor advocated.

In three bills — AB 54, 60, and 61 — he provided for a vocational staff in the office of the chancellor of the California community colleges, for inclusion of vocational-technical schools in the community colleges, for inclusion of vocational education fund of not to exceed $50 million to get the program going.

"There is always need for innovation in any system; education must be no exception," said the Republican governor. "There are those who see the 'voucher plan' as the answer to making schools more responsive. There are others who see it as a threat of unutterable evil. No one on either side seems to have facts upon which to base his often emotional stand. Why shouldn't we undertake some pilot tests in selected districts and thus introduce some facts into the debate?"

DEMOCRATIC Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan of youth San Francisco introduced a bill to do just that. His AB 29 would set up "demonstration scholarship programs" in an unspecified number of districts, with each school child to receive a "scholarship" (voucher) to pay for his education at a school chosen by his parents.

Ryan also introduced a proposed constitutional amendment (ACA 9) which would make the voucher system statewide.

Declaring that "the original and legitimate reasons for tenure no longer exist," the Republican governor called for "a judicious, sensible phase-out" of the tenure system.

1 Per Cent Surcharge On Air Travel

GENEVA (UPI)—Airlines today announced a surcharge of one per cent on international passenger travel and 2 per cent on international cargo shipments to cover the cost of navigational facilities.

The extra charges will come into force Nov. 1 and remain until March 31, 1973, when they will be reviewed.

Airlines said they are levying the surcharge because governments will be charging them for navigational facilities as of November. These facilities up to now have been provided free.

The navigational facilities include ground-based aids, communications, air traffic control and meteorological services.

A statement issued by the airlines through the Internatonal Air Transport Association (IATA) said the cost of these facilities will increase by $50 million this year and are estimated at $75 million for 1972.

New Laws Lead To Problems For Marin Humane Society

Three lawmakers from Contra Costa and San Diego counties have handed Marin County a veritable can of worms.

The result: emotional and fiscal indigestion for local officialdom, taxpayers, dog and cat-lovers, the Marin County Humane Society and the Marin County Veterinarians' Association.

Quite a few puppies and kittens may suffer, too, before the mess is resolved.

STATE SEN. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, authored one new state law causing part of the trouble. It requires that any cat placed by an animal shelter, such as the Marin County Humane Center, be spayed or neutered before it can be given to new owners. If the kitten is less than six months old, it is too young for the operation, but the humane society must collect the surgery fee at the time the kitten is placed.

State Sen. James R. Mill, D-San Diego, co-authored another troublesome new law. This one requires any animal control officer or policeman picking up an injured dog or cat to take it immediately to a veterinarian for diagnosis and treatment or euthenasia at the veterinarian's discretion.

PROBLEMS POSED by the two laws are compounded by the fact that the Marin veterinarians stopped making daily calls at the humane center as of Jan. 1. The veterinarians and humane society have been unable to agree on what services the veterinarians should provide at the center, and on charges for desexing cats and treating or euthanizing injured dogs and cats.

In November, 1968, the veterinary society drafted a policy offering free daily calls to the center for routine disease-prevention shots for puppies and kittens, and inspections of sick animals to see if they needed hospitalization.

LAST NOVEMBER, according to veterinarians, the society asked for a meeting with the humane society to formalize the procedure, and to decide whether the policy of charging $1 per shot would be continued. Mel L. Morse, director of the center, told the Independent-Journal the veterinarians now want $250 a month for the service, plus full fees for nighttime calls to inspect injured animals.

Morse said his organization countered by asking the veterinarians for a commitment on desexing charges and emergency services.

The veterinary society then hired an attorney. Robert M. Bramman of San Rafael, new president of the veterinary society, refused to comment on the problem on the attrney's advice that it would be premature.

Other veterinarinarians, however, said the society members felt there was professional risk of fee-fixing charges if a flat rate was set on the desexing operation. The fee now run $35 to as much as $90.

Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator, told the county board of supervisors last month that the laws sponsored by Nejedly, Mills and Barnes and new veterinary arrangements may cost the county as much as $90,000 in the next year.

PICKUP

Everyone looks for a clean, older pickup that hasn't been beat to death by some heavy construction company or been used for delivery by lots of hot rod kids. Here's a truck that's been used by only one man and he bought it new in '66. Clean as whistle inside and out and it's clean because of care, not repainting.

This popular half-ton pickup has the "283" V8 engine with the efficient 4-speed standard transmission. There is an 8-foot bed on this half ton pickup. A23270

Semantics Enters Support If Cambodia Should Fall

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today it is crucial to the administration's troop withdrawal plans in Southeast Asia that U.S. air and sea power be used to support Cambodia in its fight against Communist aggression.

Laird, who returned from a tour of the Far East last weekend, refused at a news conference to indicate what steps might be taken if Cambodia fell, saying: "I am sure they have the will and determination to succeed."

As for the U.S. involvement in the besieged nation's struggle for survival, Laird said: "I am not going to do anything to restrict the capability of our air and sea operations to protect American lives."

He said the nature of U.S. operations in Indochina amount to "the accelerated forward programs and application of the Nixon Doctrine" for bringing peace to the area.

Laird repeatedly declined to be drawn into a discussion as to whether use of U.S. fighter bombers, helicopter gunships and helicopters to carry South Vietnamese troops or supplies represented an expansion of American policy in providing aid to the Cambodians.

He said emphatically that the congressional ban on use of U.S. ground combat forces in Cambodia will be observed, and said it is a question of semantics whether the policy on air support had changed.

His refusal to state the administration's policy should the Cambodians be overwhelmed came when a reporter asked whether a reversal of the congressional ban on use of ground troops might be sought in that case.

He said the ban applied only to ground combat forces —not to support troops or supply, medical or rescue outfits.

"As long as I am secretary of defense, I will recommend the use of air and sea power in Cambodia to reduce the loss of life as we withdraw our troops from South Vietnam," Laird said.

He said the Cambodian army had expanded from 30,000 to 200,000 men in the past year, and that the South Vietnamese were ahead of schedule in taking over combat assignments in Cambodia.

Regardless of the lag in the Paris peace talks, Laird said' U.S. forces in South Vietnam will be halved by next May 1, and new troop withdrawals will be announced in April.

Three-Front Action In Shoot-Out Case

In San Rafael, secret witnesses were ushered in and out of a grand jury hearing behind closed doors at the sheriff's department at the Marin Hall of Justice.

In San Francisco, a federal court judge dismissed demands by Magee for damages and dismissal of charges against him.

And in Sacramento, legislation urging President Richard M. Nixon to rescind his invitation to Russians to attend the trial of Miss Davis and Magee was rejected by a State Assembly Committee.

All of the witnesses at the Grand jury hearing — among them a middle-aged black women, three white women and a black man — refused to identify themselves as did an attorney accompanying them.

But one of those testifying was reportedly the mother of so-called Soledad Brother George L. Jackson and Jonathan Jackson, 17-year-old youth who brought guns into the Marin Superior Courtroom and died in the Aug. 7 shoot-out at the Civic Center.

Among the other witnesses, one women was believed to be active with the Soledad defense fund and the attorney was reported to be Marvin Stender, counsel for the Soledad trio.

Assist. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris, who questioned the witnesses before the grand jury, refused to discuss the hearing, but it was believed that Harris and his associates sought additional information about the case rather than further indictments.

Judge Samuel Conti in U.S. District Court in San Francisco, acted yesterday on a series of legal demands made by Magee.

He called the demands "legally frigolous."

Magee unsuccessfully sought $400,000 in general damages and $300,000 in punitive damages from Marin Superior Court Judges Joseph G. Wilson and E. Warren McGuire, Attorney A. Leonard Bjorklund and Court of Appeals Justice Winslow Christian.

Magee had claimed they had acted in "excess of their authority" and accused them of a "plot to maintain a false white racist verbalized charge."

Judge Conti also turned down Magee's demands that his trial be moved to federal court, that the case against him and Miss Davis be declared void and that the state be restrained from any further proceedings against them.

In Sacramento yesterday, the Assembly Rules Committee rejected a move to ask Nixon to withdraw his invitation to 12 Russian scientists to observe the trial of Miss Davis, an avowed Communist, and Magee.

Legislation had been proposed by Assemblyman Ray Johnson, R-Chico, stating the "Angela Davis trial should not be made a political play to give the Communist press more opportunity to refer to our revolutionists as 'political prisoners.'"

Johnson's resolution died when Committee Chairman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, invoked a parliamentary rule which prohibits approval of national and foreign policy measures if one of the seven committee members objects.

Threat Of Strike At Markets

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — All major supermarkets in Marin and seven other Bay Area counties may be closed by a strike Monday, unless management and the Retail Clerks' Union can come to terms on a new contract.

James Bacon, chief negotiator for the Food Employers' Council, said today that contract talks are continuing night and day, but that the union has set a deadline of midnight tomorrow to end the talks.

Sunday, the seven locals representing 17,000 clerks and checkers in the eight counties will meet individually to vote on any terms hammered out.

The two sides were far apart this morning, Bacon admitted. The clerks' union asked a package costing an estimated $2.50 per hour over a three-year period, more than a 50 per cent increase over the $4.015 an hour now paid a journeyman clerk.

The markets, Bacon said, had offered 40 cents an hour for the first year, 13.5 cents the second and 18 cents the third year, a total of 71.5 cents over three years.

Only the pay scales remained at issue today, Bacon said. The negotiators settled no-pay issues earlier in negotiations at a motel near the Oakland International Airport.

Bernard Saccone, president of United Markets chain in Marin County, said in San Rafael today that, "It doesn't look good." He warned a strike would have heavy impact on every Marin resident, because "at least 26 major markets, doing a million dollars a week" in business would be closed unless they could be operated with skeleton supervisorial crews.

"And if the delivery drivers honored the clerks' picket lines, there would be no stock in the stores," Saccone said.

He pointed out that Marinites would be unable to shop in surrounding counties, either. The negotiations involve Sonoma, Napa, Contra Costa, Alameda, San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties.

Bike-Car Wreck Hurts Young Boy

A 12-year-old Larkspur boy was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital after sustaining a gash in his left leg yesterday when his bike struck an auto in Larkspur.

Police said today Charles Kramer of 36 Olive Avenue was crossing Madrone Avenue at its intersection with Olive Avenue at 8:10 a.m. when his bicycle rammed an auto driven by Linda Sabca, 23, of 11 Tremor Street, San Rafael.

Officers said trees at the intersection obstructed the view of both drivers.

Silk-Screen Class Slated At Sausalito

A 10-week course in serigraphy, the application of silk-screen printing, will be taught from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. starting Saturday at the Sausalito Arts Center.

Albert Garvey is instructor. There is a charge for the classes.

Panel Firm: No Teen Center Fund

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission has held fast to its prior recommendation against spending $7,000 for a teen center.

Parks and Recreation Director Edward W. Adams said the staff had recommended starting a teen center at Grace Lutheran Chruch, 1787 Grant Avenue, but the commission took no action Monday night.

The proposal was to remodel the Parsonage, create a drop-in center and operate a recreation program, which would cost about $14,000 a year to operate, Adams said.

There is $7,000 in the city budget which could be used to start the center, but the commission recommended last July that the money be used to develop Pioneer Memorial Park, Adams explained.

Adams also presented commissioners with preliminary findings that a 15-cent override tax rate would bring in about $560,000 over a five-year period for capital improvement projects.

Funds from such an override tax could finance such projects as development of Pioneer Memorial Park, about $100,000, about three-quarters of development of neighborhood parks at Olive, Lynwood, Pleasant Valley and Marion schools, about 200,000 and acquisition and initial development of a park site in San Marin, $87,500.

Commissioners will study the capital outlay program at their Feb. 1 meeting, Adams said.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also:

PARK OFFER — Made no recommendation on an offer by Jones Realty of Cotati to sell 4.5 acres of land in the Scottsdale area for park land at $25,000 after learning the land was six feet below sea level and it would cost about $100,000 to fill it.

CREEK PARK — Approved a revised layout for Novato Creek Park which will provide access from Novato Boulevard rather than San Miquel Way, and provide parking space for 20 cars at the rear of the Novatc Prehistory museum.

60 Days' Jail For Two Burglaries

Stephen Robert Carrino, 22, of San Rafael has been sentenced in Marin Superior Court to 60 days in Marin County jail for his part in the burglary of a San Anselmo home last July and a San Rafael residence in September.

Judge E. Warren McGuire on Monday also placed Carrino on probation for two years.

MADDEN'S BOYS

Team Late For Lunch

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— John Madden shepherded his all-star American Conference football squad sheepishly into the Ambassador Hotel about an hour late for the traditional Pro Bowl luncheon Tuesday.

Madden, coach of the Oakland Raiders who won the AFC western division championship seemed totally sincere when he said:

"My biggest problem so far was getting the team to this luncheon on time. We were out on the practice field and I got so engrossed in watching these fine football players I forgot about the lunch."

Madden sends his all-star AFC squad against the National Conference squad Sunday at Menorial Coliseum in the Pro Bowl—the last event of the long post-season.

Madden and Dick Nolan, San Francisco Forty Niner coach and head of the NFC squad, agreed they can't teach their players anything.

"They know how to do it all," said Nolan. "These are all great players and I want to get them all in the game. There is a communication problem on the terminology of formations and plays but that's not too tough. It's an advantage to have your own quarterback. I have John Brodie and Madden has Daryle Lamonica. Your quarterback can help a lot. He can tell them what to do right on the field and that saves a lot of time."

Madden said, "our only real problem is getting the terminology down so we can talk a common language."

This is the 21st annual pro bowl game but the first under a new format since the merger of the National Football League and the American Football League. It used to be played between all-star squads of the western and eastern conferences of the NFL.

Every team is represented. Backup quarterbacks who are expected to see plenty of service are Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants behind Brodie and Bob Griese of Miami behind Lamonica.

At the luncheon master of ceremonies Keith Jackson interviewed several of the players and most of his questions centered on the Super Bowl game won last Sunday by Baltimore over Dallas.

Baltimore's Mike Curtis, a linebacker sometimes known as the "Animal" was modest when questioned about a pass he intercepted to set up the winning field goal.

"I was just lucky to be there in the spot to catch it," he said.

Mel Renfro who was on defense when Baltimore's John Mackey caught a touchdown pass from John Unitas was able to smile about the incident. The Cowboys claimed the catch was illegal because it was tipped by another Baltimore player before Mackey caught it.

"I didn't tip it," said Renfro. "I didn't touch it at all. A fellow in front of me (I won't name him) tipped it to his buddy and he ran away with it."

Other stars present who spoke briefly included three dazzling running backs, remembered better for their feats on the gridiron than their rhetoric, They were Cleveland's Leroy Kelly, Washington's Larry Brown and Detroit's Mel Farr.

THE BIG SQUEEZE — Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins, playing for the East, found himself caught in the middle as Jim Neilson (15) and J.C. Tremblay (3) of the West battled for the puck in last night's National Hockey League All-Star game in Boston. The underdog West team surprised the East, 2-1. (UPI Telephoto)

Warriors Rip Royals For Fourth Straight

By LARRY MOWELL

OAKLAND — A sagging, double-teaming defense combined with a careening fast break led the speedy little Cincinnati Royals to two easy wins over the Warriors. earlier this year. Last night the success formula went sour.

The fast break that destroyed the Warriors in previous meetings fell apart in a barrage of bad passes to whippet-fast Johnny Green, and the Warriors dissected the twice-puzzling defense for a 116-108 win, the Warriors fourth straight.

When the Royals doubleteamed with their midget guards, Nate Archibald and Norman Van Lier, the Warriors hit the open man for unmolested perimeter jmp shots.

Guards Fritz Williams and Jeff Mullins were the recipients of most of the easy shots and scored 21 and 23 points respectively.

However, high scorer for the San Franciscans was Nate Thurmond with 28 points. Since the Royals rely on speed rather thar rebounding strength, Thurmond and Jerry Lucas controlled the backboards with 40 rebounds between them.

Lucas chipped in 19 points and Joe Ellis added 20 on a variety of awesome jump

NHL West Stars Surprise East

BOSTON (UPI)—Holding a National Hockey League All-Star game in the wild and wooly confines of Boston Garden is a little like staging ballet in a saloon.

The Boston Bruin faithful like their hockey rough and tumble and when the NHL's ranking stars played it like a tea party, the fans walked out muttering.

It wasn't enough that the players, mindful of heavy upcoming schedules, passed up the body check in favor of an occasional hug. But when the upstart West Division beat the East, 2-1, the customers popped their corks.

"It was a good, clean hockey game, just what All-Star games should be," East Coach Harry Sinden and West Coach Scotty Bowman said in almost perfect unison afterward.

"No, we didn't need any more body checking than that," the veteran Bobby Hull said after popping in what proved to be the winning goal at 4:38 of the first period.

That was another thing that bugged the locals. All three goals in the game came in the first 6:19 of play. The last 53 minutes and 41 seconds were scoreless.

"It was a 40 foot, one and three-eighths inches shot," Hull joked of his clincher and fourth goal in All-Star competition. Bobby was hurrying off to join his brother, All-Star Dennis, and their parents who had flown in for the 24th annual mid-season showpiece.

The strangest aspect was that the East players, who scored 310 goals among them over the first half of the current season, managed only five shots on the West net and reserve goalie Ernie Wakely over the final 29:19 of play.

"They checked us pretty good," former Bruin coach Sinden said of the West squad. "There wasn't much forechecking or hitting but you can't expect it in a game like this. I think the lack of hitting points out what the game is all about. They should all be proud of themselves, I thought they put on a pleasing show."

Bowman was naturally elated over his first win against the NHL's version of the "Establishment," the East Division. Pointing out that his St. Louis teams had lost 12 straight games in the Stanley Cup finals and that his West squads had lost and tied in earlier All-Star competition, Bowman warned his players they'd get little help from him.

Victory For Marin Catholic

Jim Sullivan came across with nine clutch points in the final quarter last night as the Marin Catholic High School Wildcats turned a see-saw battle into a convincing, 83-73 victory over San Marin in a Marin County Athletic League basketball game in Kentfield.

The Wildcats, before a standing-room-only home town crowd, landed five men in double figures as they evened both their record and San Marin's at 2-2. Bill Donellan, the only senior in the starting five, led all scorers with 27 points, and Sullivan had 19.

With 1:05 left to go, Marin was up by only three points, but three foul shots by Steve Vanni and two crucial baskets by Sullivan assured them of the victory. Sullivan, who did not start but came off the bench in the second quarter, had put his team ahead for good with a jump shot from the corner.

San Marin, down by five at the end of the first quarter and two at the half, evened things up at the end of the third period. But in that third quarter their big center, 6-foot-8 Dana LaFerriere, suffered a sprained ankle, and, although he played with it heavily bandaged in the last period, he was not effective.

He did, however, lead the Mustangs from Novato with 19 points, while three of his teammates hit double figures. Phil Adams and Brad O'Riley provided 13 points apiece, and Mike Kassenbrack added 12.

Donellan's performance, his best of the year, will undoubtedly improve his position among the league's top scorers. He was sixth going into the game.

San Marin 15 20 20 18—73
Marin Catholic 20 18 17 28—83

San Marin — Adams, 4-5-13; Thompson, 3-1-7; O'Riley, 4-5-13; Kassenbrock, 5-2-12; Wright, 4-1-9; LaFerriere, 8-3-19; Totals — 28-17-73.

Marin Catholic — Sullivan, 8-3-19; Donellan, 10-7-27; Hurley, 2-9-13; Parnow, 1-1-3; T. Stone, 5-0-10; Vanni, 4-3-11; Totals — 31-21-83.

Cowboys' Protests Half Right?

DALLAS (UPI)—The post mortems were inconclusive, but it would appear that the Dallas Cowboys' vigorous protestations of two of the controversial calls in their 16-13 Super Bowl loss to Baltimore Sunday were half right and half wrong.

Careful scrutiny of a Dallas television station's stop-action, frame-by-frame movies of the disputed legality of the Johnny Unitas-to-Eddie Hinton-to-John Mackey 75-yard touchdown pass lends some credence to an official ruling that a Cowboy did get at least a fingertip on the ball, making the pass legal.

The Cowboys had maintained that no defensive player touched it and therefore the deflection from one offensive player to another made it illegal.

The movies show that cornerback Mel Renfro's extended hand was high enough to have touched the ball and that the ball seemed to change trajectory ever so slightly at about that point in flight.

But, a nine-frame sequence of pictures of Duane Thomas' goalline fumble, which was awarded to Baltimore on the dual claims of Bill Ray Smith and Jim Duncan that each of them recovered it, show very clearly that Dallas center Dave Manders recovered the ball and that no Baltimore player was in possession of it.

This is the play which Cowboys Coach Landry termed the turning point since it probably kept Dallas from taking a 20-6 lead and gave the Colts the momentum that Dallas had maintained to that point.

It would appear that line judge Jack Fette may have whistled the ball dead and ruled a Baltimore recovery while it still was up for grabs.

Terra Linda Upsets Tam Basketballers

Trojans Triumph By 54-52

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Terra Linda High School, which could not buy a basket against Redwood last Friday, struck it rich in Mill Valley last night.

Led by forward Joe Casteel, the Trojans upset the highly-ranked Tamalpais Indians, 54-52 before a standing-room-only crowd in the Indians' tiny gym in Mill Valley.

Terra Linda's inspired and undeniable effort, during which Casteel served as the catalyst both on offense and defense, knocked the Indians out of the Marin County Athletic League lead, and possibly out of the Bay Area's top 10. They were ranked fifth prior to last night's game.

Six times in the second half, Tam closed to within two points, but never tied it up, and in the end not even six points in the last half minute of play could save coach Bernie Schneider's boys.

Casteel, the defensive hero as he took the inside shot away from Tam's Will Garner and blocked several shots by other Indians, led the offense with 15 points. But he was by no means the only Trojan with the hot hand. Two teammates scored in double figures, Bill Berry and Bill LaHaye with 12 each, and Gordon Walker, the smallest man on the court, had eight.

Tam's attack was the product of two men — Garner, and John Earl Huff. Despite Casteel's great coverage, Garner got a game-high 23 points, and Huff hit for 21, including a futile 20-footer at the final buzzer. Other than that, Tam got only eight points, divided among four players.

Early in the game it looked as though the Indians might just blow the game open. They moved to a 7-2 lead, with five points by Huff and two by Garner. But the Trojans kept their cool, and in the opening moments of the second quarter

Redwood Crushes San Rafael Quint

Unceremoniously, but efficiently, the Redwood High School Giants rolled to their fourth Marin County Athletic League basketball victory in as many games yesterday, dumping San Rafael, 56-39 in Larkspur.

The win, coupled with Tam's loss to Terra Linda, gives the defending MCAL champion Giants sole possession of the league lead. Tam and Terra Linda are both a half-game back.

Scott Trobbe and Steve McGee, the league's second and third leading scorers going into the game, hit seven points apiece in the opening quarter as the Giants, almost without realizing it, stormed to an insurmountable, 23-4 lead over the winless Bulldogs. The 250 home town fans in attendance then sat back in confidence as Redwood's second team mopped up.

The quality and pace of the game deteriorated markedly, however, when the Giant frontlines retired to the bench; in the second quarter only 15 points were scored by both teams. But at least San Rafael improved its lot, scoring nine of those points. At halftime the score was 29-13.

Trobbe and McGee, both 6-foot-6, came back in the second half to help their own statistics, and ended up tied for game honors with 13 each. The only other player to hit double figures was San Rafael's Gregg Goodall, who scored 10.

When their big men were out of there, the Giants relied on Dave Tikker, Sam Farb and Tim Hennessey, who collected nine, seven and six points respectively.

San Rafael 4 9 9 17 - 39
Redwood 23 6 9 18 - 56

San Rafael — Molinari, 2-2-6; Thorne, 3-0-6; Swift, 1-0-2; Wright, 1-0-2; Goodall, 4-2-10; Farrar, 2-5-9; B. Lechner, 1-0-2; Kristensen, 1-0-2; Totals — 15-9-39.

Redwood — Farb, 2-3-7; Connor, 2-0-4; Hennessey, 2-2-6; Hagler, 0-2-2; Tikker, 3-3-9; Pedlar, 1-0-2; Trobbe, 6-1-13; McGee, 5-3-13; Totals — 21-14-56.

Novato's DeMaestri Has Red-Hot Night

Joe DeMaestri put on one of the greatest shooting exhibitions in the history of the Marin County Athletic League last night to lift the Novato High School Hornets to their first league win of the year, 67-38 over Drake in Novato.

Despite the disparity in the point spread, the two teams now are tied for fourth place in the MCAL with identical 1-3 records. The Hornets had run into three tough clubs — Redwood, Tamalpais and San Marin, before breathing easy with the San Anselmo club.

DeMaestri, the league's leading scorer, was picture perfect with his 20-foot set shot as he scored 29 points — high for a league game so far this season. But the astounding thing is that 19 of those points came in the first quarter.

He scored Novato's first 11 points, 17 of the first 19, and 19 of the quarter total of 24. The hapless Pirates, who tried every kind of defense short of kidnapping to contain the fabulous guard, only got 11 in that time, and were never a factor afterwards.

The Pirates, however, might have established a record of sorts themselves. Somehow they managed to divide their meager scoring total among 12 different players. That averages out to little more than three points per man. Jit Singh was high with nine.

Marty Moroski, Novato's other player among the top 10 scorers in the league, connected for 13 to back up the erstwhile DeMaestri.

Drake — Forni, 1-4-6; Gregg, 1-1-3; Foster, 0-1-1; Purcell, 1-0-2; Twitchell, 0-1-1; Singh, 3-3-9; Wilkinson, 1-0-2; Carlisle, 1-2; Daubenfeld, 2-0-4; Harnsbergerl-0-Young, 2-0-4; Gomez, 1-0-2; Totals — 14-10-38.

Novato — Larman, 2-2-6; Moroski, 5-13; Crozier, 0-3-3; DeMaestri, 12-5-29; Rowe, 2-2-6; Lowney, 1-0-2; Traub, 3-2-8; Totals — 25-17-67.

Cosell, Meridith At Touchdown Club

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)- Howard Cosell and Don Meredith, who air the "NFL Monday Night Football" program on the ABC network, will handle the master of ceremony duties at the 16th annual Touchdown Club dinner here Feb. 1 honoring outstanding sports figures.

The sportscasters were lined up when Tom Harmon was forced to cancel his assignment at the honors dinner.

49er Tickets Are Going Fast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Forty Niners are almost sold out for the 1971 football season at Candlestick Park.

This is both because ticket applications are up and the capacity of Candlestick Park will be 45,000, and 2,000 of those seats will go to junior 49ers and complimentary ticket holders. Kezar Stadium, abandoned by the prospectors this year, held 59,000.

But the Forty Niners said Tuesday that they had about 36,000 season ticket applications, including 15,000 new ones.

Namath Gets Okay For 1971

NEW YORK (UPI) —The New York Jets' team physician said Tuesday that Joe Namath should be able to play in the 1971 season.

Dr. James Nicholas said that X-rays of Namath's broken wrist revealed the main fracture had healed.

The doctor said that he will keep the cast on until late February for precautionary reasons to restrain use of the hand and protect it from re-injury.

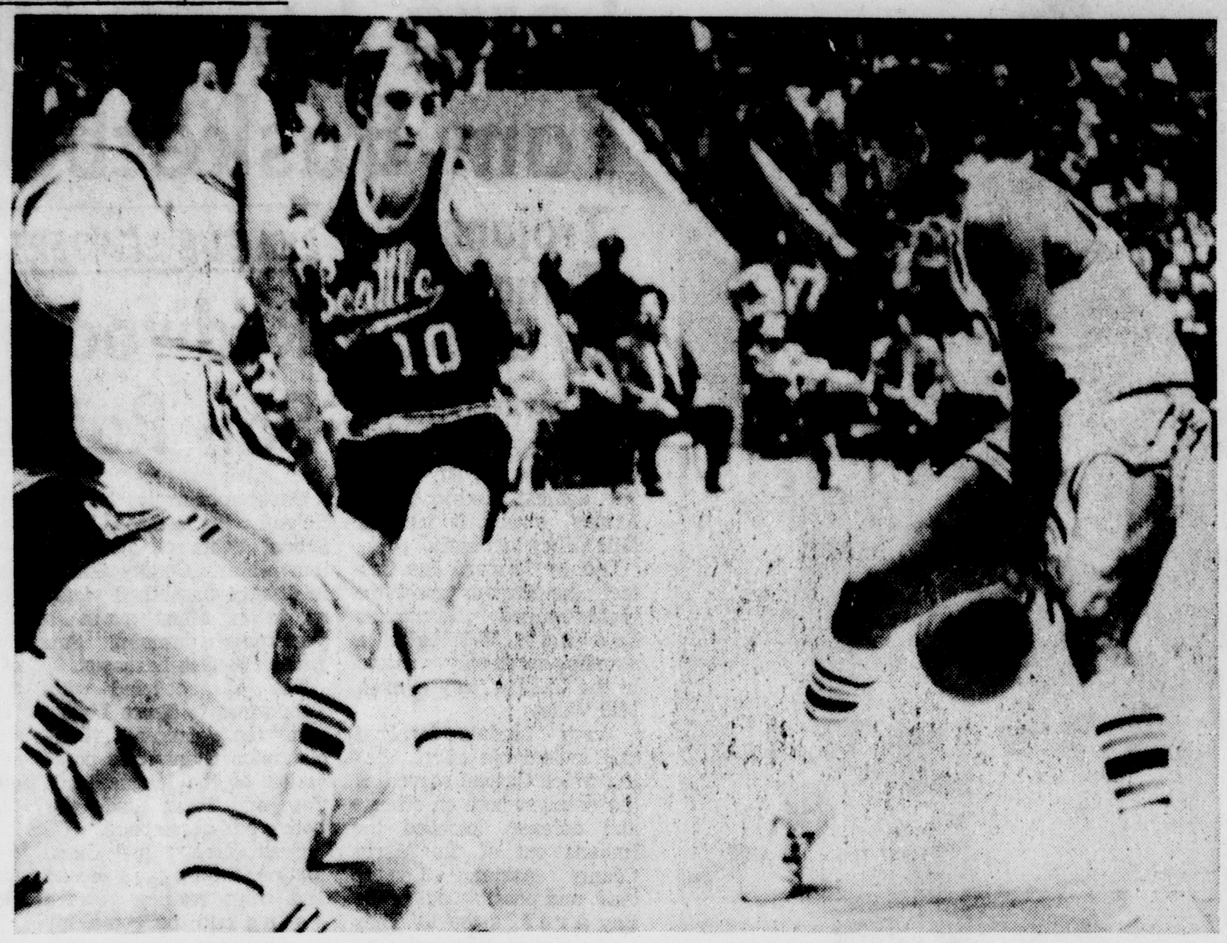
Dr. Nicholas added, "he should have no difficulty and should be able to play next year. After we take off the cast it will take six weeks to remobilize it and he should be able to begin throwing in April."

Namath said he would leave for Florida in a few days where he will exercise by playing golf. He also said he planned to take up tennis—lefthanded.

"My wrist doesn't bother me at all and doesn't give me any pain," Namath said, "also, my right knee feels better than it has in a long time. I've been lifting weights with it and it feels much stronger."

Namath suffered the injury on Oct. 18 when he was hit late in the fourth quarter by Billy Ray Smith of Baltimore. Namath was sidelined for the rest of the season and the Jets struggled to a 4-10 record with Al Woodall quarterbacking the club.

If Namath returns, the Jets expect to be a contender in the Eastern Division of the American Football Conference.



FANCY SCHMANCY — Jimmy Walker of the Detroit Pistons showed Seattle's Dick Snyder (10) some fancy ball handling last night in the first quarter of a National Basketball Association game in Detroit. The Pistons won, 106-102, despite the fact that the Sonics had the full time services of controversial Spencer Haywood. (UPI Telephoto)

NHL Will Unload Penguins

BOSTON (UPI)--The National Hockey League, which has been guaranteeing the Pittsburgh Penguins' credit since last Dec. 1, plans to sell the financially troubled franchise by next June to one of four Pittsburgh buyers.

League President Clarence Campbell made that announcement following a series of NHL Board of Governors meetings held over the past two days in connection with the annual All-Star game.

Campbell said the Penguins' attendance had jumped 58 per cent from last year and that the club was currently operating profitably though an outstanding debt of $5.7 million was not being paid off.

The league president said four individuals or groups from Pittsburgh would study the Penguins financial status before making their offers and added that the league was seeking the best offer but was not entertaining bids from other cities.

Campbell also said that there will be no further NHL expansion before 1973-74 and that franchise transfers prior to that time were extremely unlikely since the present rules require unanimous consent for a shift. After that date, transfers can be accomplished by obtaining a simple majority of the Board of Governors.

French Continue Skiing Domination

SCHRUNS, Austria (UPI)—French World Cup holder Michele Jacot streaked away today with the opening downhill event of the classic Golden Key Women's ski meet to continue France's near monopoly of Alpine ski honors this season.

Miss Jacot, 19, from Chamonix, hurtled down the 2,519 meter track with 27 gates over a drop of 620 meters in 2:01.54 ahead of her long-legged teammate Francoise Macchi who was clocked 2:02.34 minutes.

Two Austrian girls, Wiltrud Dreyel and Annemarie Proell, placed third and fourth to underline the continuing strength of the Austrian ski team.

But the powerful French team took also the fifth and sixth ranks and placed a total of six girls among the top ten.

"It was a perfect run—I could not have raced better," said Miss Jacot after her victory. "I liked the course because it was rather like a giant slalom than a downhill."

Miss Jacot took the demanding track without a hitch and demonstrated spectacular skill along the winding course.

The victory also helped Miss Jacot's chances of defending the World Cup trophy she won last year. Miss Jacot retained her overall World Cup lead and the French girls have a virtually unbeatable lead in the team ratings.

Third place Wiltrud Drefel, who was clocked best intermediate time at the halfway mark, said "I lost the race on the lower part because I took the bends too wide."

Miss Drexel said she was "not too satisfied" with her third place finish because "it is about time to stop this almost permanent winning streak of our French rivals." "It is more and more getting a nightmare," the Austrian downhill specialist added.

From the U.S. team, only Marilyn Cochran of Richmond, Vermont, bronze medalist in last year's world championships, cracked the top ten. She placed eighth in 2:04.72 while her sister Barbara came 14th with a 2:06.05 clocking.

"I lost all hope shortly after the start when I failed to take some of the early bends properly," Barbara said.

Judy Crawford of Canada was 15th in 2:06.26.

Organizers had to move the downhill track from one side of the Montafon Valley to opposite and higher slopes at an additional expense of $6,000 because of snow shortage.

"The track was in perfect condition and the organizers did a great job," Miss Jacot said.

they had the lead for good. In the second period they outscored the home team, 18-8 and were in command the rest of the way.

Tam's aborted rallies closed the score at times to 31-29, 38-36, 43-41 and 47-45. But each time somebody different put on the hero's mantel for Terra Linda, and scored a clutch basket.

Garner sparked a last ditch try, after the Trojans held the ball and a seven-point lead with a minute to go. The 6-foot-3 center hit two layups, the first with 25 seconds left, the second with nine. But Terra Linda still led by four when Tam got the ball back with five seconds on the clock via a traveling turnover. Huff's last second shot only servedto symbolize Tam's frustration.

Tam and Terra Linda now share second place with 3-1 records, a half game behind undefeated Redwood.

A RETURN TO DETROIT

Good To Be Back Says Mr. Haywood

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

"It's good to come back and play," Spencer Haywood said.

The Detroit Pistons enjoyed it too. . . perhaps a bit more than Haywood, who returned to his adopted hometown Tuesday night and made his most impressive performance as a member of the National Basketball Association with 24 points and 20 rebounds. It was his first start and he played 46 minutes.

The Pistons beat Haywood and the rest of the Seattle Supersonics 106-102 for their fifth straight win.

"It's a dream come true," the 21-year-old Haywood said of his basketball return to the city where he made All-American as a sophomore at the University of Detroit before the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association turned him pro.

The Pistons, like every other NBA team which has faced the Sonics in Haywood's six games in the lineup, protested the contest at the start —but likely will drop the protest following the win. The NBA contends Haywood can't play because his college class doesn't graduate until this June.

In other NBA games Cleveland topped Buffalo 111-79; New York edged San Diego 117-113 in overtime; Chicago defeated Portland 123-111; Los Angeles tripped Philadelphia 134-114; and San Francisco beat Cincinnati 16-108.

"He's strong," Detroit Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff said of Haywood. "He rebounds well and he's got great hands. He won't have any trouble adjusting.

"A game's a game. You've got a few plays, but primarily it's just beating your man," he said.

"Things are going a little better on the court," Haywood said. " Two weeks ago when I came into the league I wasn't in shape. As far as shooting and rebounding is concerned I'm probably at my best right now."

Dave Bing scored eight of his game-high 27 points in the last 3:58 and Bob Lanier tallied six of his 19 in that stretch to bring Detroit from a 94-92 deficit to its win. Len Wilkens backed Haywood with 22 points.

The Cavaliers scored their fifth victory in eight games with the Braves as Cleveland has captured only seven wins all season. John Johnson led the way with 24 points and Bobby Smith had 22.

Mike Riordan netted all six of his points in the extra session for the Knicks as New York snapped a four-game losing streak. Bill Bradley had 27 points, Walt Frazier 24 and Willis Reed 21 to offset 29 points from the Rockets' Elvin Hayes, 27 by Stu Lantz and 23 by Calpin Murphy.

Chet Walker's 32 points and 27 by Jerry Sloan enabled the Bulls to stampede by the Trail Blazers. Leroy Ellis and rookie Geoff Petrie put in 27 and 26 for the losers.

Jerry West scored 33 points and teammate Keith Erickson tallied a season high of 29 to pace Los Angeles. Archie Clark of the 76ers led all scorers with 38.

Van Arsdale gunned in 14 of 22 field goal tries on his way to 30 points. The 36-year-old Green added 21.

The Warriors, now 27-23, return to action Friday night in Los Angeles to battle the Lakers for first place in the Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association.

Bill Turner, a 6-foot 7-inch forward signed as a free agent last week, is expected to suit up for the Lakers game. The Warriors' number two draft pick four years ago, he was swapped to the Royals last year.

He was due to play last night, but his contract was not received by the commissioner's office in time to allow him to play.

Drugs Didn't Cause Death Of Liston

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston had traces of morphine and codeine in his body when he died of natural causes, according to the Clark County coroner, but they were "not in sufficient amounts" to be a cause of death.

Coroner Mark Herman ruled Tuesday that Liston died of lung congestion brought on by a poor oxygen and nutrient blood supply to the heart muscles.

"The autopsy and microscopic and toxicological examinations failed to provide an exact cause of the shortage of nutrient blood and oxygen to heart muscles," he said.

The coroner said the amounts of morphine and codeine found in the tissues corresponded to the amounts which would normally result from a breakdown of heroin in the body.

Petaluma Prep Cagers In Romp

Dave Thomas hit nine of 11 shots from the floor and 20 points last night to help the Petaluma High School Trojans to a 74-50 North Bay I League basketball win over Hogan of Vallejo.

The Trojans came out shooting and rolled up a 30-9, first quarter lead to insure the victory, which gives them sole possession of the league lead. Santa Rosa, idle last night, has one less win.

Thomas, who had his first really fine effort of the campaign, got strong support from Joe Rodola, with 19 points, and Tom Williams with 16. Hogan was led by Mark Lowe's 18 points.

New Game Birds For California

EUREKA (UPI)—A request to stock three new species of nonresident game birds in California has been approved by the state Fish and Game Commission.

The application approved Tuesday came from the state Fish and Game Department. It said the birds it wanted to obtain for stocking were the white-tailed ptarmigan from Colorado, the Idaho ruffed grouse from Utah and the Woodcock from Louisiana.

DFG officials said negotiations were under way with the three states for a bird exchange program.

Pro Bowl Game Is Ill Timed

"Forget Football." So said the big sign that was posted in press headquarters of golf writers at the Bing Crosby tournament. The writers chuckled as they tuned in the Super Bowl on a color set. There would be plenty of time to catch the decisive action on the golf course and still see the Super Bowl.

When the Super Bowl went down to the final seconds and a sudden death playoff of a 13-13 tie seemed quite likely, the conscientious fellows among the writers stirred uncomfortably. Roolie Jim O'Brien's tie-breaking field goal in the final seconds relieved the strain on upright consciences. And the writers charged with the responsibility of providing spot coverage dutifully strolled to the scene of action on Pebble Beach.

GOLF WRITERS are football writers with their sleeves rolled up. Football writers are baseball writers wearing top coats. It's a rare sports writer who covers one sport exclusively. And it's a rare fan who has interest in only one sport.

Nevertheless, the "Forget Football" sign in the Pebble Beach press room was not entirely without merit even though its sudden appearance before the Super Bowl was ill-timed. It was somewhat like a "Forget Baseball" sign at World Series time.

THE WORLD Series does end the baseball season. The super Bowl should end the football season but it doesn't. There still is the Pro Bowl next Sunday, an anti-climactic affair with which football is saddled. Baseball's handling of its all-Star Game is much more sensible. Furthermore, the All-Star Game in midseason give baseball players a welcome break in their long schedule. Why not handle the Pro Bowl the same way?

Pete Rozelle unquestionably has given considerable thought to the anti-climatic timing of the Pro Bowl game. Being a very smart fellow, Rozelle doesn't have to be reminded of such things. Since 1960, when he became football commissioner, Rozelle has accomplished much for owners, players and, yes, even commercial sponsors willing to pay as much as $200,000 for a one-minute TV spot during the Super Bowl.

ROZELLE HAS solved problems much more difficult than proper scheduling of the Pro Bowl game. But he would have to be stupid not to recognize its present improper scheduling following the Super Bowl. And Rozelle is anything but stupid.

Rozelle readily recognizes situations that lack propriety or suitability and he usually does something about them. So he may be expected to do something about the timing of the Pro Bowl game. Maybe midseason scheduling of the game wouldn't work as smoothly for football as the All-Star game does for baseball.

But Rozelle will think of something so that the Super Bowl brings down the curtain on the football season.

Courts Ruined In Protest

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI)—Anti-apartheid protestors today dug up sections of three of the turfed center courts at Kooyong Stadium in protest against participation of two South African girls playing in the Victorian tennis championships.

The girls, Laura Roussow and Brenda Kirk, will compete in the tournament which begins Saturday.

The demonstrators poured oil, gasoline and paint over the courts and badly mutilated the courts with picks and shovels.

Secretary of the Victorian Lawn Tennis Association, Alex Aitcheson, said the damage was very extensice.

"I can't think of anyone who could be so low as to do a thing like this," Aitcheson said.

He said he could not tell now whether the courts could be repaired in time for the tournament.

The protestors painted slogans like "smash apartheid," "smash racism," around the back drops of the courts.

In Sydney last week, protestors booed and jeered Misses Kirk and Roussow during the New South Wales tournament.

There's Need For Study On Subject Of Deer Herds

By LANCE D. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Although wildlife plans for California's deer herds have been talked about during the past decade, very little has been done to provide a workable long-range plan which will satisfy the annually increasing hunter pressure on these favored targets.

The Department of Fish and Game, the Fish and Game Commission, through the State Legislature, have the power to activate a comprehensive plan, but most of the deer habitat is on federal lands, managed by the Bureau of Land Management.

Studies have been made by nearly all of the concerned parties over the years, but no interagency plans have been developed with a look into the 21st Century, much less the next decade.

Many of the factors relating to deer management are known, but one which may have to be looked into to satisfy the future needs of California's deer hunters is some form of a "put and take" system, currently used by bird hunters, and most extensively by fishermen.

Some say that deer are too sensitive to be propagated with a plan for maximum survival, and that hunters are even now not doing their jobs in keeping the herds down to optimum levels.

But there are so many possibilities that have been unstudied and unexplored, and it is apparent from the under-ten-per cent hunter success that something will have to be done if deer hunting is to remain a viable sport.

The "put and take" system may not be the final answer, and it is quite conceivable that any final version of it would be so modified that it would not even resemble anything now in existence.

But with the state and federal government owning nearly 50 per cent of the land in California, it seems reasonable that some cooperative form of management could be arranged that would provide optimum habitat for deer herds.

It is known that reservoirs, roads, graze leases, burnoffs, brush removal and a myriad other hazards have taken their toll on California's deer population. It is also known that the healthiest herds are the ones which are the "right size" for their particular surroundings.

Needed desperately is a comprehensive study of these various problems — not just a study which will restate the problems, but one which will answer them and set up pilot projects which will answer the needs of the years ahead.

Tough Job Ahead For Donald Smith

SEATTLE (UPI) —A 40-year-old black public relations expert and former sports writer has accepted the tough assignment of solving charges of racism against the University of Washington Athletic Department.

He is Donald K. Smith, formerly with the Seattle Times and now a press relations supervisor for American Telephone and Telegraph Co. in New York.

Officially, Smith will have the title of assistant director of sports programs when he returns to Seattle in about a month.

His appointment Tuesday fulfills one of the mandates of a special committee of the university's Board of Regents. The committee also had called for the hiring of a black assistant football coach. Former fullback Ray Jackson was named to that post Jan. 4.

Neither Smith nor Jackson, a member of the Huskies 1959 and 1960 Rose Bowl teams, come to their new jobs with wholehearted community support.

Only a week ago, a coalition of about 40 black organizations demanded the firing of head football coach Jim Owens and sports director Joe Kearney. Tuesday morning's edition of the University Daily called for Owens' ouster in a front page editorial.

The most recent charges of racism, which came to a head when four black football players quit, have yet to be detailed for the public.

At New York, Smith said the firing of Owens or Kearney wasn't going to solve the charges of racism.

"The situation goes much deeper than that—the situation in the athletic department is no different from that which exists in society," he said. "I can't do anything to bring the blacks back into the program. The blacks will return only when they are assured that they will be given an equal opportunity."

Smith, a 1959 Iowa State University graduate, said he could understand both the "pain of being black" and the bitterness of whites "who are rebuffed when they feel they are doing what they think is right."

Buffalo Officials Abandon Plans For Domed Stadium

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—The Erie County Legislature, in a last-ditch effort to retain the Buffalo Bills, abandoned its efforts to build a domed stadium Tuesday and moved toward consideration of an open stadium to house the National Football League team.

But the legislature faced legal complications as it changed directions.

Domed Stadium Inc. (DSI), the private enterprise firm seeking to operate the dome, was expected to file a lawsuit against the county.

Victor T. Fuzak, attorney for DSI, said he would hold a news conference today in his law offices.

The legislators voted 11-9 to terminate their agreement with DSI for construction of a $50 million stadium on suburban Lancaster property donated by the firm.

DSI maintains the county is bound by an Aug. 5, 1969 contract to build a dome. It's suit seeks a judgment forcing the county to build a stadium or pay $90 million in real and punitive damages.

Ralph C. Wilson, Jr., owner of the Bills, was the principle topic of conversation during the 90-minutes of legislative debate preceding Tuesday's action.

Wilson announced one week earlier that he was actively seeking a new home for the Bills because of inaction by the county on the stadium project.

"We started out (on the stadium project) to build a stadium for Ralph Wilson," Democrat Joseph A. Taurielo said during the floor debate. "Are we going to lose the Bills or are we going to retain them?"

Republican Seth A. Abbott, who has opposed the Lancaster dome, said Wilson would "not stick his neck out" and keep the Bills in Buffalo without a firm commitment to an open stadium seating 70,000 or more.

Bonavena Suffers Hurt Wrist

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Oscar Bonavena's Feb. 12 bout with former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson may be postponed as a result of a sprained left wrist suffered by the Argentine strong man.

Bonavena's handlers announced Tuesday that the stocky mauler suffered the sprain while working out on the heavy bag. They said Bonavena will have to keep the wrist in a short cast for two weeks and that a more definite statement on his condition might be made Wednesday."

"I was working on the bag," said Bonavena, who recently suffered a 15-round technical knockout at the hands of Cassius Clay and who previously lost two decisions to heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, "I hit it with a quick hard right and when it came back I hit it with a left. It was a terrible pain."

The bout, scheduled for Madison Square Garden, was postponed previously because doctors suspected that Bonavena suffered a slight concussion during the bout with Clay.

Seals To Host The Penguins

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Seals, a little healthier now after the All-Star game break, will still be trying to climb out of the National Hockey League Western Division cellar when they host the Pittsburgh Penguins tonight.

The Penguins are two spots and 7 points ahead of the Seals. Pittsburgh, which has beaten the Seals twice this season without a loss, has only allowed the California team two goals.

Seals coach Fred Glover said defenseman Wayne Muloin, who dressed but did not play Sunday against Vancouver, has recovered from a pinched muscle and "will be ready to go" tonight.

Defensemen are still the sore point for the Seals, however, with Carol Vadnais still out with a broken thumb and Harry Howell still out since early last month with a back injury.

Rancho Cotate Quintet Wins

The Rancho Cotate High School Cougars rode the strong shoulders of 6-foot-8 center Ron Seiler to a 66-46 North Bay II League basketball victory over Analy last night in Rohnert Park.

Seiler bagged 20 points, 10 of them in the fourth quarter as the Cougars won their second league game in five outings. He got able assistance from Steve Wlodarczyk, the second highest scorer in the game with 13 points.

Top Scorer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Don Hutson, a two-way performer during his 1935-1945 career with the Packers, scored 100 touchdowns on forward passes, an all-time National Football League record, reports the Rheingold Sports Bureau. Tommy McDonald's total of 84 is closest to the Green Bay star in the record books.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Winning The Rubber May Not Look Plucky, But Some Appeal

If you watch a plucky player at the bridge table, you can learn something from the way he puts a card on the table. For example, he'll carefully avoid wincing when he knows he's going to be overruffed. A plucky player should not show pain or fear. There's a great lesson to be learned from this, as you'll see from today's hand.

Opening lead -- ♡ J

WEST WINS

West led the jack of hearts, winning the first trick. He continued with the seven of hearts, and East won with the queen. East then led the ace of hearts, and South had the chance to show his pluck.

DIDN'T WINCE

South knew he was going to be overruffed, but he didn't wince. He ruffed the third heart with the queen of spades and managed to look unmoved when West overruffed with the king of spades. "Good show, and all that sort of rot," by Uncle Throckmorton would have remarked if he had been at the table.

South eventually lost a club trick and was down one. East bid and made a slam on the next hand, so South lost a big rubber instead of winning a rubber of normal size.

NOTHING HEROIC

The lesson to be learned from South's display of courage is that there's nothing heroic about making a dumb play. When East leads the ace of hearts at the third trick South should discard a club instead of ruffing.

This costs nothing because South is almost sure to lose a club trick sooner or later in any case. South's main chance to make his contract is to find the king of spades in the West hand. If South discards a club at the third trick, he can later take a spade finesse through West and win the game and rubber when that finesse succeeds.

Winning the rubber may not look very plucky, but it has its appeal.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ - Q 10 9 8 7 4 3
♥ - 5 3
♦ - A
♣ - K 9 5.
What do you say?
ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not quite worth an opening bid of one spade and is not suitable for a shutout bid of three spades. Avoid shutout bids when you have substantial strength outside of your long suit.

Man Pleads Innocent In Tools Theft

A preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 28.

He was arrested at his home Jan. 8 by Novato police who said he had hand tools stolen several days earlier from a San Anselmo Service Station.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Volatile Shares Mark GAC Risk

By ROGER SPEAR

Q. I rencently purchased shares of General Acceptance Corp. and would greatly appreciate your opinion on company prospects. — C. L.

A. GAC Corp., formed in 1968 as a holding company to succeed General Acceptance, is highly speculative and suitable only if you can afford to assume high risk. In 1969 the company acquired Gulf American Corp., now operating as GAC Properties Division, a move which greatly altered the main thrust of the company's business.

Land development activities now account for about two-thirds of net income, with finance and insurance operations contributing most of the remainder. While GAC is actively seeking a buyer for its deficit-ridden manufacturing division, thus far the search has been unsuccessful. For the first 9 months of 1970 revenues increased 18.8 per cent, but a sharp drop in third quarter net reduced nine months earnings 43 per cent below year-earlier results.

Shares are highly leveraged, with heavy dividend and interest charges from more than $75 million in preferred stock and $367 million in parent and subsidiary long term debt. Because much of this senior capitalization is convertible, common share earnings have a substantial dilution factor.

After an expected dividend cut failed to materialize and GAC Properties successfully marketed $50 million in 12 per cent short-term notes, shares recovered an impressive 50 per cent from the 1970 low. Volatile price action which has characterized GAC shares since formation in 1968 can be expected to continue.

Q. Are there any restrictions on whom can be named custodian or what stocks I can give to my minor grandchildren? — G. B.

A. All states accept the donor, an adult member of the minor's family or the minor's guardian as custodian for gifts of registered securities. Also eligible in certain states is a trust company or any adult.

Any registered securities, including mutual fund shares are allowed under the Uniform Gift to Minors, Act and revisions thereof, unless the donor is the issuer. Your lawyer is best qualified to explain the particulars of the law as practiced in your state.

Prices On Firm Side Near Close

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices were firm in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange late today.

With less than an hour remaining, advances were leading declines by 200 issues. The Dow Jones Industrial Average, the blue chip barometer, was up 0.07 to 849.54. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index gained 0.02 at 93.78.

A four hour volume of 13,970,000 shares compared with 11,800,000 shares traded at a comparable period yesterday.

"It's predominantly an institutional market," one analyst commented. " "The institutions are more attuned to money market conditions than the public, and easier money is precisely what has been fueling demand for stocks since last November."

Fred Anschell of Shearson, Hammill & Co. noted that the list is entitled to some kind of consolidation, but he said he didn't think it would be too steep.

Anschell said the market doesn't need much news to move forward, but he added "increased consumer spending will be an important ingredient" if the stock market is to sustain its uptrend. Economists have pointed out that a step-up in consumer spending is needed to get the economy moving again.

Harry Laubscher, analyst for Walston & Co., looked for a near-term downward correction. However, he said he was optimistic for the long-term because of lower interest rates and indications that major industries, such as home building, automotive and steel, will show improvement in 1971.

Among the big board's most active issues were Pittston Co., which traded two 199,000-share blocks at 42½, off 1¾; Kroger Co.; General Public Utilities (trading ex-dividend); Scott Paper; Niagar Mohawk Power; and Trans-World Airlines.

FORT HUACHUCHA, Ariz. (UPI) — Federal Electric Corp. has been granted an $11,200,222 one-year Army contract to operate and maintain the Integrated Communications System in Vietnam. The contract calls for maintenance of support facilities and operation of about 70 communications sites.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Once In A Lifetime Chance: Capital Gain Exclusion At 65

A taxpayer 65 years old or over can exclude any capital gain in the first $20,000 of the sales price of his personal residence if he has owned and actually used it as his principal place of residence for at least five out of the last eight years.

If the sales price is $20,000 or less, you can exclude all the capital gain.

If the sales price is more than $20,000 you can exclude only the proportionate share of the gain that the adjusted sales price bears to $20,000.

This is a once in a lifetime exclusion. You cannot claim it more than once. Both husband and wife will satisfy the age, ownership and use requirements where one of them satisfies such requirements for a residence they own as joint tenants, tenants by the entirety, or community property, and they file a joint return.

A widow or widower over 65 years old, whose deceased spouse met the ownership and use requirements and who had not made an election under this provision, may make an election under this exclusion of gain provision.

Community apartment stockholders who are entitled to a house or apartment because of such stock ownership can make an election when they sell their stock.

If a house is used partially for a personal residence and partially for business, only the gain on that part of the house used as a personal residence can be excluded.

Destruction, theft, seizure, requisition or condemnation of a personal residence is treated as the sale of such property. Any gain realized from such involuntary conversion will qualify.

If your residence is sold and the selling price is over $20,000 and you have a profit and within one year before or one year after the sale you purchase a new residence, you might be able to use both the above and the provisions of Section 1034 relating to the deferral of gain on the sale ofthe residence so that you pay no tax at this time.

If your residence is involuntarily converted or sold or exchanged, any gain can be reduced by the above exclusion. The amount of the excluded gain will decrease your basis in your newly acquired residence however.

Aluminum Industry Sets New Records

NEW YORK (UPI) — The aluminum industry set new annual, quarterly and monthly production records in 1970 despite output curbs announced by some producers in the latter part of the year to bring supply in line with demand.

Production by the nation's 11 primary producers poured a record 3,976,148 tons in 1970, up about 5 per cent from 1969. Fourth quarter production rose to a record 1,004,936 tons, the first million-ton quarter in the industry's history, from 993,222 tons in the third quarter and 977,738 tons in the final 1969 period.
